G.O.P. PRESIDENT AFTER 1936 SEEN AS PROBABILITY

3d, Maybe 4th, Party Still on Horizon.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4. — [Special.]—Election of the Republican candidate for President next year is now generally considered well within the range of possibilities.

Time was when President Roosevelt was regarded unbeatable by everybody save the most stiff-necked Republicans. Hardly anybody thought it possible to defeat a President backed by the largest army of office holders in all Christendom, with 4 billion dollars to distribute through Democratic politicians for relief of the unemployed, and with a fifth of the population existing on the bounty of the government, with gratitude therefor sedulously cultivated by the party in power.

Situation Different Now.

But the situation looks a lot different now. By his radicalism, by his antagonism to business, by his disparaging attitude toward the Supreme court, and by his moves toward a centralization of government that would extinguish state rights, the President has split his own party, with consequences that are at present incalculable.

Of late he has been repulsed repeatedly in both houses of congress as the result of defections from the two-thirds Democratic majority in each chamber. Sometimes, as in the first house vote on the holding company "death sentence," in the senate votes on the AAA amendments and the banking bill, and in the ways and means committee on the tax bill, a majority of the Democrats has deserted the President. Altogether Democratic sentiment for the New Deal is at a low ebb in congress.

There is now every indication that the breach in the Democratic party over the New Deal will widen and influence profoundly the 1936 election. The present prospect is that the conservative Democrats will bolt the renomination of the President, organize an independent party and nominate their own ticket. It also is not unlikely that Huey Long and other ultra-radical Democrats will break off into a fourth party.

Neither Expects a Victory.

Neither the conservative nor the ultra-radical Democrats would expect to elect their candidate for President. But it is wholly conceivable that they could draw a sufficient number of votes away from Mr. Roosevelt to compass the election of the Republican nominee. An alternative result might be the failure of any candidate to receive a majority of the electoral votes, whereupon the election would be thrown into the house to be chosen next year.

For a time Bainbridge Colby, Wilson's secretary of state; former Chief Justice Pattangall of the Maine Supreme court, and other leaders of the conservative Democratic faction were maneuvering for a coalition with the Republicans. They suggested that the G. O. P. abandon the name "Republican" and join with the conservative Democrats in organizing a new party to be called "Constitutional" with a ticket composed of a Republican for President and a Democrat for Vice President or vice versa.

Many Democrats, particularly southern Democrats, they contended, would be unable to bring themselves to vote an undisguised Republican ticket, even to beat Mr. Roosevelt. Some Republicans fell in with this idea and talked of a coalition party under a new name with a Republican for President and a Democrat, such as Carter Glass of Virginia or Lewis Douglas, former budget director, for Vice President.

Then Party Takes Heart.

But that movement came to naught as the result of two developments. One was the Grass Roots Republican conference at Springfield, Ill., which stirred a new pride of party and a new militancy that banished all thought of sacrificing the historic name or of effecting a coalition with the conservative Democrats in the interest of expediency. The other was the jolts given the New Deal by the Supreme court decisions, the coldness with which the country received the President's proposal of a change in the form of government, and other evidence of Mr. Roosevelt's declining popularity.

Repulsed by the Republicans, the leaders of the conservative Democrats have now fallen back on the plan to organize a party of their own, to be called the American Democratic or the Constitutional Democratic or the Jeffersonian Democratic.

One suggestion that finds wide-

BRIDE RETURNS BY AIR; WARNED BY PROSECUTOR

Mandeville W. Zenge, a tall, swarthy Missouri farm boy, and Mrs. Louise Schaffer Bauer, the girl who jilted him after he had purchased a wedding ring for her, met face to face last night in the state's attorney's office.

They had been brought together by investigators who hoped that the sight of his old sweetheart would break the tremendous calm of the 26 year old Zenge and make him confess that he was the man who killed her bridegroom, Dr. Walter J. Bauer of Kirksville, Mo., by a brutal mutilation in Chicago early last Wednesday.

Widowed Bride Pale and Wan.

Mrs. Bauer, who had hurried here by airplane from Cleveland, where she attended the funeral of her slain husband on Saturday, appeared ill and shaken as she was led into the room where her one time lover, manacled and unshaven, sat with his eyes half closed. She was all in white, and as the light was refracted from her costume when she entered the room Zenge looked up.

"Hello, Louise," he said, tonelessly.

The widow halted. She seemed almost bewildered as she looked again upon the man to whom she had been engaged for two years, the man the prosecutors want to send—with her aid— to the electric chair. She did not speak.

Strange, Dramatic Scene.

It was a strange scene, with the adamant farm boy, whose persistence in denial of guilt has all but worn out his questioners in three days, sitting quietly and looking at the girl in a detached manner, and with Mrs. Bauer, her hands moving convulsively and her face pale and worn, gazing at him—not with horror, but with something resembling curiosity, a gaze such as a child might cast upon some object that he had never conceived possible.

At the end of perhaps five minutes Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty, who had stood in the background, invited Mrs. Bauer to have a chair. She sat down and, with an obvious effort, uttered a faint "Hello."

Returns Greeting Faintly.

"How's everything in Kirksville?" asked Zenge slowly.

Mrs. Bauer replied briefly that she guessed everything was all right.

Mr. Dougherty, who had been sitting near the pair, left after a few minutes and walked into an adjoining room. Only a single policeman, with his ears wide open but his eyes turned away, remained close to the man and the woman.

Neither mentioned Dr. Bauer, the one time professor of chemistry at the Kirksville College of Osteopathy and Surgery, the husband who had left his bride a few hours after they were wed on July 14, the man who died to satisfy a savage revenge.

Long past the stroke of midnight the one time lovers sat, talking, when they talked at all, in monosyllables and of trivialities. The interview was not going as the investigators had hoped and at length they separated the couple.

Widow Quizzed Separately.

Mrs. Bauer was taken into Mr. Dougherty's office and questioned further about the events in Kirksville and in Canton, Mo., the home town of Zenge, before and after her marriage. Her statement is to be used in the building up of the motive that is assigned to the accused man.

Zenge, in his chair, taciturn and unmoved, listened to more questions and gave evasive answers. After a few hours of this Assistant State's Attorney Dougherty went home, with the remark that he planned to go before the grand jury with the case today, confession or no confession. A desultory quizzing of the two principal figures left alive in this strange drama of passion continued, but they were not placed together again.

Mrs. Bauer's trip from Cleveland, accompanied by her brother-in-law, Joseph Bauer, was not entirely a willing one. She had ignored a mildly worded request to come back after the funeral, announcing that she felt too ill and too much shocked to return until a few days had passed.

Her plans were changed when Mr. Dougherty, according to report, called Joseph Bauer and told him to warn her that unless she gave full coöperation to the prosecuting forces she might be charged with obstructing justice.

Mr. Dougherty would not discuss the Fire 4 Guards in Fernekes' Escape

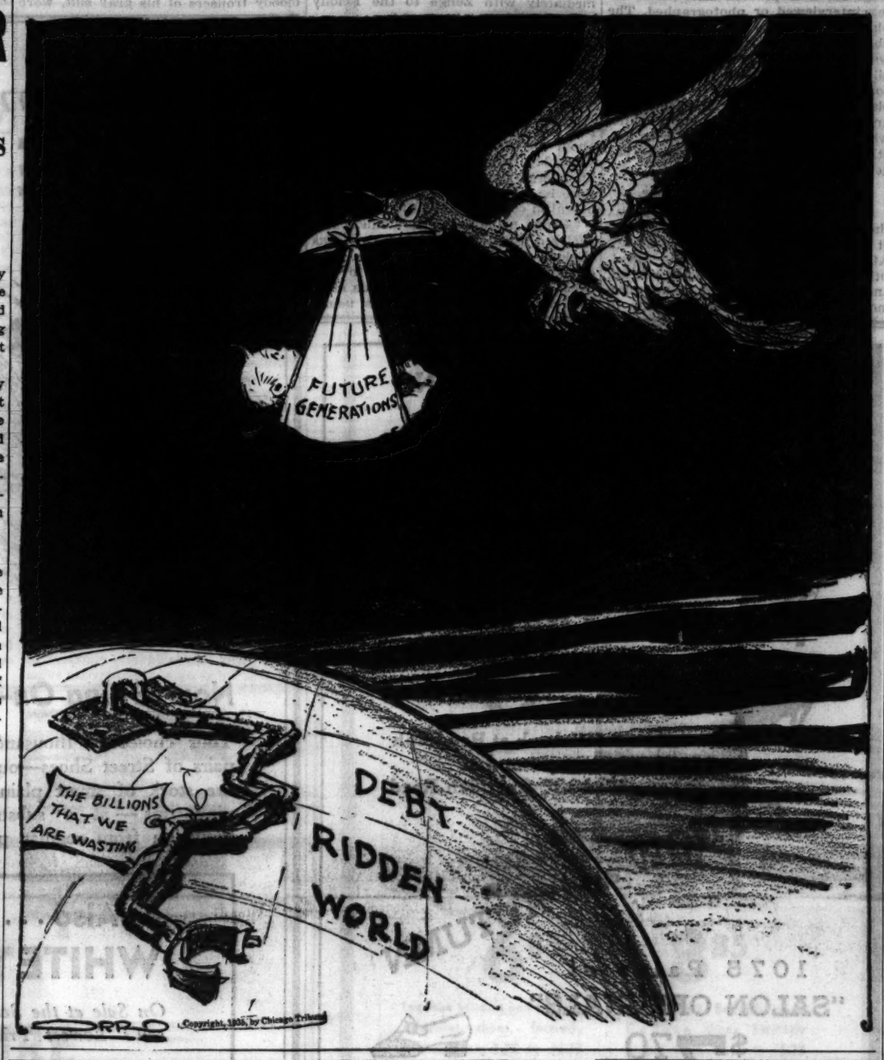
OUR CHILDREN'S LEGACY



HERE'S RECORD OF FELON WHO WALKED AWAY

Henry J. [Midget] Fernekes is the sort of man who kills five men in the course of gaining $100,000 or more and makes a success of a children's day nursery; he studies etching at the Art institute and studies bomb making in chemistry books at the Crerar library; he is held subnormal mentally by psychologists, but he leads a hundred or two successful crimes, escaping 95 per cent of the time, then he grows tired of the Joliet penitentiary and walks to freedom.

MIDGET FERNEKES.

To the judge who sentenced him to die at Christmas time in 1926, Fernekes sent a Yule missive: "Cordial greetings and all good wishes for Christmas."

When William McSwiggin, the assistant state's attorney who had obtained Fernekes' conviction, was murdered, the Midget wrote to former State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe:

"Although I have nothing in common with the state's attorney's office, yet I feel called upon to condole you in the loss of a brilliant and conscientious member of your staf."

The record:

1914: Fernekes, 18 years old, 5 feet 4 inches tall, starts robbery career to get cash to wed; "Can't support bride on $10 a week."

Caught in holdup on tenth floor of First National bank building; identified in half dozen robberies; sentenced to Pontiac reformatory.

1918: Released; leads $105,000 Argo State bank robbery and starts uncounted series of other holdups.

1921: Kills two bank messengers in Pearl River, N. Y.; believed to have killed two Pennsylvania state policemen.

1924: Robs Inland Trust and Savings bank here; kills building and loan treasurer in holdup.

1925: Enters Joliet for ten years to life for Inland job.

1926: Sentenced to death for building and loan killing; during trial, makes four vain efforts to escape, once blasting 15 inch hole in old county jail wall.

1927: In cell, plans $1,000,000 John Shedd Schweppe kidnaping, but plot is uncovered.

Supreme court reverses death sentence.

1935: Strolls out of Joliet by a ruse to spend the $60,000 or more which he —the world's only penny pinching gunman — is understood to have cached.

HORNER SPEEDS DRIVE TO SEIZE MIDGET OUTLAW

Bribery Denied as Inquiry Opens.

Four guards at the old Joliet state prison were summarily dismissed early today by A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare, who was one of a board of four prison officials who conducted a night investigation of the sensational escape on Saturday of Henry J. [Midget] Fernekes.

Although Fernekes, bank robber, murderer, and one of the most notorious convicts in the old prison, was suspected of having bribed some of his guards in order to make his getaway, which far surpassed in seeming cleverness the ruse of John Dillinger at Crown Point, Bowen and the other prison heads declared they had found no evidence to indicate any money was passed.

"Gross Stupidity," Says Bowen.

"Their dismissal is for inefficiency and negligence in discharge of their duty," declared Bowen. "We are convinced there was no bribery or collusion, only gross stupidity."

Gov. Horner last night ordered by telegraph from his summer vacation resort at Eagle River, Wis., that an offer of $1,000 reward be published for the capture of Fernekes. That amount is the maximum authorized by law. The governor then caught a train that will arrive in Chicago early this morning. He could not be reached last night for a statement of his plans on the prison investigation.

Bowen, after dismissing the guards, came to Chicago. He and the governor are scheduled to confer this morning on the matter, possibly with a view to determining whether the sensational walkaway of the superclever and reputedly wealthy Fernekes indicates widespread laxity in the administration of the prison.

Board Quizzes 16 Witnesses.

Before reaching their decision the board, composed of Bowen, Joseph Ragen, state superintendent of prisons; Warden Frank D. Whipp, and Deputy Warden George Sehring, questioned 16 witnesses, several of whom were prisoners. Admittedly they found no satisfactory explanation of how Fernekes obtained the civilian clothing in which he walked away and none as to how he got away from the prison fiber factory, in which he was working shortly before his stroll to freedom began.

One of the dismissed guards, James Nolan, was in charge of the inmates working in this shop. Testimony showed that Fernekes had been gone for two hours before he was missed, and also that he had to walk past Nolan's desk and proceed 60 feet in plain view of a person behind that desk. Nolan convinced the board that he hadn't been able to see the "Midget."

Captain Among Those Fired.

The other men discharged are Frank Friend, a nine year veteran; Robert Shaw, a guard for eighteen months, and Capt. Michael Leonard, who had seen seventeen years of service. Nolan was a six year man in the prison watch force.

Leonard was the guard in the interview room of the prison. Up to him marched Fernekes, garbed in civilian clothing, and wearing glasses. He was on the side reserved for visitors, and when he displayed a slip of paper bearing the name of a certain prisoner Leonard informed him that prisoner was in the new prison.

Fernekes then walked toward the outer door and Leonard gave a signal that caused Friend and Shaw to open a gate and allow the desperado his freedom. It was as simple as that.

Mystery in Change of Clothes.

A good deal of the investigators' time was devoted to an attempt to discover when and how Fernekes, even assuming that he had the clothing, managed to put it on and walk across the prison yard wearing it. There was no satisfactory explanation. One prisoner, a Negro, said that he thought he saw Fernekes don the clothing in a room reserved for guard officers, but other inmates contradicted this testimony.

Supt. Ragen announced that he would remain in Joliet today and continue his investigation. One of the unsolved mysteries is why Fernekes should have waited so long to make his break. He started his sentence of ten years to life for robbery in August, 1925.

Presumably he always had the desire to escape. Likewise it is believed he has always had the power to raise

ONE OUT OF EVERY 3 COUPLES IN U. S. IS FOUND CHILDLESS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—(AP)—One out of every three married couples in the United States is classed as "childless" by census bureau experts.

The last exact count was in 1930, when the percentage of couples without children stood at 31.9. A new study estimates the percentage now has moved higher.

Officials apply this estimate to the so-called "normal" families, if divorced families, or families broken by death, are included the percentage of childlessness is greater.

In the "normal" group there were 23,352,000 couples in 1930, of which 7,447,328 had no children. Families having one child numbered 5,254,863, or 22.5 per cent; those having 2 children, 4,246,459; 3 children, 2,650,730; 4 or more, 3,753,610.

Childless colored families are reported more numerous than white. Native white citizens rank next, while foreign born white couples are found the least childless.

The association was considering sending the gowns aboard the French liner Ile de France, Aug. 21.

Planes Crash Over Airport; 2 Die, 2 Hurt

Two men were killed and two others seriously injured in a spectacular crash of two airplanes yesterday afternoon at the Stinson airport, Joliet road and 56th street, in McCook, near Lyons.

The dead were John G. Harvey, 36 years old, 530 South avenue, Glencoe, pilot of one of the planes, and Kermit Hobbs, 30, of Houston, Mo., an instructor who lived at the Stinson airport. Hobbs was in the seat beside Harvey. Harvey, who was sales manager of the Burdick Enamel Sign company, 36 South State street, obtained his private pilot's license a month ago, after three years' training in aviation.

The injured are Dickson Webb, 32 years old, of Berwyn, an employé of the Western Electric company, who was flying the other plane, and his passenger, Frank Krieger of Grant Park, Ill. Webb is licensed as a transport pilot.

Banks and Hits Small Craft.

The crash occurred at an altitude of 100 feet when Webb's plane, a Fleet Fledgling biplane with an open cockpit, made a left bank about three hundred yards from the airport and the left wing of his plane locked with that of the small Aeronca cabin model monoplane piloted by Harvey.

Harvey was heading southwest into the wind to land at the airport when the other plane, according to witnesses, banked and swooped down into Harvey's craft from above. Harvey's light plane plummeted, but the heavier biplane dropped at a sufficient angle to allow Pilot Webb to leap clear. Both of his legs and his right arm were broken and he incurred internal injuries.

Harvey was dead when field attendants and visitors pulled his body from the tangled wreckage. Two hours later, in the Hinsdale sanitarium, Hobbs died without having regained consciousness. Webb and Krieger also were taken to the Hinsdale sanitarium, where it was said their condition was critical.

Children See Father Die.

Harvey went to the airport with his two children, Joseph Larkin, 7 years old, and Helen, 5, and a week-end guest, Erik L. Halbert, 7325 East End avenue, according to his mother, Mrs. Beatrice Harvey.

Harvey took off in the Aeronca with Hobbs in order to warm up the engine before taking up Halbert and the children for individual rides. The craft was equipped with dual controls and was powered by a two cylinder engine. It weighed 507 pounds.

When their father crashed, the children were watching his plane, waiting for him to take them up. Halbert took them home without telling them that they had seen their father killed. Their mother was killed three years ago in an automobile accident.

Photographer Is Assaulted.

The larger plane was rented by Webb from the Alford Flying service at the Chicago airport. This biplane had a Warner motor with 125 horse power.

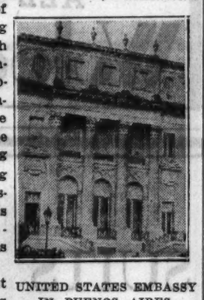
The inquest in Harvey's death has been set for 1 p. m. today in La Grange, but since Hobbs died in Du Page county another inquest is expected in that county.

McCUTCHEON SEES PAMPAS

Cartoonist Revises Preconceived Idea of Argentina

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Aug. 4.—Our preconceived idea of the pampas was that of vast, windblown stretches of waving grass, with fierce pamperos sweeping suddenly out of the River Plate imperiling sailing ships. Yesterday's flight revised this impression.



UNITED STATES EMBASSY IN BUENOS AIRES.

The first 150 miles east of Mendoza is barren, but the remaining 450 miles is a sealike expanse, solidly cultivated. It appears like a checkered billiard table with beautiful estancias surrounded by wheat fields, grazing pastures, villages, frequent lakes; railways and vast herds, infinitesimal as seen from a 10,000 foot altitude. These great estates form the national wealth which is expressed by superb city homes surpassing any ever seen.

The trip was steadier than a railway until the last fifty miles. Then an extremely gusty cross wind caused the greatest unsteadiness yet experienced.

We are amazed by the cosmopolitan magnificence of Buenos Aires. The American embassy is the handsomest in the diplomatic service. We had luncheon there and afterward saw the races, a fashionable spectacle. Three superbusy days lie ahead. J. T. McC.

money through his friends on the outside. Policemen of experience have estimated that his loot in his criminal career was several hundred thousand dollars. They also believe that he has cached away about $60,000.

Fernekes was known as a model prisoner, and his desire to escape may have been due, it was pointed out, to the recent refusal to grant him parole.

To discourage other inmates from following his example the board of inquiry ordered that a new interview room for visitors be established in the guard hall at Joliet so that this room will have no direct contact with the prison yard.

Record of Escapes.

There have been few escapes or prison breaks in Illinois penitentiaries in the last two years.

In April, 1934, Randolph Norvell, head of a kidnap gang, crawled through a sewer in the state prison at Menard. On April 29 of this year four convicts escaped over a wall at Joliet. Three were successful, but the fourth broke his leg and was captured. There were a few other attempts to escape, but guards succeeded in frustrating them.

On Saturday afternoon, however, the guards actually watched Fernekes as he walked swiftly through the prison yard in civilian clothes, paused for a moment in the receiving room, and then departed through the main exit.

In their examination last night by Warden Whipp the guards who saw the convict maintained they failed to recognize him because of the dark glasses and clothes he was wearing. Guard T. V. Anderson reported seeing a man dressed in "civies" walk through the prison yard about the time of Fernekes' escape.

Broken Regulation Noted.

"Civilians are not allowed in the yard beyond the visitors' building," said the warden. "If Fernekes had been in civilian clothes he would have been noticed by the guards. For a prisoner to walk across the yard, however, is extraordinary."

Search for the missing convict was concentrated last night among his old Chicago haunts and near Long Lake and Valparaiso, Ind., where he was born. His father ran a resort at Long Lake until his death a year ago, and a brother, Irving, and an aunt, Rose, still live there.

Four officials of state penal system who ordered discharge of four guards at midnight investigation of escape of Henry J. (Midget) Fernekes from old state prison at Joliet. Warden Frank Whipp and Deputy Warden George Sehring were unable to determine the exact manner in which the escape, which made the Indiana flight of John Dillinger look like amateur work, was executed. A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare, and Joseph Ragen, state superintendent of prisons, were in Joliet from Springfield for the quiz.

WORKS PROGRAM IN N. Y. TO COST MUCH AS SUBWAY

New York, Aug. 4.—[Special.]—William Church Osborn, chairman of the citizens' budget commission, assailed the cost of work relief projects in New York City today. He demanded that Mayor F. H. La Guardia and other city officials "state now, before we are hopelessly mired in resulting debts and commitments, where the money to repay the cost of the program and to meet the resulting increased yearly tax levy expenses is coming from."

While directing his remarks at the full Public Works administration, Osborn took pains to criticize particularly the financial set-up of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson's Works Progress administration, which began operations Aug. 1.

"I believe the people of the city are unaware of the immensity of the work program upon which the municipal administration is embarked," he said. "It is equivalent to the building of a new subway system. It is being undertaken at the lowest ebb in the history of the city's finances. In the end the city must shoulder a huge bill of costs. Even though one-third of the amount should be outright government grants the outlook is a crushing load for New York City's taxpayers."

SPARKLER BARES EVANSTON GIRL'S BIG TOP ROMANCE

A romance of the "big top" was disclosed yesterday at Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus, which is playing a nine day engagement at Soldiers' field. The first intimation of the romance came Saturday, when the circus' newest equestrienne and elephant trainer, Miss Eleanore Raymond, 22 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Raymond, 1015 Hinman avenue, Evanston, formerly of Hinsdale, made her sawdust début.

Down in the box seats, watching Miss Raymond's every move, was young William L. Veeck of Hinsdale, son of the late William L. Veeck, president of the Cubs. At the end of the show he gave her a square cut diamond.

Miss Raymond is a graduate of St. Mary's-on-the-Hudson finishing school and studied a year at the University of Nebraska. Her father is president of the Federal Huber company, plumbing supplies.

"Eleanore and Mr. Veeck have been informally engaged since Christmas," Miss Raymond's mother said, "but we were waiting to announce it until Eleanore's contract was up in October. Why did Eleanore go with the circus? Because she just can't stay away from horses."

ZENGE UNSHAKEN WHEN FACED BY BAUER'S WIDOW

Talk of Trivialities; Avoid Mention of Doctor.

call. It was learned, however, that Mrs. Bauer had called her relatives at La Grange, Mo., and asked them for advice, informing them that the authorities here would "take out papers" against her if she did not obey. The relatives, even though they are old friends of the Zenge family, told her to come here and avoid any appearance of being unwilling to aid in solving the crime.

At the Cleveland airport precautions were taken to prevent Mrs. Bauer being interviewed or photographed. The plane for Chicago left at 8:02 p. m., about 25 minutes late, and during the wait for it Bauer sat in an automobile near the hangars with a woman conspicuously at his side. When the plane was ready Bauer stepped into it and sat down beside a woman in white, who had boarded the ship with another escort. Mrs. Bauer had escaped detection.

Rushed to Prosecutor's Office.

Arriving in Chicago at 10:35 p. m., she and her brother-in-law were met at the airport by Assistant State's Attorney Alexander Napoli, Lieut. Otto Erlanson of the homicide bureau, and a policeman. Placed in an automobile, they were hurried directly to the state's attorney's office on the west side.

There Mrs. Bauer, looking wilted in her white finery and with her hat atilt over her eyes, complained of being airsick. She was allowed to rest a few minutes and then was questioned briefly, but in kind tones, by Mr. Dougherty.

Meanwhile the dour Zenge, who had continued his "I don't know" tactics through the day, had been taken to the office of Capt. Daniel Gilbert, the state's attorney's chief investigator. Haggard and tired, he seemed to have lost the confidence and nonchalance he displayed Friday and Saturday.

He was not informed of the arrival of his former sweetheart until three minutes before she entered the room. When Mr. Dougherty told him she was coming he merely nodded.

Prosecutors Hurry Meeting.

The investigators were anxious to have the meeting last night, as Zenge is to appear before Judge John C. Lewe of the Criminal court at 10 a. m. today for a hearing on a plea for a writ of habeas corpus. Mr. Dougherty said he hoped that Zenge would confess before the opening of the hearing this morning.

"Whether Judge Lewe orders Zenge booked or released," asserted the prosecutor, "I will immediately book him for murder. By the time of the hearing the murder complaint will have been drawn and I shall proceed immediately with Zenge to the Felony court for his arraignment."

During six hours of questioning yesterday by Lieut. Erlanson after he awoke in his specially guarded detective bureau cell at 9 a. m., Zenge appeared even more defiant than usual.

In previous examinations the suspect had disclosed a willingness to talk about anything but the murder. But yesterday he seemed to be conserving his energy for a final stand, confident that he would be released from the ordeal in court this morning.

"Zenge made only two admissions," declared Lieut. Erlanson. "One was obvious, that he had left Canton. The other was that he hitch-hiked to Chicago. He refused to amplify this mention of his trip, however. As usual, whenever I would bring the name of Mrs. Bauer into the conversation, Zenge's face would twitch and he would either become silent or ask that the subject be changed."

"He is one of the toughest prisoners I have ever talked to," continued the policeman. "He is mentally alert and I don't think he is ever going to weaken or let himself be trapped into making an answer that will betray him."

Blank Wall for Quizzers.

Typical of the prisoner's attitude was this series of questions and answers related by Lieut. Erlanson:

Q.—When did you leave Kirksville? A.—O, I don't remember.

Q.—How did you get to Chicago? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Did you hitch-hike? A.—Yes.

Q.—Who drove you to Chicago—was it a man or a woman? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Where did you eat? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Where did you cross the Mississippi river? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Did you cross the river? A.—Well, I would have to cross it to get to Chicago.

Once Zenge volunteered a few words, said Erlanson. He said "I'm innocent of this, but I realize I'm in a tough spot."

Police squads were still searching the West Madison street rooming house district for the flophouse room where police believe Zenge has hidden the bloody trousers of his gray suit, worn the night of the mutilation, his colored glasses, penknife, and the revolver with which he forced Dr. Bauer to drive from Ann Arbor, Mich., to Chicago's south side.

Zenge is accused of binding the hands and feet of Dr. Bauer after they arrived here, and of performing the operation near a filling station at 71st place and Stony Island avenue. Four men who saw the flight of the mutilator from Dr. Bauer's car have identified Zenge. The doctor, on his deathbed at the Jackson Park hospital, said that a man he had met in Ann Arbor under the name Jones was his assailant, and witnesses from Ann Arbor have asserted that Jones and Zenge are the same.

A conference was held yesterday between Attorney Joseph Green, retained as defense counsel; J. Andy Zenge, the suspect's father; his brother, Leighton; a cousin, Claude Staggs, and members of two Chicago families who are also interested in freeing the 26 year old suspect.

WAR HERO RINGS DOWN CURTAIN ON GERMAN VETS

Urges Steel Helmets to Bow to Hitler.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—Former Field Marshal August von Mackensen today sounded the death knell of the Steel Helmets when, in a letter which will be published tomorrow, he resigned the honorary chairmanship of Germany's strongest veterans' organization.

DR. PAUL JOSEPH GOEBBELS.

He thanked the members for their unselfish devotion to national ideals and told them the association is superfluous since Hitler has reintroduced military conscription.

The leaders of Steel Helmets are being urged by Nazi chiefs to dissolve the remnants of their organization voluntarily and to help form a new veterans' association under Nazi guidance.

How this new body will be organized is the object of serious negotiations between the army and the Nazi party. Many former officers prominent in Steel Helmet ranks belong to the old conservative group which is not willing to submit blindly to all the Nazi dictates. The Nazis are trying to find berths for former Storm Troopers in this same reorganization.

"Fight Starts Again."

Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, ending a holiday on the Baltic shores, returned to the radio waves with a ringing speech delivered to a large party gathering at Essen and directed to all of Germany.

"Vacations are over," Goebbels cried, "the fight starts again. We know where the foe stands. Wherever he raises his head we will strike him down into the dust."

With this Goebbels launched into a variety of subjects that dealt with Jews, Catholics, and the foreign press.

"Foreign newspapers speak of a German crisis," Goebbels remarked. "What they call a major crisis is a plain, ordinary cleansing cure."

Goebbels declared the only reason foreign newspapers reported so fully on the German anti-Jewish campaign was to "earn extra money because they are paid for lineage."

Ban Jewish-Aryan Marriage.

The gullible Westphalians bellowed cheers. Though there is not a single American, English, or French full time correspondent in Germany paid according to space, they will remain branded in the minds of millions of Goebbels' listeners.

"Speaking of security in Germany—we have never allowed a mob to tear down the flags of foreign countries from masts," he said. "That happens only in civilized countries."

That was Goebbels' slam for the recent New York anti-Nazi demonstration when a Nazi flag was torn from the liner Bremen. He suggested the foreign press devote its columns to the Italo-Ethiopian quarrel, the communist congress at Moscow, or the Belfast religious riots.

Goebbels announced that henceforth marriages between Aryans and Jews will not be allowed in Germany.

Referring to the church conflict he spoke of a group of nine Catholics charged with distributing anti-Catholic pamphlets which they claimed came from Storm Troopers.

"This desecration was carried out to compromise Nazism," he said. "Next week we will show what we do to men who try to stir up church feuds."

Church Papers to Live.

Of monks and nuns charged with smuggling money abroad, Goebbels said:

"If Christ returned to the world he would chase such traitors from the temple with a whip."

Religious newspapers he vowed will be allowed to appear and the "church must show it is purely Nazi through its actions. Lip service is insufficient. It may be the affair of the church to educate youth in religion, but it is the affair of the Nazi party to take care of its political education."

In his attack on conservative groups, Goebbels bowed to the masses, stressing that most of the leaders of the party did not come from gold crested cradles, but from the people.

"Those who live on the glory of their ancestors will find out that the door is locked. We will finish this group of intriguers once and for all," he said.

GEN. GRABBE IS MADE HETMAN OF 5,000,000 DON COSSACK EXILES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 4.—The Don Cossacks, driven from their native steppes by the bolsheviks and dispersed all over the world, assembled in the salons of a big Paris hotel today to install Gen. Count Grabbe, white bearded, 67 years old, as their hetman or supreme ruler. He was an imperial army commander during the war.

Gen. Grabbe was elected hetman two weeks ago by the votes of Cossack exiles of all countries. Among the delegations that hailed Grabbe as the new chief were Cossacks from the United States and Argentina where the wild horsemen of the Caucasus and Don river are finding congenial occupation as cowboys.

The new hetman wore full evening dress covered with decorations, but he made no secret of the fact that he had done his marketing that morning in a Paris suburb where he lives a modest bourgeois life. Grabbe was presented with a staf symbolizing the supreme power over 5,000,000 Don Cossacks while the metropolitan of the Russian Orthodox church, wearing a golden tiara and gorgeous vestments, intoned a "Te Deum" and the Cossacks sang their native anthem. Aged Cossack veterans presented Grabbe with the traditional bread and salt.

DECLARES FATE OF JAPAN LIES IN NORTH CHINA

TOKIO, Aug. 5 [Monday].—(AP)—How Japan carries on its program of "constructive activities" in north China will determine the destiny of the race, Yosuke Matsuoka, new president of the Southern Manchuria railway, said today. Matsuoka, graduate of the University of Oregon, succeeded Count Hirotaro Hayashi as head of the railway last Thursday.

"Because of soviet activities and the present situation in north China, Japan has recently been compelled to begin constructive activities in north China," Matsuoka said. "I fear that the majority of Japanese fail to understand the importance of these activities. This lack of understanding may cause a serious domestic crisis in Japan, but regardless of how serious such a crisis becomes, Japan cannot halt activities in north China.

"These activities will decide the destiny of our race, its rise or fall in the world situation."

TORSO MURDER WOMEN TO GET HEARING TODAY

Mrs. Evelyn Smith and Mrs. Blanche Dunkel will be brought before Acting Chief Justice Cornelius Harrington of the Criminal court this morning on the charge of murdering Mrs. Dunkel's son-in-law, Ervin Lang.

Technical pleas of not guilty have been entered in the case because the two women stood mute when arraigned for pleas on the murder indictment last week.

The prosecution has been informed that the women may elect to stand on their not guilty pleas today and waive jury trial. If they do this, or if they change their pleas to guilty, it is expected that their trial will start before Judge Harrington next Wednesday. In case of a guilty plea the purpose of the trial will be to enable the court to determine the penalty.

The death penalty will be asked for both women, Mrs. Smith, the confessed slayer, and Mrs. Dunkel who has admitted that she hired the Smith woman to murder Lang, Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty said yesterday. The women will be represented by Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach. According to the confessions Lang was lured to the apartment of Mrs. Smith where she plied him with drinks, killed him by strangulation, and dismembered the body.

The Smith woman's Chinese husband, who helped her to dispose of the body in a swamp near Hammond, is still a fugitive.

Mrs. Smith found solace in religion yesterday. The former burlesque dancer received communion from a priest and appeared cheerful following the ministrations of the church.

Kept in a solitary cell, Mrs. Smith has begun writing what she terms her life history.

Mrs. Dunkel, the 46 year old grandmother whose jealousy over the affections of her dead daughter's husband caused her to have him killed, spent the day in tears and sullen silence. Unlike the cheerful, talkative Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Dunkel refused to talk with other prisoners.

ROB WOMAN SALOONIST OF $10.

Two robberies drove Mrs. Petrona Mendel, proprietor of a tavern at 3061 Armitage avenue, and a customer into a rear room yesterday, took $10 and escaped on foot.

AROUSED HOUSE MAY EXPOSE NEW DEAL LOBBYING

National Committee Also Is Easy Target.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—While the senate has continued to emphasize the million dollar lobbying activities of the Associated Gas and Electric company the house has brought the Roosevelt administration lobbying back into the limelight following its second rejection of the "death sentence" on public utility holding companies.

It was resentment of the administration's effort to lobby even the conference committee on the holding company bill that caused the house to adopt the resolution to exclude Ben Cohen, the administration lobbyist, from the conference.

May Call Hurja, West.

With the house in its present mood there is no telling what will happen. The house rules committee, which is conducting a desultory investigation of lobbying, may be compelled to summon Emil Hurja, the Democratic national committee lobbyist, and Under Secretary of the Interior Charles West, the President's lobbyist, and examine them on their activities in behalf of the "death sentence" and other legislation.

By switching the spotlight to the utility company lobbyists the administration had hoped to escape further notice of its own operations in this line. The house investigating committee had questioned Tom Corcoran and one or two other small fry in the administration lobbying organization, but had stopped short of putting the heat on Hurja and West and other big shots.

Roosevelt Backs Lobbyists.

The appointment of West to the new position of under secretary of the interior came shortly after the breaking of the lobby scandal and gave congress to understand that the President stands squarely behind his lobbyists. In fact, it may have been a hint to the investigating committee to "lay off" the administration lobbyists.

If the house should force the lid off the activities of the Democratic national committee some interesting disclosures may be expected. Patronage and influence at the seat of government constitute the principal stock in trade of the national committee of the party in power, whether Democrats or Republican.

The committee trades jobs and influence on the administrative and legislative branches of the government, for the contributions to the campaign fund that finances the election of the party candidate for President.

Come with Hands Out.

When the administration comes into power the national committee sets up its pie counter and begins dishing out the pie. Some contributors want jobs, all the way from ambassadorships to door keepers. Some want a "little bill" passed by congress or a favorable ruling from an administrative department. Whatever it is the national committee gets busy to deliver the goods—and the bigger the contributor the busier it gets.

The distribution of patronage is of course public but the lobbying activities of the national committee in getting favors for campaign fund contributors in the administration or in congress seldom come to light.

Early in the Roosevelt administration, however, there was a lobbying scandal involving officers and other members of the Democratic national committee. Robert Jackson, secretary of the committee and committeeman for New Hampshire; Arthur Mullen, committeeman for Nebraska, and Bruce Kremer, committeeman for Montana, had come to Washington with the advent of the Roosevelt administration and hung out their law shingles with lobbying their principal business.

Fortunes in Fees.

Soon they were making fortunes from the fees clients paid them to exert their influence with the administration and the Democratic congress. So noisome became this exploitation of political influence by members of the Democratic committee that the President in response to a question at a press conference said the lawyers in question ought either to cease their activities or resign from the national committee. They resigned and continued their profitable activities.

Incidentally they represent utilities fighting the President's death sentence. Incidentally also they continue in high favor at the White House.

Mr. Mullen represents Cities Service, the chief of which, Henry L. Doherty, the utility magnate, also stands in high favor at the White House. He was the President's guest a few days ago. Mr. Doherty originated the nation-wide Roosevelt birthday parties, the proceeds of which are donated to combating infantile paralysis, and has served twice as chairman of the managing committee.

In the meantime the investigation of Cities Service by the federal trade commission has been languishing—because of other work of a more pressing character, says the commission.

The Democratic national committee raised 2 million dollars to finance the Roosevelt election campaign and still is handing out rewards to contributors.

Baruch Gives $71,000.

Largest contributor of all was Bernard M. Baruch, who gave $71,000. The huge gift was accepted despite Mr. Roosevelt's professed aversion to Wall street speculators. Mr. Baruch could have claimed almost any reward, but the only office to his taste—that of secretary of the treasury—was out of the question because of his Wall street background. However, Mr. Baruch has no reason to feel out of pocket as a result of his investment in party success.

The Roosevelt monetary policies, increasing the price of gold and silver, have netted Mr. Baruch many times his contribution in profits from his gold and silver mine interests.

Another of the big Wall street operators, who, despite the wickedness of their business, was able to snuggle up closely to Mr. Roosevelt was Joseph P. Kennedy. He accompanied the candidate on his stumping tours, advised him on his speeches and by election day had kicked in with $69,000 for the campaign fund, of which $50,000 was an eleventh hour loan in response to a desperation plea for funds.

After the election Mr. Kennedy noticed that he wasn't so close to Mr. Roosevelt. He wasn't asked for advice. In fact, was out in the cold. No job worth consideration was being pressed upon him. Left to his thoughts he began thinking about collecting that $50,000 loan to the national committee. Under pressure the committee began liquidating the debt at the rate of $5,000 a month. Eventually, however, Mr. Kennedy was restored to favor and appointed chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission.

$54,250 from Straus Family.

Another large contributor was Jesse Isador Straus, millionaire New York department store owner, who gave $38,000 while contributions by members of his family brought the total up to $54,250. No ordinary reward was Mr. Straus disposed to be content with—nothing so unimportant as the post of ambassador to Turkey, to which it had been customary under previous administrations to appoint millionaire Jews. It came high, but he got what he wanted—the embassy to France, second place in our diplomatic hierarchy.

The first place, ambassador to St. James's court, went to Robert Worth Bingham of Kentucky, who had contributed only a paltry $10,000 to the campaign fund. And Mr. Bingham, who is probably the foremost American Anglophile, with a shooting lodge in the Scottish highlands, had his heart set on getting this post. But what there was lacking in the extent of his cash offering was more than made up for by the value of his two newspapers, the Louisville Courier-Journal and the Louisville Times, as Roosevelt organs.

Money Talks at Court.

Ambassador Bingham is chief dispenser of the patronage consisting of the presentation of American debutantes and matrons to the British court. Large campaign contributors command a powerful influence in determining the selection of the presentees, the number of whom is limited by their majesties to about 50 a year. Through the national committee, the White House, and the state department run the wires that are pulled to get American women on the ambassador's little list.

John J. Raskob, who managed Al Smith's campaign for the Presidency in 1928, and who was persona non grata to the Roosevelt faction, nevertheless contributed $35,000 to the 1932 campaign by canceling that amount of the $115,000 the national committee had owed him for four years. His political investment, however, is not exactly in the red.

Mr. Raskob has organized a silver mine syndicate which is doing very well at the increased price of silver effected by the Roosevelt monetary policies.

Profit in Oil Policy.

M. L. Benedum, Pittsburgh oil magnate, invested $22,500 outright in the election of Mr. Roosevelt and took a note for $17,500 more, while his business associate, Joseph C. Trees, kicked in with $5,000 just before the inauguration. Mr. Benedum took a prominent part in the formulation of the administration oil control program, under which the oil operators profited. More profits are in sight for the oil interests if the President gets through congress the Guffey bill, which will boost the price of coal.

Walter A. Jones, who is connected with the Benedum-Trees company, has maintained headquarters in Washington for several months promoting passage of the Guffey bill. It is estimated that the increased cost of coal produced by the Guffey bill, if enacted, would result in the substitution of oil or gas fuel for from 50 million to 100 million tons of coal annually.

Still another whose $10,000 contribution proved an investment of the bonanza order, is Tom Bragg, a Wall street operator, who was under fire in the investigation of short selling of stocks by the senate committee.

Early in the Roosevelt administration, when it became known to the insiders that millions of dollars were to be made on contracts to build warships for the government, Bragg and his Wall street associate, Ben Smith, former law partner of Emil Hurja, executive director of the Democratic national committee, purchased control of the New York Shipbuilding company. Later, they let in E. L. Cord.

Ship Costs Boosted.

PWA funds aggregating 238 millions were allocated to building war craft and the New York Shipbuilding company got contracts for 3 cruisers and 6 destroyers. According to the testimony before the senate munitions committee, the bidders collusively boosted the cost of the ships to the government to a point that assured monumental profits. Incidentally Mr. Bragg never was found by the committee's process server.

Vincent Astor, the President's millionaire yachting crony, gave $35,000 and later forgave the committee a debt of an additional $10,000. Astor is also the "angel" of the weekly Roosevelt organ, "Today," which is edited by Raymond Moley, chief of the brain trust ex-officio. There recently was a furor in congress over the action of the President in permitting the laying up of the steamer Leviathan without payment of penalties which constituted a saving of $1,720,000 to the operating company, of which Astor is a director. The action was taken by the commerce department, with the previous approval of the President, while Mr. Roosevelt was cruising last March as the guest of Mr. Astor on his yacht "Nourmahal."

Rome, $16,500; Moscow, $1,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Breckinridge Long gave $16,500 and Mr. Long got as a reward the post of ambassador to Italy. William Christian Bullitt contributed $1,000 and drew the embassy to Moscow. Lawrence A. Steinhardt came across with $5,000 and is now minister to Sweden. George H. Earle III, dropped $15,000 into Mr. Farley's collection basket and got out of it the legation at Vienna, but he gave that up to come home and run for governor of Pennsylvania, which he now is.

John Cudahy of Milwaukee contributed $2,000 and was made ambassador to Poland. The day before election, 1932, A. J. Drexel Jr. of the Philadelphia Drexels squeezed out $2,000 for the good of the party, and then, on Feb. 2, 1935, he gave $5,000 more. That did the business. He was recently appointed minister to Norway.

Mrs. Sumner Welles gave $2,500 and her husband was appointed assistant secretary of state. Grenville T. Emmet of New York, the President's former law partner, drew the place of minister to Holland, contribution, $2,000. John F. Montgomery became minister to Hungary on an outlay of only $1,000. Mr. and Mrs. Hal Sevier gave $2,000 and Mr. Sevier went to Chile as ambassador. Bert Fish of Florida came across with $5,000 and is now minister to Egypt.

Hull Gets Off for $100.

Henry L. Morgenthau Jr., now secretary of the treasury, gave the party $1,000 and his wife another $1,000, while his father, former ambassador to Turkey, lent the national committee $10,000. Dan Roper, now secretary of commerce, donated $5,250, but Secretary of State Cordell Hull is listed as a contributor of only $100. Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes is recorded as "refunding" $350 paid him by the National Progressive league for Roosevelt and Garner of which he was secretary.

Attorney General Homer Cummings gave $1,000, Postmaster General James Farley $5,000. There is no record of contributions by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace, Secretary of War George Dern, and Secretary of the Navy Claude Swanson.

Nor is there any record of a contribution by President Roosevelt to his own campaign. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt advanced the committee $7,000 in two loans.

The late Mary Harriman Rumsey contributed $25,000 and received the job of chairman of the Consumers' Advisory board in the late NRA. Ralph W. Morrison of Texas pushed in $25,000 worth of blue chips and one of the first acts of the President was to name him a delegate to the international economic conference in London. Last year it was disclosed that he was the principal prospective beneficiary of a Texas water development financed by a four million dollar PWA loan.

Curley Is Sidetracked.

Gov. James M. Curley of Massachusetts, then mayor of Boston, contributed $10,500, which he calculated rated him eligible to nothing short of the embassy to Rome. But the President thought otherwise. He offered Poland, whereat Mr. Curley could scarcely choke his indignation, Massachusetts' original Roosevelt man that he was. 'Tis said he's not so strong for Roosevelt now. Another disappointed donor was Richard T. Crane, who was Wilson's first minister to Czechoslovakia. He gave $7,250 and wanted to go back, but J. Butler Wright, a career diplomat who gave nothing, got the job and Mr. Crane got nothing.

Robert J. Dunham, now in charge of federal relief in Illinois, gave $10,000; James A. Moffett, director of the housing administration, $14,500; Guy T. Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue, $8,500; W. A. Julian, United States treasurer, $11,500; Jesse Jones, chairman of the RFC and his brother, $7,500; Arthur Mullen, who wanted to be attorney general, $2,000.

AID OF COMMITTEE IS PLEDGED WITNESS IN ARMY SALES CASE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—(AP)—The house military committee was disclosed today to have promised aid to Frank Speicher, key witness in its investigation of war department business deals, in any legal proceedings that may arise from the inquiry.

Spiecher, a tire salesman, has been a central figure in the committee's probe of an alleged plan to split a $10,000,000 army motor contract between Chevrolet and Chrysler without competitive bidding. He has testified that Joseph Silverman Jr., large scale dealer in surplus army supplies, sought to arrange this deal through Norman K. Haig, Chevrolet official.

Also, Harold Schnuer, New York attorney, told the committee Silverman supplied Speicher with funds while the salesman was sought for testimony in a grand jury inquiry into war department contracts. Silverman had denied this.

Chairman McSwain [Dem., S. C.] said Speicher would be called before the committee again, probably this week, to be questioned on whether he received this money from Silverman.

GREEN PREPARES TO RID UNIONS OF RED INFLUENCE

Executive Council Faces Factional Fight.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 4.—(AP)—A hint that the American Federation of Labor would start a drive to purge its unions of communistic influence came tonight from William Green, president.

While the federation's executive council was assembling here for the third of its quarterly meetings, Green in a statement said that the council "in all probability" would "deal vigorously and most directly with the communist developments in the fur workers' union."

Disobeying Green's order, the fur workers' union has combined forces with fur workers' organizations reported to be controled by the communist party. This move, Green said, was in line with the policy of the third international to "bore from within," instead of organizing dual union movements.

German Boycott Urged.

Green also said the council would deal with the "international situation," particularly the crisis between Italy and Ethiopia. The Nazi government in Germany also will be considered. Green last week denounced the régime of Hitler as "barbarous" by reason of its attitude toward the Catholics, Jews, and trade unions, and urged a boycott of German products.

Two of the biggest issues the council will face, however, Green left unmentioned in his announcement. Each may result in the federation's loss of a number of unions unless settled amicably.

The scrap between the craft unions, designed to take in all the members of a single craft—such as carpenters—throughout all industry, and industrial unionists who believe that mass production industry should be organized by industry rather than by craft, was the first of these conflicts.

Lewis Center of Fight.

The arrival of John L. Lewis, outspoken chief of the United Mine workers, was expected to start a long and bitter discussion of this issue. Lewis, head of an industrial union, is the leading spokesman for industrial unionists throughout organized labor.

Second among the "family quarrels" was the fight between two factions in the building trades department. Twelve unions at odds with Green threaten to withdraw from the federation unless Green changes his position.

This scrap started last fall over control of the federation's machinery to settle jurisdictional fights between unions.

50 Nabbed in Brazil for Red Agitation; Russia Blamed

PORTO ALEGRE, Brazil, Aug. 4. (AP)—Police arrested fifty members of the Russo-Ukrainian society today and charged that the society has been receiving instructions for communistic activities from the soviet legation at Montevideo, Uruguay.

Hears Husband Has Remarried

Nancy Carroll, film actress, and her husband, Bolton Mallory, from whom she is seeking divorce in Reno, Nev. Informed yesterday that Mallory had married a girl in Mexico, Miss Carroll said she didn't know what she could do about it. [Acme Photo.]

Her Plans Uncertain

Reno, Nev., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Nancy Carroll, told of reports the husband she came here to divorce had married a girl in Mexico, said today she didn't know what she could do about it.

"I really don't know anything about it or what I can do about it," said the screen actress, who is establishing residence to divorce Bolton Mallory.

"As far as I know," said Miss Carroll, "I'm still married to Mr. Mallory, but I haven't seen him for a year and a half."

The actress said she never had heard of Carlota Lobato, named in dispatches as the 14 year old bride of Mallory, and had no idea whether her husband had obtained a Mexican divorce.

FIGHT FASCISM, MOSCOW TELLS REDS OF WORLD

Offers Aid to "Certain Bourgeois" Classes.

MOSCOW, Aug. 4. — (AP) — Communists are ready to participate with "certain Bourgeois organisations" in the establishment of united front governments in nations where fascism threatens, it was asserted today in reports read at the seventh International congress.

Although communists will join with such "Bourgeois" groups, it was said, the "masses" must realize no "final salvation" can come except through establishment of soviet power.

Aim Is Overthrow.

William Pieck, German member of the executive committee, told the Comintern [communist Internationale] that despite the offer of coöperation with organizations in democratic governments the real aim "continues to be the development within the working class of a force capable of overthrowing capitalism and establishing a proletarian dictatorship."

George Dimitrov, Bulgarian communist who figured in the German trial that followed upon the burning of the reichstag, reported on the question of an anti-Fascist united front.

"To the extent that a government of anti-Fascist united front elements would really fight against enemies of the people," he said, "we communists, as soldiers of revolution, would appear in the foremost line. But we openly tell the masses such a government cannot bring final salvation. Only the establishment of soviet power will bring salvation."

May Become "Necessary."

Dimitrov said communists realized a situation may arise "when the establishment of a government of a proletarian united front or anti-Fascist peoples front may become not only possible but necessary. In this case, without the least hesitation, we would come out for the creation of such a government."

The German delegates, Florin, called on communists of America, England and France to join hands with "all those ready to defend the traditions of bourgeois democratic revolution."

"In your countries," he said, "we still have democratic rights which are endangered by Fascism and need to be defended. These rights are already restricted, and we must fight against further losses."

Belgian Police Battle Reds Protesting Against Italy

BRUSSELS, Aug. 4.—(AP)—One person was injured and a number arrested when police broke up a communist demonstration against Italy today outside the Italian pavilion at the international exhibition. The anniversary of Germany's entrance into the world war was chosen for the demonstration against Rome's attitude toward Ethiopia. Belgium's Communist Deputy La Haut led the Reds.

2 GARY YOUTHS DIE AS FREIGHT TRAIN HITS AUTO

Viaduct Blocks View of Suburb Crossing.

Two young men, residents of Gary, were killed last evening when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Michigan Central freight train at Cleveland avenue in Gary.

The victims were Bernard Hecker, 23 years old, 1909 West 9th avenue, and John Strincheck, 19 years old, 2139 West 9th avenue. Both died shortly after they had been taken to the Mercy hospital.

The crossing on which they were struck has flash signals but no gates, and the approach from the north, the direction from which they came, is through a viaduct which prevents a view of the tracks either to the right or left.

Girl Dies in Crash.

Katherine Fielding, 13 years old, 14537 Green street, Dixmoor, was killed instantly last night when the automobile in which she was riding with Joseph Cowley, 22 years old, of Ferndale, Mich., a jocky, was struck by another at 158th and Halsted streets, between Harvey and Posen.

Mrs. Lillian Keenan, 1162 Harvey avenue, Oak Park, driver of the other car, was held for the inquest by the Homewood county highway police. Neither she, her husband, who was a passenger, nor Cowley was injured.

Florence Wolinski, 16 years old, 2361 Lister avenue, was injured fatally yesterday when she fell to the pavement as she leaped from the rear of a moving truck near Palatine in order to retrieve another girl's purse that had been dropped from the truck. She was one of thirty young people in the truck on their way to a picnic at Plum grove, near Palatine.

Crash Kills Girl, 7.

Lucille Rybecki, 7 years old, 1924 South Troy street, Chicago, was injured fatally last night when the car in which she was riding was struck by another machine on U. S. route 20, 13 miles east of Gary, and overturned in a ditch. The child died in Mercy hospital, Gary. Her mother, Mrs. Rose Rybecki, incurred cuts and bruises and was kept at the hospital. The driver of their car, William Schrider, 2324 South Holman street, was uninjured.

The driver of the other machine, Meyer Gerber, a merchant, 4452 Kimball avenue, Chicago, was locked up in the Gary jail in $2,000 bond, pending an inquest today.

Two Girls Struck Down.

A double crash at Van Buren and Paulina streets last night caused serious injury to two small girls, Elizabeth Finnegan, 3 years old, 320 South Hermitage avenue, and her sister, Bridget, 5. As the two stepped off the curb a car being driven west in Van Buren at a high rate of speed by Daniel Doning, 45 years old, 4313 South Homan avenue, Stickney, struck another traveling north on Paulina. This machine spun about and struck the girls. At County hospital it was believed Elizabeth had incurred a skull fracture and Bridget internal injuries.

Warren avenue police arrested Doning and the other driver, Humbert Divitio, 37 years old, 1037 Peoria street. Both will be held until the girls' injuries are ascertained.

Tavern Owner Killed.

Francis Kearney, 36 years old, 6053 Woodlawn avenue, owner of a tavern at 41st street and Cottage Grove avenue, was killed yesterday when he turned his automobile from South Park way into 47th street and it collided with the taxicab of George Eppe, 29 years old, 4359 St. Lawrence avenue. Edward Ray, 5041 Cottage Grove avenue, riding with Kearney, incurred only minor cuts and bruises. Police held Eppe.

A man believed to be Harry Rush, 35 years old, was fatally injured yesterday by an automobile at La Salle street and Grand avenue. The driver, Henry Harris, 1151 Leland avenue, a railway clerk, told police that the man walked into the street against the traffic signal, making the accident unavoidable. Harris was not held.

Margarito Castillo, 40 years old, 1242 Newberry avenue, was fatally injured early today when he was struck at Roosevelt road and Newberry avenue by an automobile driven by Claude Kirk, colored, 22 years old, 1440 Roosevelt road. Castillo died in the Mother Cabrini hospital.

These deaths brought the 1935 traffic toll for Cook county to 557. Until 4 p. m. yesterday 440 had been killed in automobile accidents within the Chicago city limits and 9,545 injured.

Drives Among Children on Curb; 2 Die, 1 Injured

New York, Aug. 4.—[Special.]—Theodora Casse, 4 years old, died tonight, the second victim of tragedy in which three children were crushed against a telephone pole on a sidewalk by an automobile. Theodore's sister, Dorothy, 7, died less than an hour after the accident. Frank Albebaness Jr., 8, still is in critical condition. The driver is held on a charge of manslaughter.

Policeman Finds Hit and Run Killer with Airplane

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 4.—(AP)—A county policeman, piloting his own plane, today led to the capture of a colored man sought as a hit-and-run driver. Kenneth Grant, 9, was injured fatally by an automobile. Dogs lost the scent. Albert Dodd flew low over a wooded section, spotted the suspect and circled until other officers arrested him.

ITALY PUSHES ON FOR WAR DESPITE PEACE EFFORTS

Ignores League's Moves; Sends New Troops.

ROME, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Italy's military program was pushed at the same rapid pace today despite agreement at Geneva upon a formula designed to settle the quarrel with Ethiopia.

Political circles examined the result of the meeting of the league council and said it was in no way indicative of the possibility of a peaceful settlement of the problem within the framework of the league.

Transports embarked workmen and supplies at Naples with sailings for east Africa scheduled today and tomorrow. Other larger ships are returning from the colonies, and will sail this week with heavy contingents of troops.

Press Prints Only Text.

Although the government claimed it had achieved a diplomatic victory at Geneva, it rigidly restrained its spokesmen from characterizing the council decision as "important."

The press contented itself with publishing the text of the two Geneva resolutions, explaining tersely that the first one embodied all points insisted upon by Italy before it attended the session.

Well informed circles interpreted the neutral color of official reaction as proof Mussolini, more than ever, is convinced of the futility of league peace efforts.

Italian airplane factories are working night and day turning out fast bombers. It was reported in aviation circles that in a huge mass flight fifty of these planes would take off from some southern Italian point soon in an attempt to reach Eritrea.

Reveals Speech Text.

Premier Mussolini released for the first time the purported text of his speech recently to various Black Shirts at Eboli. Newspapers said the speech was published to show the "falseness" of quotations from it which have been circulating for the last few days.

Nevertheless, the publication served to show no change in Italy's military policy is contemplated.

"I tell you we are engaged in a struggle of decisive importance and we have immovably decided to conduct it to its final end," Il Duce said. "To those who would pretend to base their efforts on papers or words, we reply with the heroic slogan: 'The first battle squadrons will charge against any one of whatever color who attempts to block our path.'"

British Develop Plans.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The British government began work tonight on the program it will propose at the coming three power conference on the Italo-Ethiopian dispute, convinced that the Paris discussions will determine definitly whether a peaceful solution of the argument can be found.

Informed quarters said now that the first stage of the peace moves is over the next stage is more important and more difficult, and unless some effective means of preventing hostilities can be found in the third stage at Geneva Sept. 4 there may be disastrous consequences for world political relationships.

With the advice of Anthony Eden, Great Britain's minister for league affairs, the government will spend the ten days until the Paris negotiations open in working out alternative proposals for coöperation of the three powers—Italy, France, and Britain—toward the goal of peace.

France Pessimistic.

PARIS, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The pessimistic view that Premier Pierre Laval faces an almost impossible task in attempting to stop an Italo-Ethiopian war within a month was voiced in prominent circles today.

Pope Sees Italy at War.

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Pope Pius, torn between conflicting principles, was represented today as believing one of them—peaceful colonization—is about to be violated by Italy's move on Ethiopia. But through that violation the other principle—spread of the Catholic religion—may be fulfilled.

Prelates said recent developments in the Italo-Ethiopian struggle had placed the pope, now in summer residence here, in a delicate position. On the one hand is his love and concern for the Ethiopian. He himself had the Ethiopian college built inside the Vatican, the only foreign college inside its walls. On the other hand are his friendly relations with Mussolini's Italy—closest since 1870.

Moreover, propagation of the Catholic faith has not been rapid in Ethiopia. It likely would be more so if Italy were to take control. But a conflicting principle is that of nonresort to force.

CHICAGO GREEKS OPPOSE RECALL OF FORMER KING

A resolution, addressed to all political leaders of Greece, urging the Greek people to retain their present form of republican government was adopted by an assembly of 1,500 Greek-Americans in a meeting in the Cameo room of the Morrison hotel yesterday. The meeting, sponsored by the Helenic Republican Union of Chicago, was for the purpose of protesting the proposed holding of a plebiscite in Greece on recalling their former ruler, King George II. to the throne. The principal speaker was Alex Papanastasiou, ex-premier of Greece, who criticized the monarchial system.

CLAIM VENIZELOS' AID SOUGHT BY GREEK EX-KING

ATHENS, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The newspaper Anexaritos said today former King George of Greece, disappointed at not being able to return to the throne under present conditions, is seeking a reconciliation with former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos, now an exile in France under a death sentence.

The paper said the former king has requested Prince Paul, regent of Jugo-Slavia, to intercede with the governments of Rumania and France on behalf of reconciliation.

Under George's plan, it was said, he would agree: To grant an amnesty to all those condemned or accused in connection with the revolt; dissolve immediately the newly elected national assembly and hold elections to parliament on a basis of proportionate representation; restore officers ousted following the collapse of the revolt; and, finally if the Liberals obtain a majority, George would ask Venizelos to form a government replacing that of Premier Panayoti Tsaldaris.

MUSIC FESTIVAL PRELIMINARIES TO CROWD WEEK

West Side Voice Contests in 3 Classes Tonight.

Festival Contest Deadline!

The deadline for entry to all Festival contests will be 6 p. m. this evening. At that time signed entrance blanks must be in the Festival office, Room 1418, Tribune Tower.

BY PHIL MAXWELL.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and cooperating newspapers and organizations throughout Chicagoland have scheduled a busy round of Chicago and Music Festival activities this week. The festival is to take place on Aug. 17 in Soldiers' field.

The west side

JEAN CLAPP.

voice contests for tenors, contraltos and baritones will be held tonight, beginning at 7 o'clock, in the Midwestern Athletic club, 6 North Hamlin avenue; tomorrow night, same place, the sopranos and basses, and the south side vocalists will be heard Wednesday and Thursday nights at the Chicago Woman's Club theater, 72 East 11th street.

Singers to Take Part.

Among the west side singers to be heard are Jean Clapp, 22 years old, 509 South Sixth avenue, Maywood, Ill., and Sidney Wernikoff, 18 years old, a tenor, 2815 Milwaukee avenue.

The festival dancing girls will have their pictures taken in costume this week as follows: This morning, at 11, at the Community Recreational center, 4715 Madison street; tomorrow morning, at the Trianon ballroom, 6201 Cottage Grove avenue, and Wednesday morning at the Aragon ballroom, 1100 West Lawrence avenue.

Tonight, in Rockford, the third "act" of a three night festival will be held in the Rockford High school stadium.

Wednesday Night in Racine.

Wednesday night the Racine Journal-Times, also in connection with THE TRIBUNE, will present its fourth annual festival in Washington park in Racine. Winners from Rockford and Racine contests will compete in the Chicagoland finals here Aug. 17 and will participate in the evening's concert that night in Soldiers' field.

One of outstanding male choruses of Cook county, the Knickerbocker male chorus, of Cicero, is entered in the county chorus contest at 7 p. m., Aug. 11 in the Drake hotel ballroom. C. H. Eickert is the director of the 24 singers. He teaches music in the Christian Elementary school in Cicero.

Kidnaped, Brought Here, Says Arkansas Woman

Mrs. Birdie Spencer, 49 years old, of Little Rock, Ark., was held at the detective bureau yesterday while the police investigated her story that she had been kidnaped in the southern city Friday afternoon by three men and released here Saturday evening. Her husband, Mrs. Spencer said, is a painter, but recently has been in a CCC camp in Arkansas. The Little Rock authorities have been asked to investigate.

YOUTH, ILL, HANGS HIMSELF.

James Ott Jr., 27 years old, a clerk in a loop store, ended his life by hanging yesterday in the garage at his home at 3516 West 64th place. Ott's father said he had been ill.

ILLINOIS TROOPS WILL TRAIN FOR BREAKING RIOTS

Tear Gas Attacks' Climax Wednesday.

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—Riot detachments from each battalion of the Illinois National Guard infantry regiments here will be trained in the use of tear gas during the encampment here at Camp Grant this week.

The lessons will be given Monday and Tuesday under the direction of Col. Alfred Deroulet. On Wednesday there will be a practical demonstration with 400 officers and men acting as a "mob."

As portions of the riot detachments simulate a frontal attack on the "mob" another section of the detachment will make a flank attack with tear gas bombs. The 33d division aviation unit, the 108th observation squadron, may take part, dropping tear gas grenades.

Intelligence lessons will be given during the week under the direction of Lieut. Col. William M. Spencer. Training in communications will be conducted by Lieut. Col. Leroy Boylan, staf communications officer, and Capt. David Manson of the 33d signal company.

Work at the camp today was devoted largely to settling the various companies in their areas. Protestant and Catholic religious services were conducted this morning. Tonight the camp musical organizations gave concerts.

JAPAN RESENTS PEACE CARTOON OF THE EMPEROR

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—Hirosi Saito, the Japanese ambassador, was on the way back to Washington tonight from an interrupted vacation in Connecticut to protest against a caricature of Emperor Hirohito that appeared in the current issue of Vanity Fair. Saito was instructed by his foreign office to take action.

An attaché of the state department said the affair results from a difference of opinion because in this country nothing is thought of lampooning high officials, including the Presidet, while in Japan the emperor is held sacred. Here the government has no control over the press.

The caricature, "Five Unlikely Historical Situations by One Who Is Sick of the Same Old Headlines," depicted the emperor walking off with the Nobel peace prize, J. P. Morgan on a box denouncing capitalism, W. R. Hearst as ambassador to Russia, Senator Huey Long in a monastery, and Admiral Byrd "wintering" in Tahiti.

Frank Crowninshield, editor of the magazine, in New York said it was intended to be perfectly good natured.

Will Make Protest Today.

TOKIO, Aug. 5 (Monday).—[Special.]—Ambassador Saito, in a radiophone interview with the Tokio Asahi, today said he is protesting to the United States department of state against the caricature of the emperor Hirohito.

OUTDOOR FOLK ARE WARNED OF POISON SUMAC

Pointers on Identification of Dangerous Shrub.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Picnickers, fishermen, farmers and others who spend time out of doors are warned against poison sumac during the next few months. This noxious shrub, a close relative of the common poison ivy, is thriving since the heavy rains. Its leaves are now loaded with poison, dangerous to man and animals. It may become a serious problem along streams and in low, swampy places on farms and in woodlands in many sections of the country.

Foresters and farmers are urged to make a thorough search this summer and autumn for poison sumac in preserves, woodlots and wooded pasture lands along streams. It is recommended by botanists that these shrubs be cut and burned wherever they are found. Avoid, however, the destruction of garden sumacs that are non-poisonous. Some of the poison sumac's main characteristics are given here to aid in its identification.

Known by Other Names.

Poison sumac is known also as swamp sumac, poison elder, poison ash, poison dogwood, and thunderwood. It grows only in swamps or in wet ground and is found throughout most of the eastern half of the United States. It usually grows as a shrub in clumps, with tall, slender stems 6 to 10 feet or more in height, but sometimes it grows as a tree up to 20 or 30 feet high, with a trunk 5 to 10 inches in diameter.

The bush or tree has smooth, grayish bark on the trunk and older branches, while the younger branches are reddish brown. The leaves are on a clean stalk 7 to 14 inches long, bearing 7 to 13 leaflets, arranged opposite each other in pairs, with a single leaflet at the end.

The leaflets grow 3 to 4 inches long and 1½ to 2 inches wide. They are velvety and of a bright orange color when they first appear in the spring, later becoming dark green and glossy on the upper surface, with prominent scarlet midribs and paler green underneath. They turn early in autumn to brilliant red, orange, and russet shades.

Distinguished by Flower, Fruit.

While poison sumac often is confused with the harmless varieties of sumac and other plants, it is relatively easy to distinguish, botanists say. Positive identification of this plant is most readily made by observing the flower and fruit. The small, five petaled yellowish green flowers appear early in summer in loose, slender, drooping clusters about three to eight inches long, growing out of the angles of the leaf stalks near the ends of the branches. They are followed by shining white or cream colored fruits about one-fourth inch in diameter, each containing a single stone.

In contrast the harmless sumacs have dense, upright, terminal flower clusters which are conspicuously red in the fruiting stage. Their leaves bear 9 to 31 leaflets and have either a winglike or a hairy covering on the leaf stalks, depending upon the variety.

WHOOPEE, DEBTS, AND TAXES.

Every one who has heard the fable of the goose that laid the golden egg has laughed at the cupidity and stupidity of the owners. We do not know what sort of an argument the goose put up. It had at least the whimsical consolation of knowing there was going to be a surprise. The New Deal is listening to a lot of fables, but apparently this isn't one of them. Mr. Roosevelt is listening to Huey Long, the boy with the ax.

When L. H. Parker, tax expert for the joint congressional committee on internal revenue, was questioned by Senator Harrison on sources of income taxes, he said: "It's surprising how little there is above $50,000. The real revenue is in the lower brackets." Mr. Harrison grieves to hear it. He's up for reelection next year.

Senator Byrd of Virginia, who is particular as to the kind of fables he believes, asked Secretary Morgenthau why he didn't go out and tell the country that the soak the rich bill was a farce. Mr. Morgenthau is not telling anybody anything, as the senate finance committee members found out. They tried him with all the questions they could produce and the secretary stood mute. Furthermore, he said he intended to stand mute. Mr. Morgenthau may be thinking of his reputation and surmise that at the best he will not be regarded as the greatest secretary of the treasury since Alexander Hamilton.

The secretary did venture the statement that the deficit last year was four billion. As treasurer he should know, but he refrained from using his own figures. He gave the President's message as his authority. Mr. Roosevelt is supposed to make the deficit, Mr. Morgenthau to keep track of it. Mr. Morgenthau is modest. Mr. Roosevelt can have the whole job. The secretary conceded, however, that the soak the rich bill wouldn't bring in more than seven per cent of last year's deficit.

In 1929 the federal tax collector got 2 billion 331 million from incomes. In 1934 he got 817 million. He went elsewhere for 1 billion 500 million of internal revenue collections. The simple rule seems to be that if they haven't got it you can't get it. The federal government has been running deficits for four years and anticipates a total debt of 34 billion in 1936.

If the rich and well to do are to bear the greatest burden of that debt they must first get the money themselves. In times of great activity and great prosperity, with government spending closed down, they might begin to whittle away the debt just as was done with the war debt beginning in 1920. Nine billions were knocked off in eleven years, mostly in boom times which were to last forever.

The New Dealers can't have it both ways. Taxation of the rich requires the existence of the rich. The dead goose lays no eggs. Also the governmental spree must stop. If the citizens are to make the debt good the spender must mend his ways. The debtor must sober up and settle down. He cannot keep up the whoopee and the cracking down. If he does he'll settle his accounts some other way, probably by depreciated currency and general disaster.

CALIFORNIA AS THE PROMISED LAND.

In the light of much experience the diversification of government in our union of states seems wholly admirable. Such defects as critics find appear wholly negligible when the general excellencies of the scheme are observed with the seeing eye. If the scheme hadn't grown naturally out of the early democracy's very composition we might not have been able to invent it, and, failing to invent it, have found ourselves destroyed by the unwieldy bigness of the whole American enterprise.

To illustrate the excellencies of the indissoluble union of sovereign states one has only to reach out and pick up the first example that comes to hand. Just now California comes to hand. Walter Davenport, for Collier's, has been looking the state over. He finds it is overrun by the queerest herd of vagrants and transient idlers that ever made a pilgrimage. It is a repetition on a larger scale of what happened last year when Mr. Sinclair's EPIC was the talk of the country. Mr. Sinclair's EPIC was and is a large part of the cause of it.

The point to be made illustrating the beautiful workability of the indissoluble union of sovereign states is that a sovereign state so quickly can reap what it sows for the edification of the sister states, if they are wise enough to be edified, as many of them are. We have 48 testing grounds and each one of them may, if it cares to, produce at almost any time a horrible example of what it is wise to avoid.

California began with a little too much self-adulation. It succeeded in proving a bit too much. It became set apart from the others as having something elsewhere unobtainable. The thing began with the native son and the weather. In consequence California began to attract many queer fish whose ambition was to get back to Eden on the easiest terms. With nothing on their minds but the climate, they were easily inclined to prophets, and the prophets multiplied to fill the demand. Approximately half of the schemes which give America a slightly imbecilic overcast of eccentricity originated with the California pundits and yogi.

Half of the deluded transients who are swarming over the California border think that EPIC has been established there and that Dr. Townsend's pensions are being paid. The state now is almost distracted by the problem presented by these hungry, half clad nomads who can't be kept out, and who, when in, must be fed. The federal government has encouraged nomadic life by its transient relief stations which grubstake the pilgrim on his way.

Most of the nomads are unemployables, and if Washington ever throws this class on the resources of the states, as it proposes to do, California is sunk. There have been violent exclusionist movements in California before, but none so violent as the one now for the exclusion of Americans, which can't be done. Much trouble as the Californians pretend to have with the Japanese, they're having more with the American immigration. The worst of it is the nomads are ever piling in from the warm climate of the south, even from Florida, which is about the last straw.

Sometimes states behave in such manner that their wealth producers flee. Sometimes they attract public burdens to themselves. Sometimes they encourage disorders and criminal activities. Sometimes they ruin their credit and sometimes they pass under the intolerable government. Luckily, each one makes its own bed.

MILE-A-MINUTE SUBURBAN SERVICE.

No method of public conveyance, however seemingly essential it may be, can long afford to permit its service to run down without losing a substantial amount of its patronage. The public is too ingenious. First a few and then greater numbers discover a substitute method and the degenerating carrier finds it necessary to operate with reduced revenues. Curtailed services, if resorted to, may at first reduce operating costs to meet deficits, but that method only serves to accelerate the diversion of customers.

This seems to be the story of our railway suburban service. While few of the roads are paralleled by interurban electric railways, all must experience highway competition. It is easy enough to say that the railway fares are so low that a suburbanite cannot afford to drive his automobile, but this overlooks the growing practice of neighbors clubbing together to use a single machine by splitting the fuel cost. The tendency toward cheaper automobile operation and faster cars is acting as a spur to community transport. Our railway friends inform us that their schedules are now as fast as can be contemplated with the present equipment; further, that their schedules are arranged to accommodate the greatest number of commuters. Such statements merely prove the necessity for our repeated demand that railway suburban service must be rejuvenated.

The more we study the problem the more we are convinced that light weight, streamlined, diesel driven units that have come to be known as the "Zephyr" type will solve the problem. They are speedy, are capable of high acceleration, will carry a maximum load of passengers, and can be operated continuously. If constructed to follow the double-ended "Comet" they eliminate the necessity for switching. The railways are now reaping substantial benefits from the establishment of a main line service that appeals to the public. It is attracting travelers from long distance automobile trips. The same result will follow mile-a-minute suburban service.

RENEWING AN OLD ACQUAINTANCE.

One hundred years ago a journey from Chicago to New York was an endurance contest to be contemplated only in case of necessity and to be undertaken by the physically fit. It involved water and overland transport in almost their crudest forms. Fifty years ago the railways had completed the steel connection between these two natural centers of population, but the trip left much to be desired in the way of comfort. Twenty years ago fast vestibuled trains carrying sleeping and dining cars made previous experience appear as nightmares, and ten years ago the airlines established service to eclipse every other form of transport for speed.

But the original route—overland across the state of Michigan, by vessel through the Lake Erie watercourse, and by canal down the Mohawk and Hudson valleys—still has its fascination. Far better accommodations are now available to any who wish to follow the footsteps of the pioneers. Leaving Chicago in midafternoon by the airways, it should be possible to connect at Detroit with the palatial steamers of the D. & C. line which sail every evening for Buffalo. The overnight lake trip, with its four hours of twilight before the twinkling lights along the shore line appear, is restful in the extreme. After docking at Buffalo at a convenient morning hour the journey to New York may be continued by airline or rail—it a side trip to nearby Niagara Falls does not appeal to the traveler.

We strongly recommend that the American Air Lines and the Detroit and Cleveland Navigation company work out a joint schedule that will feature both the speed of the air and the alluring cool comfort of the boat trip.

Editorial of the Day

ON WHOM LIVES REST.

[Beloit, Wis., News.]

There died in Los Angeles the other day William P. Mulholland, veteran hydraulic engineer, and the accounts of his death said that he never recovered from the shock caused by the collapse of the St. Francis dam seven years ago.

Mr. Mulholland, recognized as one of the country's greatest engineers, built the St. Francis dam in San Francisco valley, Cal. It gave way under the pressure of water, loosing a flood which wiped out several towns, caused $30,000,000 in property damage, and killed 400 persons. For the rest of his life Mr. Mulholland moved under the shadow of that catastrophe. It was something he never got over.

Does any man move under such a load of responsibility as an engineer? Every living mortal makes mistakes in calculation or performance at one time or another, but does any one see his mistakes bring such terrible consequences? In the tragedy that darkened this distinguished engineer's life there is a poignant testimonial to the fearful responsibility that rests on the shoulders of the man who builds things.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

TONY, THE RAGMAN.

The elbows on his knees affording brace
To calloused hands that cupped and nested in
The helpless desolation of his face.
The Ragman too, has tasted of depression.
His work has failed to earn the hard-crust bread—
Upon the little cart still flash the words
"Antonio Guzzo" painted in bright red.
The empty gunnysacks upon the wagon
(The little hopes of one who buys and sells)
Lie limp beneath this eloquence of silence:
The grim inaction of the Ragman's bells.

The world moves on, intent on things of moment—
A movie queen's divorce, a failing crop—
And only fools like me will turn to look
Upon the desperation of a wop.

Rosa Zagnoni Marinoni.

BEING STATISTICALLY MINDED, THIS TDR administrator tabulated the number of autos we passed in piloting our unstreamlined bus at an average speed of 25 to 35 miles per hour, according to traffic conditions, from an Evanston apartment to parking space adjacent to Tribune Tower. It was not during the rush hours that we journeyed to TDR headquarters.

On this trip we passed 58 other autos. Those passing us numbered 74. Our route was Sheridan road, Lake Shore drive, and North Michigan avenue. Of the 58 cars which we passed 47 were driven by men and 11 by women. Of the 74 cars passing us 42 were driven by men and 32 by women. We just cite these figures as statistics with no thought of painting a moral unless to corroborate that the female of the species, etc.

BALANCE THE BUDGET.

Wake-Line: The administration is seeking any old way to get in money to dole out. I have a plan. Place a tin can, with a slot in the top, in every U. S. elevator. Each passenger, up or down, must drop in one cent. I know no reason why people should be given free elevator rides when building owners have gone to the expense of providing stairways. Soak the elevator riders as well as the rich. This should at least pay the national debt—soon.

When the cans are filled, send them to Washington to be opened by a new and large bureau, COPC (Can Openers, Penny Counters). When the cans are emptied, feed them to the goaties in Washington, of which there must be millions there, for so many people have lost their goats to Washington the last few months. Goaties love tin cans and will not require any other produce, Mr. Secretary. F.

SPEAKING OF TAXATION, AN AMENDMENT was offered to the Soak the Rich revenue bill providing an income tax of 15% on all government salaries in excess of $5,000. Congressmen receive in excess of $5,000. The amendment was defeated 60 to 14. Our national legislators at times may appear a bit radical in spending the taxpayers' money, but there was no lack of conservatism regarding their own pocketbooks.

"Oh, no, but I've discovered we both are on party lines," said Bill.

THE SIGNIFICANCE OF HEADACHE.

If the entire population of the United States were canvassed to ascertain the most common physical complaint we would find that headache ranks first. Constipation would probably run a fairly close second and, in some cases, the two symptoms would be associated.

Headache may be of short duration and have little, if any, real significance. On the other hand, it may be severe and long continued and indicate organic disease. Patients frequently classify their headaches as bilious, sick, nervous, fatigue, eye, etc.

We can readily forgive and perhaps condone the use of the salicylates for the occasional headache, and sufferers from chronic sinus infection may find the use of these drugs a satisfactory means of relief, but unless the cause is known we must not cover up the symptom, particularly if it persists or recurs periodically in severe form.

In a recent issue of the London Lancet Sir Edmund Spriggs reports a study of 4,796 patients, of whom 570 complained of headache. In 70 the symptom was minor or infrequent. Of the remaining 500 cases a careful study was made. The patients for the most part represented business or professional men and women and their families.

On a preliminary analysis Spriggs found 26 cases of organic disease located in the brain, such as tumors, hemorrhage, meningitis, encephalitis, or some injury. The chief characteristic of this type was the severity of the pain.

In another group 37 persons were found to be victims of some disease of the circulation, including arteriosclerosis. In these cases the pain began in the front of the head, spreading to the back, finally becoming general. The most favorable results followed rest, change of scene, and removal of the several causes of worry.

Toxic headache, due to kidney damage, was found in 21 patients. In most of these the pain was persistent with but few remissions. The greatest distress was usually felt in the forehead or temples, but occasionally diffused over the entire scalp. The cessation of headache in this group depended largely upon the relief of kidney load and the removal of foci of infection. Spriggs cites the case of a man aged 47 who complained of headache, constant fatigue, irritability, and slowly increasing weight. The blood pressure was high, and an examination of the eyes showed a certain amount of damage to the retina. Infected teeth were removed and a month later the headache had practically disappeared, inflammatory patches in the retina were fewer in number, and the blood pressure had fallen from 210 to 150. This was aided by rest and light diet.

Nervous influences were held responsible for 218, or 46 per cent, of the cases. Most of these persons had suffered from excess mental strain followed by nervous exhaustion. Some were anxious and worried, although not frightened or overworked. In this connection it should be recalled that Socrates would "prescribe no Physick for Charmides' headache till first he had eased his troublesome mind."

In Spriggs' report rheumatic headache comes in for its share of attention, as does eye strain, while sinus disease was held responsible for nearly 40 cases. Diseases of the stomach, duodenum, gall bladder, and appendix were not considered primary causes. Constipation, a well known factor, was found in 170 of the cases studied, but Spriggs considered it related to headache in only 35 cases.

The treatment of headache is the treatment of the cause. From Spriggs' study we may conclude that a high percentage of headaches are nervous in origin and require for their amelioration more rest, freedom from nervous strain, and a general building up of body resistance. In no instance, however, may we safely disregard the symptom when it is persistent.

GOUT.

I. A. L. writes: When I was 70 years old I was attacked by gout which came on, as you described in your article, in the joint of the great toe. My doctors prescribed colchicum in pellets. I had subsequent attacks until about three years ago, when I decided to use colchicum and wintergreen as a preventive, and so far it has been successful. I have never indulged in heavy eating or in any of the objectionable foods mentioned, and have never used liquor or tobacco. I am now 81 years old. The first attack greatly weakened me and I feel that I have not quite recovered my strength.

REPLY.

You are to be congratulated if the attacks are under control. Naturally, at 81, your powers of recovery will be slow. Use fresh green vegetables, a little lean meat, and lots of fruit.

TOUGHENING FEET.

Mrs. R. S. writes: What could I use to toughen the skin of my feet? I have great difficulty in "breaking in" new shoes though I get the correct size.

REPLY.

Soak the feet for at least an hour daily in two or three quarts of water containing 1 teaspoonful of crystallized alum.

POOR CIRCULATION.

S. C. M. writes: I have had a varicose vein in the groin for about ten years. I am below par, cannot gain weight, and am nervous. Could this vein be the cause?

REPLY.

Probably not, although the condition is an indication of some interference with the return circulation to the heart.

POCKET VETO POWER.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I understand that if the President of the United States leaves some bill on his desk without taking action on it that it automatically becomes vetoed, and is known as a "pocket veto." 1. What is the legal definition of a pocket veto? 2. A certain bill recently passed in Illinois but was not signed by the governor. When the ten day period elapsed I understand the bill was a pocket veto. However, some friends claim that if a bill is not signed within ten days it becomes a law. Who is right? J. M.

1. Section 7 of article I. of the United States constitution provides that: "If any bill shall not be returned by the President within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the congress, by their adjournment, prevent its return; in which case, it shall not be a law." The pocket veto power is given by the "unless" clause at the end.

2. Section 16 of article V. of the Illinois constitution is substantially similar. The "unless" clause reads "unless the general assembly shall, by their adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall be filed with his objections in the office of the secretary of state within ten days after such adjournment, or become a law."

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PARTNERSHIP BUSINESS.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I aim to invest $300 to become a partner in a small business. The man operating same at one time did a big business, but is at present in financial difficulties and requires help to increase the old business. What security should I obtain for this investment? Should the business fail to come up to expectations, what claim would I have to the partnership and how should this be contracted and by whom? H. E. B.

Creditors would be entitled to collect the full amount of their claims from either partner. Hence you would have to look to the surplus assets as far as your rights merely as a partner are concerned. It is possible that other protection could be worked out by an attorney who had all of the facts before him. We advise you to have a personal interview with an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

POLICE VACANCIES.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—[Friend of the People.]—I am on the now existing police list and have been told that about five hundred men will go on the force about Aug. 15. This leaves about four hundred men on the list, of whom I am one. On Jan. 1 about seven hundred men will be retired and their places will be filled. Will their places be filled from the list I am on or will a new examination be called and men called from the new list? J. K.

I wish to inform you that the commission contemplates certifying approximately 500 men from the eligible list for patrolmen in the near future. In the future the commission expects to fill vacancies from the present eligible list, or until another is established. JAMES S. OSBORNE,
Secretary, Civil Service Commission.

INHERITANCE TAX LAW.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please advise what position the Illinois inheritance tax law holds with respect to the federal estate tax and gift tax laws. Also, what is its position with regard to the proposed federal inheritance tax bill. Is the state inheritance tax levied on whatever inheritance may be left after payment of the foregoing mentioned federal taxes? F. R. W.

Section 42 of Illinois inheritance tax law and procedure regulations is in part as follows:

"The entire federal estate tax, being a claim or charge against the estate, is a proper deduction in arriving at the net estate subject to tax [People vs. McCormick, 327 Ill. 547]."

The same principle would apply to the gift tax. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

Prof. William H. Burton, a leader in educational literature, says: "It is quite clear that man as a physical and biological organism is no better equipped than he was when he first began leaving records—say 6,000 to 8,000 years ago." This represents the opinions of those who have studied man most carefully. Although man has wonderfully improved his adjustments to his surroundings through these centuries and has passed his experience on to his offspring for further advancement, there is no proof that man himself is any more intelligent now than he was at the dawn of history.

LOCAL BOY MAKES GOOD.

Highland Park, Ill., July 31.—In practically every local publication I pick up, and in none more than THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, I see "Created in Chicago," "From a Chicago shop," "By a Chicago designer," "A Chicago girl before she went to Hollywood," etc.

These facts are all very fine and interesting to know but, in their very boasting of Chicago's greatness and importance, words like these make the city seem small. It is to be expected that a city of almost four million persons will be productive of gowns and coiffures and pretty girls; it would be amazing if it were otherwise. New York is well aware of this. It naturally assumes itself to be the great cosmopolitan center that it is and, confident that the world knows this to be true, its newspapers and magazines do not shriek aloud "See what a great city I am!"

Chicago can never really become a rival of New York until Chicago grows up. Were our population ten million instead of three and a half, so long as we talked of our greatness instead of living it, we should still be simply an overgrown boy blowing on a horn to attract attention and to prove to himself that he is some punkins. R. B. B.

DEBTS IMPOSED BY DEMOCRATS.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—I think the cartoon in today's paper, Aug. 1, is very unpatriotic. Speaking of Wilson spending $26,000,000,000 has nothing to do with the present day situation. Neither creed, politics, nor religion entered into the war, which we won in an American manner. The Americans spent money, won the war, and forgot it. And all of America was in it.

I think that at this time to bring a dead President and a great man into cartoons in such a manner is a shallow and very unpatriotic thing to do.

C. H. CRUMPACKER.

GOLD.

Chicago, July 26.—Since the dollar has been revalorized I see no sense in keeping the nation's gold supply locked up, unless it be to make the floating supply more valuable. The nation's currency has about a hundred per cent gold backing: why buy more? J. M.

GLORY, GLORY.

Washington, D. C., July 29.—I have written many campaign ditties that have been used in Republican campaigns from McKinley [1896] to Hoover [1932], and I am inclined to believe the country needs a new Battle Hymn of the Republic, beginning as follows:

Mine eyes have seen the folly of the
New Deal and its lord,
Who tells the world, by golly! We'll discard the old buckboard,
He must be off his trolley, listening to his brain trust horde,
The way he's going on.
Glory! Glory! How he'll do you—
Glory! Glory! How he'll do you—
Glory! Glory! How he'll do you—
If he keeps going on.

M. T. DOMB.

TOO MUCH GENTLENESS.

Florissant, Mo., July 31.—Why is it the press, as a whole, handles the present administration at Washington and the various state Democratic administrations, and, for that matter, local and county governments, with kid gloves? If ever a party as a whole has laid itself open to attack by its continual and ever-repeating transgressions against all decency it is the present crowd in Washington and elsewhere, and one wonders why the press remains so completely dumb about it. Where are our great editors that they don't come out and thunder the truth? I don't think the present crowd needs any consideration. Excepting on the prohibition question—and I wonder whether that really is a benefit—the whole Democratic party has failed to keep a single promise made in its platform, either state or national. One would almost think we were back in Wilson's administration when it was almost traitorous to speak the truth against the party in power, although that party claims it a privilege to vilify and malign the Republican party.

I like what your paper is doing, but you don't go far enough. Give them the works. Show their perfidy, their hypocrisy and that whole rotten crowd up so that it will be generations again before one will be brave enough to try it over again. J. F. GROBEDIEHER.

FOR ROOSEVELT.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—We are fortunate that the Ship of State is steered by a man who by dint of his individuality, talents and social-mindedness has won over the nation to his excellent views on the problems of the day. Impartial students of history will admit that by his attitude President Roosevelt stands out as a veritable bulwark against both bolshevism and Fascism, forms of despotism that are distasteful to the American mind. The "Grass Rooters" are clamoring in vain, for they have no social program, no man who would equal F. D. R. In 1936 our President will be reelected by a tremendous majority, and this time, I hope, with a free hand to carry out his great program of national recovery. ZYGMUNT WISNIEWSKI.

EXPELLED FROM HIS UNION.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—Since the war I have been working as a painter and decorator. I find I am only employed about half the time, due to building conditions in Chicago.

I don't seem to be able to get ahead, as I can never be sure of steady work.

Last winter I worked for the Carbide and Carbon corporation of Whiting, Ind., and the painters' union has expelled me for working there, claiming it was unfair to organized labor; yet they have never helped me find work or helped me in any crisis as they agreed to do when I joined the painters' union.

I am 37 years old and married. I am a First division veteran. I am healthy, able-bodied, and willing to work hard at anything I can get. I would be very glad if you could help me in some way to get employment. E. F.

spread support among them is that their convention shall be called to meet early next summer in advance of the regular Democratic convention for the strategic purpose of making the Roosevelt convention look like a heterodox offshoot from the meeting of simon pure, blown-in-the-bottle Jeffersonians. They would nominate their own ticket and write a platform calling for the repudiation of the New Deal and return to constitutional government.

Already the names of candidates are being canvassed—Senators Glass and Byrd of Virginia, Al Smith, Bainbridge Colby, Lewis Douglas, Newton D. Baker, former Gov. Ritchie of Maryland and Gov. Talmadge of Georgia.

Important Test Tomorrow.

There will be a more important test of the public attitude toward the New Deal in a by-election next Tuesday in the first congressional district of Rhode Island. The district is normally Democratic and the state is controled by the Democratic party. If the Republicans should win, the event would be most significant.

Of course, no one would deny that Herbert Hoover, our only living ex-President, is an outstanding figure, but at present enthusiasm for his renomination appears to be more pronounced in the Democratic than in the Republican party.

A list of potential candidates among whom party leaders have been asked to indicate a choice includes James M. Beck, former congressman from Pennsylvania; William E. Borah, senator from Idaho; Charles Curtis of Kansas, former Vice President; L. J. Dickinson, senator from Iowa; Hamilton Fish, congressman from New York; Daniel O. Hastings, senator from Delaware; Herbert Hoover; Harold G. Hoffman, governor of New Jersey; Patrick J. Hurley of Oklahoma, former secretary of war; Arthur M. Hyde of Missouri, former secretary of agriculture; Frank Knox of Illinois; Alfred M. Landon, governor of Kansas; Arthur W. Little of New York; Frank O. Lowden of Illinois; Charles L. McNary, senator from Oregon; Ogden L. Mills of New York, former secretary of the treasury; Harry W. Nice, governor of Maryland; Gerald P. Nye, senator from North Dakota; Arthur R. Robinson, former senator from Indiana; Theodore Roosevelt of New York; Bertrand H. Snell, congressman from New York; Frederick Stiewer, senator from Oregon; Arthur H. Vandenberg, senator from Michigan; James W. Wadsworth, congressman from New York, and James E. Watson, former senator from Indiana.

Justices Among Them.

Robert Lucas, a former executive director of the national committee who was asked for a "vote" on the above list, is going to publish the returns to show the drift of sentiment in the party organization. Although there are a number of persons in the group named who could not by any stretch of the imagination be considered the likely nominee, there are several not included at all.

Among them are Associate Justices Harlan Stone and Owen J. Roberts of the Supreme court, Controler General J. R. McCarl, Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin; former Gov. John G. Winant of New Hampshire, and former Gov. Walter J. Kohler of Wisconsin. After the unanimous Supreme court decisions that jolted the New Deal speculation was busy with the name of Justices Stone and Roberts, either of whom, it was suggested, would make a logical Republican nominee in a contest in which the constitution is likely to be the paramount issue. Senator Borah assailed the suggestion as one tending to introduce politics into the Supreme court and little has been heard of it since.

Despite his 70 years there is a strong movement in favor of the nomination of Senator Borah. The constitutional issue brought him to the fore as the logical defender of our traditional form of government. His answer to the President's proposal to change the form of government by constitutional amendment or otherwise thrilled the party and won the plaudits of conservative Republicans who theretofore had regarded Mr. Borah with suspicion. Then he dampened the ardor of the conservative Republicans by coming out for the 3 billion dollar inflation bill to refinance farm mortgages and the 2 billion dollar veterans' bonus bill.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Trees Get Attention.

August 4, 1935.

SUCKERING and pruning trees along the avenue that crosses the Tribune experimental farm near Wheaton has been one of the main jobs of the gardeners lately. An abundance of rain during the spring and early summer months produced an excessive growth of suckers or "water sprouts" which lower the vitality of trees if not removed, according to John Wallner, head gardener.

All of the suckers have been removed up to the first branches of the American elms and catalpas. A row of elms and a row of catalpa trees are planted on each side of the avenue and staggered to allow ample room for the development of the tops. All of the dead branches have been removed.

Soft growth has been stimulated by the manure mulch kept around the trees for several years. Mr. Wallner explained that this had caused the development of a great spread of branches, causing excessive drooping in some cases and exposing them to the danger of breaking.

In pruning and shaping the trees the gardeners have found it necessary to remove several feet from the ends of some of the longest branches. They have followed the plan of not cutting out any of the tops, but confining their work chiefly to the trimming of side branches so that the trees would take on the natural form of the American elms and catalpas. They attempted to balance the trees as much as possible.

"Elms have a tendency to form sharp crotches and when the tops become too heavy they often split in the fork if the branches are not cabled or wired together," explained Mr. Wallner. "In pruning the trees along the avenue at the Tribune farm we cut back one of the main branches that form the fork, allowing the straighter one to grow. The time to take out these branches to avoid the necessity of cabling is while the tree is youn."

Another tree problem at the Wheaton farm has been the nursing of two Norway maples that were given a severe setback when moved to a new location. One is about 25 and the other 35 years old. They were moved last Christmas with big balls of frozen earth attached to the roots. They have been continuously mulched with leaves. The ball of earth around each tree has been enriched with about 15 pounds of complete commercial fertilizer and a bushel of manure from the poultry yard. The trunk has been kept wrapped to protect the bark up to the first branches.

Mr. Wallner says that the ball of earth has been watered regularly this summer. This has carried the fertilizer materials down into the lower layers and stimulated the roots so that they will get a "foothold" in the soil beyond the ball of earth. Despite all of this care the trees have had a great struggle this summer. Mr. Wallner expects the maples to pull through and to show the effects of the extra care as soon as the roots have become established.

Aunt Sue Crawford, 100 on Aug. 8, Will Celebrate

Perry, Ill., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—Aunt Sue Crawford of this place will be 100 years old on Aug. 8, recalling that she is older than the town in which she has resided for many years. This place was founded by her father, Moses Ogden, and others. She was born in New York in 1935 and brought into Illinois by river. Her parents and others first went to Naples, Ill., and then drove to the site of this town. Later she taught school here for several years. She resides with Mrs. Eva Dorsey, and is interested in current events.

DELEGATES HERE FOR GRASS ROOTS MEETING TODAY

Members of the permanent Republican Grass Roots committee of 50 from ten midwest states held informal conversations last night at the Edgewater Beach hotel preliminary to meetings today and Tuesday at which they intend to organize to carry on the movement begun in June at the Springfield conference.

The committee was created to formulate a plan for stimulating anti-New Deal activities in every precinct of the ten states—Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma. Harrison E. Spangler, Iowa national committeeman, who is chairman of the group, issued the call for the meetings.

"We will proceed with a general program for organizing in the states and formulate a campaign to stimulate Republican activities," said Mr. Spangler.

Each of the ten states is represented on the committee by five members. Illinois' representation consists of Mrs. Leslie Wheeler, Lake Forest; C. J. Doyle, Springfield, former secretary of state; Edward A. Hayes, Decatur, former national commander of the American Legion; James H. Douglas Jr., Chicago, former assistant secretary of the treasury, and Philip W. Collins, Chicago, who is active in the American Legion.

KILLED IN ALLEGED THEFT.

William Collins, 42 years old, colored, 4246 Vincennes avenue, was shot and fatally wounded yesterday morning when he and two companions are alleged to have attempted to rob another colored man of a package of meat.

GUARD BALLOTS IN KENTUCKY; HOT PRIMARY BATTLE

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Officials mounted guard in Kentucky's 120 county seats today over ballot boxes from the state primary yesterday which culminated a campaign of almost unparalleled bitterness. National Guardsmen controled the boxes in Harlan county.

Under the Kentucky law counting of the heavy vote may not start until tomorrow. Outcome of the struggle between candidates of two major factions and three independent candidates in the Democratic party may not be known for several days, as the tally usually is slow.

Adj. Gen. Henry H. Denhardt left 50 guardsmen to watch the Harlan ballots when he withdrew some 700 men who occupied the county at dawn election day.

The Laffoon administration favored nomination by the Democrats of Thomas S. Rhea. His principal opponent was Lieut. Gov. A. B. [Happy] Chandler, supported by a faction led by Ben Johnson, former highway chairman and former congressman, and J. C. W. Beckham, former governor and United States senator.

Felts in Lead as Fall Hats Come to Town

Designers Watching Choice of Early Shopper.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Furs, fuss and feathers really describe the new hats that will greet the crowds of returning vacationers. None of them to be taken seriously, the hatters more mad than usual, sort of skirmish around with some pretty wild brain storms, trying out everything, till a wearable conservative trend of headgear ha been definitly established by the questing shoppers.

Felts are the darlings of the first collections with velvets coming along in second place. Soft felts that have been "worked" as smoothly as soft velvet, felts in draped turbans and stunning off-the-face models that successfully flatter a youthful face.

Berets are perennial favorites, only this year they cannot be pulled and pushed to suit the fancy of the owner. The newest berets are wild and huge but the folds are permanent, and all pushed well out in front to shade the eyes. Turbans return after every wave of "cartwheels," they please the perverse strain in all feminine hat collectors—nothing like leaping from one extreme to the other in order that we may confound the spectators.

With these fall turbans that fit the head so snugly and smartly come new headlines, the expertly gouged out sections that make them vastly different from previous showings. Big swoops of the material are sheared out so that the hair and eyelines and forehead are exposed. One of these sharply cut-out hats is illustrated in the fashion photograph.

The hat in the photograph is available in a Chicago shop from a new collection of fall hats . . . it is of velvet cut with an accentuated face line and ending in a point worn directly in front. An off-the-face model worn way back on the head. A twisted rope halo of the velvet in matching or contrasting shade is the only decoration. All color combinations and black are obtainable.

50,000 Hear Closing Symphony Program in Grant Park Series

The Chicago Symphony orchestra, with Eric DeLamarter conducting, gave its final concert of the present series in the bandshell in Grant park last night before an audience estimated at 50,000 persons.

The band of Victor Grabel, general music director of the Chicagoland Music Festival, will be heard tonight. Several unusual features will be on the program, among them the appearance of Vera Mirova, the first dancer to appear on this series, and also that fine singing organization, the Chicago A Cappella chorus, directed by Noble Cain, the general choral director of the Chicagoland Music Festival. Tonight's program:

1. Overture "Academic Festival"....Brahms
2. "Elsa's Entrance Into the Cathedral" ["Lohengrin"].....Wagner
3. "The Two Grenadiers".....Schumann Mr. Koch.
4. "The American Rhapsody"..Leo Sowerby
5. Overture "1812".....Tschaikowsky Mme. Mirova.
6. "Capriccio Espagnol"..Rimsky-Korsakow
7. Motet—"O God, Hear My Prayer".....Gretchaninoff Chicago A Cappella chorus, Noble Cain, conductor.
8. Finale to "4th Symphony".Tschaikowsky "The Star Spangled Banner."

HILDESHEIM, Germany.—A black-robed priest took a great key from the bunch at his waist and opened the great doors of the cathedral cloister where grows Hildesheim's thousand year old rose. It was early evening and the hour brought added enchantment to the quiet of the old cloister with its thousand year old walls, its flowers, and its ancient gravestones. The rosebush grows some thirty feet high, clinging to the wall of the cathedral crypt, and its shoots are carefully tagged and dated. The oldest now living is marked 1892, and there are two 1934 shoots.

A legend accounts for the existence of the rosebush. One day in the time of Charlemagne a priest read mass on this spot to Louis the Pious, son of Charlemagne. When the priest departed he left behind the sacred vessels and when he returned to get them he found a rosebush had taken root and twined its tendrils so tightly about the vessels they could not be moved. Louis then caused a church to be built on the spot, in the accustomed fashion in miracle places.

THE white-haired priest, with final glances at the ancient vine-clad cloister walls, which seemed to be his special pride and with German mutterings as to their age and beauty, led us into the cathedral and we passed out into the market square where a stone figure of Roland adorns the ancient fountain. It is surely one of the most picturesque old squares in Europe. The half timbered houses, richly carved and brightly decorated, date from the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. One of them, the Butchers' Guild house, has been called the most beautiful half timbered house in Germany. But there are some 700 of the old houses—all settings for a fairy tale.

IN the center of the public square opposite the railway station was another—a shining new erection. It was a great aerial torpedo, painted white, with the Nazi swastika in scarlet on all sides. The scarlet lettering at the base reads:

"Air Defense Is a Question of Life to Our People."

On the other side a second red-lettered inscription calls on the German woman to be air-minded.

By these signs and insignia are the German people apparently being taught that a future war will be a war of defense.

ON the excellent motor road that led from Bremen to Hanover, and on to Hildesheim, through groves of beech trees, past wheat fields and pasture land, and fine brick barns and houses, we passed many motor cars filled with officers. On horse and on bicycles were occasional khaki-clad men, the red swastika on their armbands. Whether they were soldiers or men from Nazi labor camps I do not know. In Hildesheim we saw a band of young boys in khaki shirts and shorts, the green swastika as their insignia. Probably some of Hitler's Jugend, the youthful Nazi organization, we supposed.

Everywhere in Germany, from the farmers working in the field from whom we have asked directions, to the man on the street who has directed us on our way, have we had heart warming friendliness and courtesy.

Sally's "Jack and Jill" Party Guests to See "Water Babies" Drama

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Today I want to tell you youngsters more about our Jack and Jill party which is to take place on Thursday, Aug. 15. The name of the play to be presented for us by this clever group of youngsters under the direction of Marie Agnes Foley, is "The Water Babies." If you've read the book of the same name by Charles Kingston, you must know of the wonderful adventures of little Tom.

Remember Tom, the dirty little chimney sweep? Years ago, when houses were heated only by great big open fireplaces, there were little boys who spent all their time clibing down the chimneys of these fireplaces and sweeping and cleaning them out.

How would some of you boys who think it's too bad that you even have to go to school, like a job like that?

Tom's adventures are hilarious, but I'll have to wait till tomorrow to tell you about them. Right now I want to explain again just how you can win an invitation to this party.

I want every boy and girl interested in securing an invitation to write to me, telling why you think you'd like to be included as my guest, and be sure to give me your full name, address and age. That letter must reach me by next Thursday morning, because on that day I'll select invitation winners from the letters.

Each child must write his or her own letter, those written for you by some one else will not be accepted.

Address your letters to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Society's Horse Fans to See Two Shows in Week

Events at Ft. Sheridan and Dunham Woods Club.

BY JUDITH CASS.

IN the short space of one week society's horse enthusiasts are to be treated to two events of more than passing interest. The Fort Sheridan Horse Show association already has announced its exhibition, replete with military splendor, for Sept. 13 and 14 at the fort. Now the officers of the Dunham Woods club at Wayne tell us they will have their horse show the Sunday preceding, Sept. 8.

In many details the events will be similar, yet they will provide a pleasant study in contrasts. The Fort Sheridan show, at least judged by its predecessors, will be very professional and formal. The Dunham Woods event will present some of the best horseflesh in this part of the country, but it will be delightfully reminiscent of the country horse show in which it had its beginning.

This is to be the fourth show at Dunham Woods, but only the first since the inn became a private club. Needless to say, the clubhouse will be crowded with gay parties the week-end of Sept. 8 and every one will have a jolly good time. Then, too, all of the guests will have the satisfaction of insuring the operation of the Wayne fire department for another year. New England fashion, the horse show proceeds go to the support of the local fire fighters.

Fort Sheridan Proceeds to Go to Army Needy.

Mrs. Paul B. Magnuson Jr. is a member of the committee planning the Dunham Woods show. The other members are Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay Jr., Raymond Otis Mitchell, John Dole, Joy Morton II., and Jesse Burt.

The widows, wives, and children of army officers and soldiers who are in need will benefit by the proceeds from the Fort Sheridan show. Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy has been made the honorary president of this show, with Brig. Gen. D. T. Merrill the active president. The vice president is Col. Harry D. Chamberlin, recognized throughout the country as an expert horseman, and First Lieutenant Edwin C. Greiner is the secretary and treasurer. On the committee are Brock Fuller of Milwaukee and Donald B. Douglas. Lieut. Col. C. B. Meyer will conduct the military exhibition.

The list of judges is imposing. Pierre Lorillard Jr. will come from Tuxedo, N. Y., to judge the hunters and jumpers with Lieut. Col. E. N. Hardy of Fort Robinson, Neb., and Everett Crawford, also of New York. T. Groverman Ellis will be the judge in the saddle horse class and Mrs. Orton L. Prime of Milwaukee has accepted an invitation to judge the children's classes with Mr. Lorillard. Selecting the winners in the military classes will be Col. Clarence Lininger of Des Moines, Ia., and Col. Isaac S. Martin.

Parties Planned for Winnetka Debutantes.

There's another party in the offing for two of the Winnetka debutantes, Miss Evelyn Shuman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Shuman, and Miss Katherine Bulger, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Bulger. Mrs. Harry J. Sullivan is planning a dinner-dance for them the evening of Aug. 31 at the Indian Hill club. On Sept. 9 Miss Shuman, Miss Bulger, and Miss Frances Price and Miss Rosemary Kemper will be special guests at a tea-dance given by the Kenneth Smiths aboard their yacht Kenkora II. Miss Price and Miss Kemper will be two more young women making their bows to society this autumn.

Henry Sinceres to Hold Triple Celebration.

Tomorrow is a very important day in the household of the Henry Sincere. Not only is it the third wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Sincere and the first birthday of their daughter, Margaret Ann, but it also will mark Ann's christening. The christening ceremony is to be at 3:30 o'clock in the chapel of the Fourth Presbyterian church in the presence of relatives and a few friends. It will

Good Morning!

Two loop theaters this week concern themselves with the intricacies of marriage between east and west. "Java Head" presents its problem at the Palace. "Shanghai" unfolds a like one at the Chicago. Of "Shanghai" more, tomorrow.

"Java Head," evolved from the pages of Joseph Hergesheimer's novel, is a distinguished little photoplay. Somehow, though, in transition, the story has got blurred about the edges and in its film form lacks the quiet power, the sustained suspense, the keen character contrasts of the original.

Against the prim background of a New England waterfront town of an earlier period is disclosed the tale of a young shipmaster who sails from home, disgusted with the petty backbiting, the narrow conventionalism of the people he knows and their treatment of a lovely, unfortunate girl in whom he is interested—and returns to confound the community — with a Chinese wife!

Developments attendant upon Gerrit Ammidon's flabbergasting homecoming consume most of the reelage.

The acting of the principal characters leaves little to be desired—though one wonders just why the all English cast. Edmund Gwenn, who will be long remembered by us all for his brilliant characterization in "Laburnum Grove" brings all of his fine craftsmanship to the rôle of old Ammidon. Never was there an actor who seemed less TO act than does Mr. Gwenn.

John Loder is a handsome, sensitive, moody Gerrit. Anna May Wong is still and picturesque as his Manchu princess. Elizabeth Allan is winsome and distraught as the uphappy girl sacrificed to the conventions. Other players show intelligence and costumes and staging of the period are interesting.

See you tomorrow.

The Husband Snatcher

By Elizabeth York Miller.

SYNOPSIS.

Nancy and Dick Heritage have been married for two years and are still greatly in love. Though Nancy is hated by Edith Heritage, her mother-in-law, and she has come to live with them in their little house in Primrose Dene, near London. There is a gap of four years in Nancy's life which she had not satisfactorily accounted for. Nancy is informed by Mr. Sam Digger, attorney, that she has been bequeathed £5,000 by Miss Agnes Satchell, late governor of a girls' reformatory, where Nancy had been committed for four years. Nancy had been employed by a Mrs. Lane and was accused of theft. Sylvia, Mrs. Lane's daughter, was the real culprit. Sylvia threatened to kill herself if Nancy exposed her. Nancy foolishly took the blame, though she possessed a signed confession from Sylvia. Miss Satchell believed in Nancy's innocence. That evening an account is given in the newspaper of the assassination in China of Nancy's sole remaining relative, her aunt, and her aunt's family. Next morning Nancy, who hadn't informed her husband of an expected heir, is unable to get out of bed.

INSTALMENT VII.

THE STORK UNWELCOME.

As Dick moved about the room opening and shutting drawers and banging the cupboard doors, he harassed his wife in the manner of one who has a personal grievance.

"It was because you had that crying fit last night," he said crossly. "Or do you think the food was too rich, as mother said? Have you got a headache? O, for goodness sake, Nance, buck up. If you can't sew that button on for me, tell me where your workbasket is and I'll do it myself. Is it in here?"

Now he was opening that top drawer of her dressing table, and Nancy staggered out of bed.

"Leave my things alone," she said sharply. "I'll sew the button on. Go and have your bath."

"Well, you needn't be so snappy about it," Dick grumbled.

Suppose he had lighted on that check! Queer, how unconsciously fate leads people almost blindly toward the discovery of other people's secrets. Never before had Nancy known Dick to open that particular drawer.

Only too pleased that she had at last made a move toward getting up, he started for the bathroom. But in a few seconds he was back, looking like a thunder cloud and with a brand new grievance.

"Mother's got in ahead of me," he said in a disgusted tone. "She had a bath last evening. I should think that would have done her for a little while. You'd better make some arrangement with her about that, Nance. Could Minnie bring in some hot water, do you think? Good lor', but I do hate washing in the bedroom."

It seemed impossible to make any headway that morning.

Edith Heritage had not been long out of the bathroom before her bell rang.

Dick was already clamoring for his breakfast, and since Nancy had discovered it physically impossible for her to come within range of the odor of eggs and bacon, she told Minnie to carry on, and went herself to see what her mother-in-law wanted.

Edith Heritage was one of the neatest women in the world, and her bedroom was in a state of apple pie order, which was to be wondered at so early in the morning.

"Suppose Dick had found that check in the drawer."

After her bath she had put on her pearl earrings and a white silk dressing gown and got back into bed. She looked not only beautiful but supremely comfortable.

There she lay with her writing portfolio at hand, wanting tea and toast brought to her—"If it isn't too much trouble, Nancy!"—and her gas fire lighted. Also, she would like a newspaper. And had the postman come yet? O, yes, and with her tea and toast she wanted the juice of two oranges. "Tell Minnie to strain it, Nancy."

Nancy found that she had to sit on the floor to light the gas fire; otherwise she might have collapsed into it.

Mrs. Heritage regarded her with alarm.

"What's the matter? Are you ill?" she asked.

"Are you often taken like that?"

"No—only these last few days. I shall be all right in a little while. It's quite a good gas fire, mother. There are no fumes—they all go up the chimney."

But Mrs. Heritage was not to be sidetracked so easily.

"It's not possible, Nancy, that you are going to have a baby!" she cried.

Nancy clung to the bed rail—looking not so green now; merely lemon-colored.

"Of course it's possible, mother," she said.

Mrs. Heritage's expression implied that the end of the world was approaching.

"O, Nancy, how dreadful!"

"But—I don't think it's so very dreadful," Nancy protested.

"Have you told Dick?"

"N-no, not yet. I wasn't quite sure."

"O, my poor son!"

"But, mother, I think it would be rather nice."

"Then that shows how selfish you are. Here's your husband with his salary reduced, and me with my investments gone all wrong. How do you imagine it's going to be managed? Have you any idea of the expense?"

For the moment Nancy forgot that she was a rich woman.

"I could go to a clinic. There's a splendid one in Highgate where they take you for very little."

Edith, however, could see no bright side to this impending disaster—for to her it did seem a genuine calamity.

"Anyway, it won't be for a long time," said Nancy. "Now I'll go down and see about your breakfast tray."

Having had the news wormed out of her by her mother-in-law, Nancy realized that she would have to tell Dick at once, although she had wanted to choose her own time for it. This particular moment was ill-chosen, indeed—at the breakfast table on a rainy day that seemed to have started all wrong.

Dick stared at her in much the same way that his mother had done, and made almost the self-same comment.

"Good lor', it's not possible!" And his tone of voice registered the utmost consternation.

A cup of tea had revived Nancy, and she was on the defensive.

"I think you're perfectly horrid—and your mother is, too. A pair of absolutely selfish and self-centered people," said Nancy, showing unwonted spirit for one who was usually the personification of meekness.

Dick got up and flung down his napkin. His beautiful wife looked quite plain, almost unlovely this morning. Her lips were just the same pale tinge as her cheeks. He loved Nancy most of all for her beauty and the idea that she could ever change, revolted him.

"Thank you very much," he said stiffly. "If you think by adding to the number already in this household you are doing me a favor, you make a big mistake. Call me selfish, or anything else you like, but kindly leave my mother out of it. At least she can't be held responsible for your interesting condition."

It was a cruel speech; much, much more cruel than Dick Heritage intended or even realized.

Nancy said nothing. She simply could not speak. But her thoughts ran like a mill race: Dick didn't love her because she was going to have a baby; well, it would be all her baby, and she could leave Dick, if she wanted to.

That last was a startling thought.

Yesterday she had said and believed that she could not live if she ever lost Dick. Now it seemed the other way about—that if he was not careful he might lose her. Would it hurt him very much?

How often she had suspected that he only cared for her because she was an object of beauty. It was her beauty which had lured him in the first instance, and he had been very frank about it. Well, he would have to change his point of view or something serious might happen.

He went into the hall and put on his cap and raincoat. Then Nancy heard him run up the stairs. Very likely he was going to say goodby to his mother.

Nancy sat there with her hands clenched and a lump rising in her throat. She was glad that Minnie had not yet come into clear the table.

Dick ran down the stairs again and she now heard him fidgeting in the hall. No doubt he wanted her to come out and say she was sorry! No fear. And if he didn't come to her and say that he was sorry, then she simply would never forgive him.

He came in and stood behind her chair, bent down and kissed the top of her head.

"Well?" he said, a little uneasily.

Nancy did not reply.

"I suppose you think I'm a brute, Nance."

"I didn't imagine you had it in you," Nancy said coldly, "to be quite such a brute."

"I think you might meet a fellow halfway, old girl. O, dash it, I am sorry. Say you forgive me, Nance. I oughtn't to have spoken like that. I'm glad if you are, darling. Give me a proper kiss and say that all's well between us."

Indeed this was a handsome apology, considering that Dick Heritage was the person making it.

'Prospect Av.' Rehersals to Start Today

Drama Festival Premiere Set for Aug. 19.

Rehersals for "Prospect Avenue," a comedy by Ashton Stevens, Chicago dramatic critic, will begin today under the direction of Ben Guy Phillips, impresario of the North Shore Drama Festival. This play, scheduled as the fourth and last of a summer series, will have its première in the Central school playhouse of Glencoe Monday evening, Aug. 19. The current bill, "Noah," with Burgess Meredith as guest star, will continue in nightly performance, next Sunday excepted, until Aug. 13.

The cast for "Prospect Avenue" will not include Rosemary Ames, the motion picture actress, as originally announced. She has been replaced by Lenore Foresby. The principal rôles will be acted by Tom Powers, formerly of the Theater Guild, and Katherine Krug [Mrs. Ashton Stevens]. Whitford Kane, veteran comedian who has appeared in many Chicago engagements and was last seen in "The First Legion," was engaged recently for a prominent character. Philip Faversham, son of the famous William Faversham, will also make his debut with the North Shore Drama Festival in this play. J. W. Austin and Edgar Kent, members of the festival's permanent company, are among the other members of the cast.

Among the seven new plays to be staged in summer theaters of the east this week will be "At Marion's," written by Laurette Taylor, whose brilliant career is always recalled by the mention of "Peg O' My Heart." She will act the central rôle. The Casino of Newport, R. I., will be the scene of this première, which will take place tomorrow night. The play is expected to figure on the schedule of fall productions in New York.

The Chicago Comic Opera company's production of "The Mikado" [semi-professional], which was successfully offered in the Chicago Woman's club theater last spring, will be staged in Mandel hall of the University of Chicago on Aug. 15 and 16. The performances will be for the benefit of the university settlement. C. C.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—The secretary of war and Mrs. Dern and their two daughters, Mrs. Harry Baxter and Miss Betsy Dern, are spending the week-end motoring through the mountains in Virginia.

Assistant Secretary of State Francis B. Sayre, whose late wife was Miss Jessie Wilson, youngest daughter of the late President Woodrow Wilson, is in Boston for a few days and will sail tomorrow on the S. S. Quaker for England. He will return here next month.

Col. Harry D. Mitchell, adjutant general's department, accompanied by Mrs. Mitchell and the latter's mother, Mrs. I. B. Higgins, and Miss Eleanor Blackistone, are en route to Clarklake, Mich., to be guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Z. Potter of Jackson, Mich., in their summer home. They will leave Mrs. Higgins in Chicago for a several months' stay.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

A DEMAND BID.

South had always—I believe the correct word is "beefed"—about his hard luck. In six months of play, South had not held a card above a ten spot, to judge from his incidental conversation. Thus East and West did not begrudge South his two bid. On the contrary, they were both glad—in a quiet way. The following collection of aces and kings, to be presented in a few seconds, was something that they could hold up to South's descendants even unto the third and fourth generation.

The bidding:

SOUTH	WEST	NORTH	EAST
2 Ht. [1]	Pass	3 Di.	Pass
3 Sp.	Pass	4 Di. [2]	Pass
4 Ht. [3]	Pass	5 Ht.	Pass
6 Ht.	Pass	Pass	Pass

[1] A striking example of the rare demand bid: South has two club losers, and the faint prospect of a heart loser. His two bid is not stretched in the least.

[2] North hopes that the rebid in diamonds will indicate firmness and tops.

[3] The more North rebid diamonds, the less South liked it. He was subsequently urged into six hearts by the pressure of North's opinion. South feared, and feared rightly, that there was complete duplication in the two hands.

East, the leader, was not a man with whom any one would wish to shift shoes. A diamond lead seemed out of the question. East suspected that a trump lead would definitly make six safe for South. Confronted with a trump lead, South wraps up seven. And so far as either clubs or spades were concerned, East was pretty hesitant.

East finally opened spades, South won, and noting the ace and king of diamonds provided a satisfactory resting place for the queen and deuce of clubs, proceeded to make an elementary safety play.

He led the ace of hearts. When West dropped the eight, South played a small one, giving East an unexpected but boomerang-like trick with his jack. The seven of hearts then provided the necessary reëntry to the board and North's diamonds.

"That's the sort of break I get," complained South. "More than enough higher cards for seven and I can't make it."

East and West gave up.

BY MARY MEADE.

We aren't exactly certain of when "dog days" come, but our guess would be that it's about now. And just as the antidote for canine hysteria is an abundance of available thirst-quenching material, so it is with the hot weather melancholia of us humans.

There was a time when pink lemonade sufficed nicely. But, what with our palates growing more sophisticated, and this great American hostess urge to serve something new, the pitchers and punch bowls of the country are ever open to new suggestions.

That's why we've been mixing and guzzling a new type of summer beverage lately—what's known as a marshmallow flip, or, better [cute name, huh?], a marflip.

The marshmallows in these fruity drinks are melted, just in case the idea has awakened a terrifying mental picture of quaffing puffy, floating confections. They add sweetness in just the right degree, and furnish beverages with a richness and body that are quite different [most pleasant, too] from ordinary fruit drinks and punches.

For instance, there's a beverage by the intriguing name of golden marflip, that deserves a wider acquaintance. Here's the how of its making:

Golden Marflip

1 cup boiling water
16 marshmallows
¾ cup unstrained orange juice
¼ cup unsweetened canned pineapple juice
¾ cup lemon juice
1 cup cold water
Ice

Measure the boiling water, add the marshmallows, and let them melt. Personally, we like to leave a few bits undissolved for frothing around on the top of the glass. Cool the mixture and mix with the fruit juices and water. Add crushed ice and chill.

Or marflips may be made with any other fruit juices you happen to have in the refrigerator. To make this simple, we'd suggest preparing a bit of marflip sirup in advance and keeping it on hand for just such hasty references.

Marflip Sirup

32 marshmallows
3 cups boiling water
Few grains salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Add the marshmallows to the boiling water and allow to melt. When the mixture is of a sirupy consistency, cool, add the salt and lemon juice, and bottle the sirup for future use. Keep in the refrigerator and mix with fresh or canned fruit juices, as desired.

Of the whole lot, however, the one we like best is the lemon marflip. It tastes like a rich lemonade with a little body to it, and it's grand to serve of an afternoon or evening, accompanied with crunchy wafers or cookies.

Lemon Marflip

1½ cups boiling water
16 marshmallows
Few grains salt
⅓ cup strained lemon juice
1 cup cold water

Measure the boiling water into a sauce pan, add the marshmallows, and let them dissolve until the sirup is completely clear. [This looks better minus the floating bits.] Cool the sirup by pouring it into a bowl of crushed ice, add the salt and lemon juice, and serve especially cold.

Here's a Beauty Game Which Allows Dreams of Luxury

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A luncheon group began playing a "wishing game" on cosmetic and general beauty upkeep items, which may serve as an idea for a game for you, too. The prizes attached all are of your own buying. But it was amusing to note in our group how the wish fitted in each time with the personality and appearance of the individual.

One of us wished for a soap endowment policy, premiums to be paid weekly in enormous cakes of now prohibitively priced, beautifully perfumed soap. This particular guest at the luncheon table is the girl of the gorgeously scrubbed and always exquisitely scented person. Another guest wished for bath salts in enormous jars of grand colors and enough of the bath salts so that economy would not restrain her hand at any time.

One wished for just one unlimited orgy at a cosmetic counter where she might choose something of everything on display for experimentation. Not a bad wish, that!

Another wished for an annual ticket of admission to a beauty salon to which she might have access daily or any moment of need or inspiration.

Another, on the plump side, wished for a season ticket for a reducing and exercise course, but to be done under circumstances of luxury, with the satin mattresses on which to exercise, the cabinet features, and body massaging. She was teased about being the luxuriously lazy reducer, which she goodnaturedly admitted she was.

Another, one of those poor victims with a constant war on flesh to battle, begged for a desert isle, one long year of it, during which time she might pick forbidden foods off trees and gorge on all the sweets now denied her.

And still another, a clothes minded miss, wished only for a legacy that would permit her to throw out every present item in her wardrobe, begin from scratch again and, with the aid of the smartest designer in the world, build a new clothes character.

All of which has no particular beauty lesson in it, but conversational fun for a hot afternoon or evening.

Applique Quilt Appealing with Refreshing Color

Lily of the Valley.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Appliqued on a pastel background this "Lily of the Valley" quilt block is one of the coolest and most appealing of the numerous applied designs. The flower and leaves are not too difficult for the amateur quiltmaker, and delightfully simple for the experienced needleworker. Plain blocks of white are an attractive contrast to the delicately tinted appliqued block. The pattern is especially suitable for a young girl's room.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

be followed by a reception at the Sincere residence, 569 Arlington place.

Mrs. Sincere is driving to Indiana today to get her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Robinson, and bring them back here for the triple celebration. Next week-end Mr. and Mrs. Sincere are to be guests at the house party Mr. and Mrs. Young are to have at Lake Beulah, Wis., in celebration of Mrs. Young's birthday. Miss Helen Gillette and her sister, Marietta, are expected back from California in time for the Lake Beulah party.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., was the guest yesterday of Miss Betty Slaughter at a swimming pool party at the Glen View club. Mrs. Vanderbilt is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. D. Melville Carr, formerly of Washington, D. C. Mr. Carr recently was appointed director of life saving in the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross. Mrs. Vanderbilt is a qualified Red Cross examiner and a former teacher of life saving.

Boys' Tennis Tourney at Winnetka Club This Week.

A north shore boys' tennis championship tournament will get under way this morning at the Winnetka Tennis club which, incidentally, is celebrating its silver anniversary this week. About a half a hundred boys, 15 years old and under, will compete in this tournament which will last a week. William Wade and David Early are responsible for a large part of the organization of the tournament. They are assisted by Lee Smith, the tennis professional at the Country Club of Evanston.

Miss Helen Fulton, the Frank D. Fultons' daughter, who is well known in tennis circles, is in East Hampton, N. Y., for the week of the invitational tennis tournament. She is the house guest of Mrs. Hanna Carr. Last week Miss Fulton played at Seabright, N. J., and next week she will go to Rye, N. Y., and stay on for the Wightman cup matches. Miss Fulton, who is the fourteenth ranking woman player in the United States, will play in the national tournament at Forest Hills, N. Y., before returning to Winnetka.

The Barrington Hills Country club is holding a flower arrangement exhibit today for its members and the members of three local clubs, the Countryside Garden club, the Village club, and the Woman's club. This display is not for the public, as it has been in times past, but is just a part of the club's monthly Monday meeting.

James B. Forgan Family Goes Abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Forgan and their daughters, Louise and Nancy, sailed Friday night on the Westernland for a month abroad.

Mrs. Charlotte Picher Purcell, who returned recently from several months in Paris, will go back in November to work for a degree at the Sorbonne. She is spending the summer with her mother, Mrs. Oliver S. Picher, in Glencoe. Mrs. Picher is expecting her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Oliver Picher, and her son, Oliver Lewis, age 3, and baby Sarah, born July 18, for a visit later this month. Lieut. Picher, who has been stationed at Langley field, Va., has been transferred to Rantoul, Ill., where he and Mrs. Picher, the former Marion Lewis, will make their home after Sept. 1.

Miss Muriel Picher, a debutante of the last season; Miss Nancy Knode and Henry Picher spent last week as guests of David Pabst in Oconomowoc, Wis.

The Arthur Tuttles, who are enjoying a round of quiet entertaining in Lake Forest, where they are visiting his mother, Mrs. Henry N. Tuttle, will return to their Millbrook, N. Y., home this week. Mr. Tuttle's sister and brother-in-law, the Kent Chandlers, will leave for the Huron Mountain club Friday to be away one month.

The De Forest Fulburds have gone to their camp at Crab Lake, Wis., for a few weeks.

Mrs. Frederick H. Scott and her son, Edward, have joined the Chicago colony in Charlevoix, Mich. Mrs. John H. Quinlan of Syosset, L. I., is with them.

The William A. P. Pullmans have been visiting the Thomas C. Dennehys at their cottage on the Chicago club grounds at Charlevoix, and the Edison Dicks—Mrs. Dennehy and Mrs. Dick are sisters—have had Miss Alice Coonley of Great Barrington, Mass., as their guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Hopewell Rogers, who are summering at Harbor Point, Mich., have been with Mrs. Ezra J. Warner at Charlevoix for a brief visit, and so has Bernard F. Rogers, whose permanent address now is Ormond Beach, Fla. Mrs. James H. Douglas of Lake Forest is occupying the Pabst cottage on the Chicago club grounds for the rest of the summer, and Mrs. George A. Poole Jr. [Ellen Stuart] also has taken a cottage for the rest of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Isaacs Jr. of Lake Forest are visiting her sister, Mrs. William R. Odell Jr., at Fish Creek, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Jennings will return from Lake Geneva tomorrow to complete plans for the Alaskan trip on which they will leave Aug. 16. They have chartered a yacht in which they will cruise along the Alaskan coast.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

THE fresh sweetness of lavender was long associated in the minds of our mothers and grandmothers with feminine daintiness—almost to the exclusion of other lovely scents. We don't feel quite that way about the situation today, but there is no denying that a breath of true lavender fragrance almost universally calls forth a mental picture of the beguiling womanly graces, soft femininity and sweetness. Perhaps its charm is enhanced by old association, but charm it has and charm it does, just the same.

There is a French cologne in the shops that is as true a lavender scent as we have come across in a long while. Breath takingly lovely, it is perfectly delightful when used as an after-the-bath lotion, or when sprayed in the hair. Cooling and refreshing physically, it leaves you encircled in an aura of fragrance, faintly suggestive of poke bonnets, and pantalettes, and a demure lass in a garden. But its daintiness adapts itself equally well, we assure you, to milady's modern negligée or garden frock, and cloaks her in as filmy a cloud of subtle femininity as ever walked the English countryside or invaded the French court.

With this generous bottle of cologne comes an innovation which we welcome with open arms. In the same box is an atomizer top, made to be substituted for the original cap of the container. And wasn't that a happy thought? It makes application so beautifully simple. Moreover, the price of the cologne has not been upped one whit. The atomizer is just a little extra present, and the two together are so moderate in price that you'll be perfectly delighted.

We should say, in passing, that although the lavender is our favorite, this cologne comes in other floral fragrances: Carnation, lilac, violet, and anemone, all of which are very nice indeed. You may even prefer one of them to our choice. We couldn't say about that. M. S.

A French cologne in a lovely lavender scent is delightfully refreshing after the bath.

Make Your Child's Friends Yours as Well

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"The most flattering invitation I ever had," said one woman, "was when I was 17, and the captain of the college football team asked me to the junior prom and all the events of graduation week, all in one invitation."

"The most flattering invitation I ever had," said one of the men, "was when I was invited to play in a foursome with Jones and Sennett and Thompson at their club."

"It's your turn now, Martha," said the hostess, turning to a smart, rather dignified looking woman with boys in their teens. "Tell us all the details."

"Mine happened last evening," she began. "I had put in a terrifically busy day and I was wallowing in that luxurious feeling you have when you've just bathed and dressed and finished dinner. Two of the neighbor's boys of about 10 were standing in our driveway with a battered, empty coffee can in their hands, but looking a little disconsolate. Then a bright idea evidently struck one of them. He came dashing over to where I was sitting, feeling quite elegant in a new afternoon dress, and burst out:

"Won't you come out and play 'kick the can' with us—please, Mrs. Barker?"

"That was my most flattering invitation! I had imagined I was only part of the landscape to those children."

You may think the children's friends don't notice you when you're around. They do. Just listen to them size up other parents some time and you'll be sure of it.

It's pretty nice for your children—at any age—when you're pleasant and human with their friends. And nice for you, don't you think?

THESE DELICIOUS BOWMAN MILK DRINKS

●When the children's appetites begin to lag in hot weather and they seem to crave only icy drinks, try this: give them a Bowman Milk Shake or a Bowman Eggnog.

They'll drink it up with delight . . . and get a "meal of nourishment." The whole family will enjoy these delicious drinks, too. And they're easy to make.

If you haven't a Bowman order card, just call Superior 6800 and the Bowman salesman on your street will supply you at once. He's ready to serve you—promptly, courteously, dependably, as he serves your neighbors. Tonight mark your order card for an extra quart or so of Bowman Milk and try the Eggnog or Milk Shake.

Bowman Chocolate Milk Shake

Put one pint of chocolate ice cream and one quart of Bowman Milk in a two-quart Mason jar. Shake well until ice cream and milk are well mixed.

Bowman Eggnog

Beat up one egg with one tablespoonful of sugar. Fill the glass with Bowman Milk. Stir well. Sprinkle with nutmeg.

FASHION DOES NEW THINGS WITH THAT CLASSIC FAVORITE

Hudson Seal
DYED MUSKRAT

Hudson seal-dyed muskrat is such a perennial success in the fur world that you might expect it to rest on its laurels. But such is not the case with Carson's coats. They have gone in for the new smaller collars, they have taken up the new deeper armholes, they have added swaggers and tunic types to their ranks. The peltries more than measure up to Carson's high standard of quality. Most of them are A. Hollander dyed, which means that their beauty goes right down to the pelt itself. They are a deep, rich black, and stay that way. Other Hudson seal-dyed muskrat coats of the stroller type (besides those shown).

JOHNSON QUITS; O'NEILL TO MANAGE INDIANS

VOTES SWAMP TABULATORS AS COACHES' POLL CLOSES

BACHMAN LEADS; NAME WINNER ON WEDNESDAY

Michigan Issues Defi to Nation.

BY ARCH WARD.

As Michigan goes, so goes the nation.

That's what they are saying in Detroit, Lansing, Grand Rapids, and scores of other cities today where feverish last minute efforts were made to put Charles Bachman of Michigan State over the top in the national football coaches' poll, which ended at midnight last night.

Similar chants are coming from Alabama, Indiana, California, and Wisconsin and it will be another 48 hours before America will know definitly who have been chosen to direct the team of College All-Stars against the Bears at Soldiers' field Aug. 29.

Bachman leads this morning by the narrow margin of 284 points in the greatest popularity test sport has known. The national poll, conducted by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and 105 newspapers in all parts of the United States, has attracted 5,255,694 votes. It probably will pass 6,000,000 after the thousands of votes cast yesterday are tabulated.

Votes! Votes! Votes!

Frank Thomas, whose Alabama eleven shared national championship honors with Minnesota last fall, is in second place and going strong. So are Bo McMillin of Indiana, Slip Madigan of St. Mary's, Dr. C. W. Spears of Wisconsin, Elmer Layden of Notre Dame, and Bernie Bierman of Minnesota. Any one of these famous leaders has a splendid chance to emerge victorious.

Hundreds of thousands of votes cluttered THE TRIBUNE sports department last night. None of these is included in today's standings. All out of town newspapers will forward their final figures before midnight tonight and the complete count will appear in Wednesday morning newspapers.

In view of the amazing vote it has been decided to increase the All-Star coaching staf from three members to four. The first four will be invited to serve. If any is unable to accept the man next in line will be asked. There will be plenty of work for four coaches, because the squad will exceed 40 in number and these players must be conditioned and molded into a team in less than three weeks.

Alabama Goes to Town.

Thomas already has beaten President Roosevelt's vote in Alabama. The Birmingham News and Age Herald yesterday forwarded 50,011 first place votes for Thomas, giving him a total of 219,627 from that state. Roosevelt polled 208,222 in the 1932 presidential election.

Alabama over the week-end literally went to town. Town in this instance was Birmingham, and from the rural precincts a steady stream of vehicles and votes poured into the city to swell Thomas' total.

"Going to town for Thomas" read the placards on every vehicle, according to the News and Age Herald. An ox wagon with 3,000 votes wound up the procession at dusk Saturday. Supporters of the Alabama coach took a day off from the cotton fields and corn fields. They had canvassed every crossroad section in the state and as a week-end celebration they started the big parade to Birmingham.

Every state in the Union has contributed to Thomas' vote, according to the News and Age Herald. So have England, Scotland, and Wales. There was one vote from Shanghai, China.

Everybody Votes!

The Detroit Free Press yesterday had this to say about the campaign for Bachman:

"The battle broke out into the open when Gov. Frank Fitzgerald made two radio appeals to the fans of Michigan to support Bachman, and after the Free Press began to exhort its readers to roll up a vote. This, together with broadcasts from WJR and

BROWNS DEFEAT SOX, 10-2, 4-1, TO SWEEP SERIES

Lyons and Tietje Lose in Double-Header.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The supposedly feeble Browns from St. Louis got out of control again yesterday and heaped more grief on the ailing White Sox. The eighth place visitors made a nuisance of themselves before 30,000 by putting the gallant Ted Lyons to rout in the first half of a double-header, 10 to 2. Then they staged a second celebration by clouting Les Tietje and causing the third place south siders to experience their first double defeat of the season. The score, after Tietje's hapless effort, was 4 to 1.

The two setbacks inflicted on Jim Dykes' gang gave the Browns three victories in the series, one game terminating in a tie, and at the same time stretched the former's losing streak to four games. That has happened to them only once before this season. And the eighth placers' manhandling of Lyons in the first game also comes under the heading of rare happenings. It was only the fourth defeat of the season for the veteran, who has 12 triumphs to his credit.

Johnny Comes Marchin' In.

Lyons didn't have long to wait before discovering it was not his day for work. Between sound hits, phoney hits, passes, and funny errors, the enemy hopped on him for six runs in the first inning. When they scored two more in the third he was yanked and Johnny Salveson stepped in with a brilliant relief job, but his labor went to waste. His mates couldn't make any headway against Elton Walkup. One of the two runs off the latter was Rip Radcliff's ninth home run.

Tietje had pudgy Ivy Andrews for an opponent in the second game, but the former slowed down and the latter kept going. Tietje began to bog down when Irving Burns walloped a homer in the fifth. The Sox, however, tied it in the same inning. Then Harland Clift was the author of a homer with one on in the sixth and that provided the Browns with all the lead needed to make sure Tietje would suffer his seventh defeat of the year. After the fifth, the Sox had to be satisfied with two hits, although they spanked more than a few treacherous liners. A fielder was always waiting for them.

Double Plays Costly.

Not a little of the trouble with the Sox attack in both games was the double play ball. They bounced into three twin killings in the first contest, although these didn't hurt in view of what happened to Lyons at the start. They bounced into three more in the second game, two of them in the early innings when a few runs would have meant something.

FIRST GAME

Lyons' misery in the first inning of the first game, when six scored was so aggravated that nobody was retired until the fourth batter appeared. Lary singled to left and Burns singled to right. Solters doubled to Radcliff's sector, Lary scoring. Pepper popped to Appling and West was purposely passed, filling the bases.

Hemsley should have been retired, but wasn't. His fly to short left was misjudged by Appling and it dropped for a single, Burns scoring. Lyons' bad luck continued when Clift bounced to Hopkins for what might have been a double play, but Hopkins threw wide to Sewell and Solters scored.

The next event was Carey's fly to Washington on which West scored. Bonura intercepted the throw in and then turned and made a wild toss to Sewell. The ball rolled away and Hemsley came home. Walkup doubled to score Clift with the sixth run. Lary then walked and Lyons engineered the long over due third out by picking Walkup off second base.

Next Time, Ted.

Four hits were notched against Lyons in the third before Manager

Will County Sprint Features Lincoln Fields Opening Today

BY FRENCH LANE.

Chicago's horse racing scene swings to the southern part of the circuit today when the Lincoln Fields Jocky club opens its summer season at its spacious plant on the Dixie highway near Crete.

The meeting will continue for twenty-five days, winding up Labor day afternoon. During the season five $5,000 stake races will be run. They are fashioned to bring the best horses in every division into action.

For the opening program the Will County handicap, a sprint at 6 furlongs, has top place. It carries a purse of $1,500 and attracted an overnight field of fifteen. The lineup is composed of the fastest horses on the western turf and includes Clang, which ten days ago tied the world record at 7 furlongs at Arlington Park.

Clang Looks Like 5-2 Shot.

That spectacular performance probably will send the New Orleans colt to the post as favorite, but the competition figures to be so keen that he will not be at a very short price. Overnight he was quoted at 5 to 2, with Charley Peck's speedy West Main as the second choice at 7 to 2. Laddie Komorous' entry of Top Dog and Corinto also mustered many backers, and some racegoers thought Ted Clark, which will be making his second start of the summer season, might win the race.

Most of the other events on the eight race card also have attracted limit fields. So large is the horse colony at Lincoln Fields and nearby Washington Park and so anxious are owners to run their steeds that a total of 95 horses were named to run on today's program. Five of the eight races are at distances of a mile or more.

Col. Matt J. Winn, president of the American Turf association, will be at the helm when the Lincoln Fields season gets under way. He will be surrounded by the staf of officials which successfully conducted racing at all American Turf association tracks.

Change to Summer Meeting.

For a number of years racing at Lincoln Fields has been offered in the early autumn. The change this year to a summer season necessitated a number of changes in the track appointments in order to safeguard the comfort of the patrons during August's usually hot weather.

Col. Winn is of the opinion that the season is far enough along now to encourage more races over a distance of ground. He has instructed Racing Secretary Will Shelly to arrange his daily programs with that view in mind.

Horses and stable retinues were arriving in a steady stream at Lincoln Fields and Washington Park yesterday, most of them moving in from the Arlington Park Jocky club's course. Others came from Kentucky, Canada, and the far west, replacing the horses in the Chicago racing colony that have moved to Saratoga for stake races this month.

Track Records May Fall.

A fast track is in prospect for today's program, which starts at 2:15 o'clock. Track Superintendent Tom Young has been at work resurfacing the racing strip for nearly two months and he believes some Lincoln Fields track records will fall before the season is far along. The fastest mile of 1934 in America was run over the Lincoln Fields track by Wise Ways. His time was 1:34 4-5.

The first of the series of stake races will be run Saturday. This will be the Crete handicap at 6 furlongs. The leaders in today's Will County handicap will be qualified for that battle.

CUBS LOSE TO REDS, 5-1; THEN CAPTURE 2D, 4-3

Warneke Is Pounded by Foes in Opener.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 4.—Good baseball and bad baseball, but exciting stuff in almost every inning furnished the background of a double-header which the Cincinnati Reds and the Cubs split this afternoon. The Cubs blew up for five runs in the eighth inning to lose the first contest, 5 to 1, after a seventh inning homer by Chuck Klein had encouraged hopes of a 1 to 0 triumph for Lon Warneke. But the Chicagoans battled and tumbled their way to a 4 to 3 decision in the second game.

Wally [Stonewall] Stephenson, making his first start as a catcher in higher than class D, was the star of the second game. The youthful rebel, released and recalled within a span of 24 hours last week, made three hits and was robbed of another. His second smash drove in two runs which brought the Cubs from one run behind to one run in front. He then scored the marker that proved to be the winner.

Warneke's Eleventh Defeat.

The blowup in the eighth inning of the first game was precipitated by a fumble by Bill Jurges. When this game was over Warneke was possessed of his eleventh defeat, one more than he suffered all last year, while winning 22 games.

Charley Root registered his tenth victory of the year in the second game, although he had to be helped out, in a manner of speaking, by Gen. Bill Lee and really protected by little Roy Henshaw.

The games were witnessed by 18,265 superheated fans, who didn't seem to mind much that the Cubs fell another game behind the Giants, whom they now trail by three games.

The first game was intensely interesting to one and all until the eighth inning blowup and then it was even more interesting to the home contingent.

The second game presented even more excitement than the first, partly because of the seesawing of the score and partly because of the quarrel between Umpire Magerkurth and Vice President Grimm, which started when Hack was called out at the plate trying to make a homer out of a triple. This ended a rally in which the Cubs went ahead, 4 to 2, with a splurge of three runs.

Magerkurth's Work Criticized.

Magerkurth's work has been causing severe criticism around the western half of the National league and Grimm took occasion to tell the official what he thought of him, a sort of culminative treatise. Magerkurth, who has a record as a jawcrusher, restrained himself from swinging on Grimm, but flew into a frenzy of anger. He chased Grimm and Stainback, gesticulating and cursing wildly in what probably was one of the most remarkable demonstrations of vanished poise displayed by a major league umpire in many seasons.

FIRST GAME

Cavarretta got to second for the Cubs in the first inning of the opening game when Bottomley cuffed his hot grounder into right field. The inning ended with O'Dea's fly to Babe Herman. Goodman singled to center with one out in the Reds' half and stole second. Babe Herman and Bottomley filed to Galan. For the next five innings there were no serious scoring threats.

In the seventh O'Dea popped to Bottomley and Demaree lined to Goodman. Then Klein hit his No. 19 homer, a 400 footer in the center of the right field stand. It was a slow ball which Chuck timed most dramatically. Hack drew Derringer's first pass and reached third on a wild pitch. The inning ended, however, when Myers threw out Jurges.

Bottomley Singles with Bases Full.

Levinsky to Work Out in Secret Today

BY WILFRID SMITH.

King Levinsky made his final public appearance at his Round Lake training camp yesterday afternoon preparatory to his bout with Joe Louis at Comiskey park Wednesday night. Levinsky, however, will work out again today, according to Art Winch, who recently joined the Kingfish's coaching staf, but this will be secret practice. Tomorrow the King will hide away in Chicago waiting for his date at the Illinois Athletic commission for examination.

The King's public at Peg's Haunted House arena yesterday included relatives, west side friends, associates of the fight fraternity, and inquiring guests from neighborhood resorts. The King's mother, a white haired, quiet woman, to whom this fuss is as foreign now as it was six years ago when her boy brought home his first $100, had a preferred location in the shade where cool breezes nullified the effect of August's blazing sun. With her, of course, was Mrs. Lena Levy, the King's much publicized sister-manager, who now is camp cook and permits Harold Steinman to do the managing.

What a Bodyguard!

Sam Krackow, swarthy bodyguard for his brother, who refuses to work at this job after the King has retired at 10 o'clock, hovered around the edge of the ring. Then there was Ben Rosofsky, brother of Barney Ross, world's welterweight champion; Wrestler Jim McMillen, his wife and 8 month old daughter; Senator George Maypole, Eddie Long, George Trafton and wife, and many others on hand to take a last look at Levinsky.

Thus closes one of the most unusual camps in the history of a bizarre business. Like ancient Gaul, this camp has been divided into three parts. The ring has been pitched at Peg's Haunted House, which undoubtedly has plenty of spirits, but no ghosts. Levinsky's cottage, from which reporters and camera men have been barred, has been devoted completely to the affairs of conditioning the King. Then, at Renehan's resort, where two thousand picnickers went about their pleasures yesterday without considera-

REVOLTA, PICARD WIN BEST BALL $1,000 TOURNEY

Toledo, O., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Henry Picard, golfdom's big money winner from Hershey, Pa., added $500 to his list today as he and Johnny Revolta, 23 year old Milwaukee star, won the first annual Inverness invitational four ball tournament.

Picard sank a thirty foot putt for a birdie 3 on the last hole to win a 1 up decision over Denny Shute of Chicago and Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., in the final match.

It was a rousing finish to a tourney which saw this tough layout's par torn to shreds. Shute and Ghezzi were 25 under par for the 126 holes, while Revolta and Picard were just one over that figure. Leo Diegel of Philadelphia and Jimmy Thomson of Ridgewood, N. J., who finished last, were 11 under even figures.

Here's the way they finished, and the prize money they won:

Picard and Revolta, plus 9	$1,000
Shute and Ghezzi, plus 6	800
Laffoon and Parks, plus 4	700
Cooper and Smith, even	600
Armour and Cruickshank, minus 1	500
Hagen and Watrous, minus 4	400
Espinosa and Burke, minus 5	300
Diegel and Thomson, minus 9	200

In the morning matches today the results were:

Picard-Revolta defeated Espinosa-Burke, 2 up.

Ghezzi-Shute and Cooper-Smith, even.

Laffoon-Parks defeated Diegel-Thomson, 4 up.

Armour-Cruickshank and Hagen-Watrous, even.

OLD PILOT WILL DEVOTE TIME TO CLUB'S FARMS

Suggests Change for Good of Team.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Steve O'Neill, coach of the Cleveland Indians, tonight was named manager of the team as Walter Johnson resigned to put an end to the criticism by fans and Cleveland newspapers that followed the club's slump into the second division in the American league.

Johnson will devote his time to investigating the progress being made by players in minor league teams in which the Indians are interested, he said in announcing his resignation.

The "Big Train," for years a masterful figure on the mound with the Washington Senators, said he had suggested his resignation to the owners of the club and that it had been accepted. In a statement, he praised the ability of O'Neill, the length of whose tenure was not immediately specified.

Johnson Suggests Change.

Johnson's statement said: "After several conferences with the owners of the club I suggested to them that a change in managers might remove the pressure which I think some of our young players are under.

"Injuries and sickness have been a great handicap this year, but the boys have made a good fight under adverse conditions and this young club will some day make a great team.

"I have told Mr. Bradley of my desire to step out. He has accepted my resignation, but has requested that the thorough check I have made of the progress of the young men of the team be made the property of the club. This I have agreed to do."

Johnson Praises O'Neill.

Johnson praised O'Neill and said "he wished him every success."

Bradley said "Mr. Johnson's resignation is purely voluntary. It was not suggested by me, nor, as far as I know, by any member of the club."

Johnson's resignation came four days after the twenty-eighth anniversary of his introduction into big league baseball—an introduction in which Washington lost to Detroit, 3 to 2. His entire career as a player was with the Washington Senators.

He never played with a minor league team, going directly to Washington from the "bushes." He was discovered while pitching for an obscure semi-pro team in Weiser, Idaho.

Took Over Indians in 1933.

He played his last game in 1927 and became manager of the Newark, N. J., team of the International league in 1928, then manager of the Washington Senators, a post he held four years.

Through the latter part of 1932 he was out of baseball and on June 10, 1933, became manager of the Indians. That year the Indians finished fourth. Last year they were third.

This season Cleveland has been seriously handicapped by injuries and illness, the latest casualty being Bruce Campbell, now in a Detroit hospital with spinal meningitis.

The team returned tonight from Detroit, where it dropped three games in a row to the Detroit Tigers. The Indians are now in the second division after challenging the league leaders earlier in the season.

O'Neill Hero of 1920 Series.

O'Neill as a catcher was one of the heroes of the Indians' only world series, in 1920, and has had experience in managing the Toledo team of the American association and Toronto of the International league. He is 43 years old.

He was 20 when he started with the Indians in 1912. He caught for 12 years, ending his playing career with short stays in Boston, St. Louis, and New York of the American league.

He became manager of the Toledo team in 1932 and remained there for two years, until his appointment to assist Johnson.

PSYCHOLOGY! THERE'S A STAR FOR YOUR TEAM

Bears Will Have Him This Year.

[Assistant Coach 1934 All-Stars.]

There is one worthy character whose presence on either the college All-Star or Bears lineup the night of Aug. 29 will make plenty of difference in the result of this great contest.

This gentleman has no All-American rating, neither does he possess a handbook of clippings. But the extent to which his ability is utilized will determine the outcome of the game to a great degree.

He is not a triple threat back; he is not a rip-roaring line devastator on attack; he cannot kick; he cannot pass. Neither you nor any one else has seen him execute a touchdown saving tackle or an interference clearing block. But this is a fellow all coaches want on their side when the referee's whistle signals the opening kickoff.

He is Old Man Psychology.

He Was Collegiate.

Last year the old gentleman perched upon the standards of the college All-Stars. Why not? Did not La Salle street buzz with the dope that the Bears could name their own score and pay off in touchdowns?

Even the most rabid college loyalty could not prevail upon the wise money to string along with the collegians. As a result, the Bears were softened up considerably by constant reiteration of sagas concerning their own prowess and what they were going to do to the All-Star group.

Consequently, they were not prepared for quick hitting, fiery defensive tactics, and the offensive punch packed by the collegiate seniors, and at times became almost demoralized.

No such feeling will be prevalent this year from the Bear point of view. George Halas is too cagey a leader to be caught unprepared twice in a row. There is little question but that he will continually remind his players of the result of last year's battle.

Bears Always Pay Up.

George is noted, and so is his fine football club, for repaying past debts and compounding at least part of the interest. I happened to be on the coast when the Bears prepared for their revenge battle with the New York Giants last winter. The revenge was so all-inclusive that they completely demoralized the heavy Giant team, scoring 21 points in the opening half.

I was one of those privileged to watch their practice for that game. They were just as keenly interested in their preparation as if they had been back in college getting ready for a try at a traditional rival and a mythical American championship.

In addition to this changed feeling, the Bears this year will have an improved ball club. They will present a great off-tackle slasher and end runner in Beattie Feathers, who, teamed with Bronko Nagurski, makes a complete offense in itself.

Two New Line Stars.

They also have acquired fine young additions to their forward wall in the persons of Rosequist and Buss, and you spectators of the Aug. 29 conflict will find that these two have speeded up the line play considerably.

Also, there is no question but that the Bears have that all-important thing—the will to win.

Consequently, the college All-Stars had better cultivate Old Man Psychology from now on and remember that they will have to outdo even last year's performance if they hope to repeat the surprising upset of a year ago.

Votes Swamp Tabulators as Poll Closes

WXYZ, brought a flood of votes, the like of which never has developed in any other contest. Each mail brings hundreds of letters, most of them signed by the entire family. They are coming from Ohio, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania as well as Michigan.

"One of the amazing highlights of the poll is the number of young boys venturing into the Free Press office with their cards and asking: 'Where can we leave this vote for Charlie Bachman?'

"While they all voted for the Michigan State leader, postoffice employés will be glad when the last vote has been delivered. As one of them remarked this afternoon, 'Can you imagine this interest in football with the thermometer above 90 and the Tigers headed for a pennant?'"

Boy, Another Adding Machine.

"Add 1,351 first place votes for Bachman. Plenty coming tomorrow."—Jacksonville, Fla., Times Union.

"Give Bachman 621 first place votes."—Flint Journal.

Then came the staggering vote from the San Francisco Chronicle, where Slip Madigan of St. Mary's is running wild. Bill Leiser of the Chronicle sports staf said an army of club members planned to work all day Sunday for Madigan and that the Chronicle was putting on an all-night crew in order to get the final tabulations to Chicago by tonight.

It's Only the Beginning, Folks.

Late Saturday night Leiser wired: "There's still a pile we have been unable to get counted and we have been advised of numerous blocks of votes that will be brought in Sunday, but here is the vote we compile today. The figures are total points, not first place votes:

Madigan, St. Mary's	210,239
Lewis, San Francisco U.	2,670
Thornhill Stanford	1,278
Hollingberry, Washington State	309
Allison, California	255
Warner, Temple	111
Starr, Pacific	78

The Seattle Times reported 35,201 first place votes as one day's addition to Jimmy Phelan's total. Allison was getting the second place votes and Spears third.

The Los Angeles Times turned in 6,862 for Madigan, 4,482 for Howard Jones of Southern California, 2,515 for Bill Spaulding of U. C. L. A., and 1,978 for Thornhill.

From the South Bend News-Times came 16,332 first place votes for Layden of Notre Dame. The Davenport Times added 3,350. Layden rolled up thousands of votes in Chicago. He also is leading in Muncie, Ind., and Freeport, Ill.

Us, Too, Charlie.

The Indianapolis Times Saturday night wired 4,264 votes for Bo McMillin of Indiana. Layden ran second there. From the Bloomington, Ind., World came the prediction that McMillin would have 50,000 from there Sunday as a result of the cleanup drive. Fort Wayne alone, where the Journal Gazette is conducting a poll, promised to raise nearly 20,000. The Louisville Herald Post boosted the McMillin figure by 1,070 first place votes Saturday.

And this from Charles Johnson, sports editor of the Minneapolis Star: "They have us nuts here running around on votes. Booths have been opened all over town for Bernie Bierman."

The Minnesota leader received 19,541 points in the Star poll Saturday. The Minneapolis Tribune and St. Paul News, which also are conducting polls, said they would add heavily to the figure after Sunday's votes were counted. Bierman also is leading in the Butte, Mont., returns.

The Wisconsin State Journal gave Dr. Spears 34,628 first place votes. Thomas was second on most of the ballots and Jock Sutherland of Pittsburgh third.

What! Is There No End?

Sports Editor Henry McCormick of the State Journal wired: "There'll be a houseful in our final returns. La Crosse, Appleton, Sheboygan, Milwaukee, and other centers have been mailing them in so fast we can't keep up with the vote."

Every member of the Cincinnati baseball club cast a vote for Madigan Saturday. This was through the efforts of Tom Sheehan, Reds' coach, who was a boyhood friend of Madigan in Ottawa, Ill.

ARDELLE TAKES C. Y. C. RACE TO 8 MILE BUOY

Ardelle, C. E. [Chick] Waltman's R class sloop, won its second race in two days yesterday by defeatng fifteen other universal rating sail yachts in the Chicago Yacht club's annual eight mile buoy race.

Following the winner were E. E. [Ned] Sheridan's Ariel, Kimball and Railton's Nancy, Fred Wacker's Gypsy, the Robinson brothers' Aquila, and other R, eagle, and schooner class craft.

Two old time yachtsmen sailed their veteran star class yacht Jane II. to first place in the Sheridan Shore Yacht club's race off Wilmette. Fred Porter, secretary of the Lake Michigan Yachting association, and George Harvey, secretary of the Lake Michigan star class fleet, sailed their Jane II. over 16 other boats all carrying younger yachtsmen. The boat covered the seven mile course in 1 hour and 49 minutes.

CUBANS DEFEAT GIANTS, 8 TO 6; THEN LOSE, 10-5

The Cubans won the first game, 8 to 6, and the Giants won the second, 10 to 5.

Dave Malarcher, who managed the Giants the last seven seasons and has never been out of the league playoffs, returned yesterday, taking time out from business to lead the Giants the remainder of the season. He succeeds Larry Brown, who will remain with the team as first string catcher.

PICK M'DONALD TO MANAGE EAST ALL-STAR TEAM

Webster McDonald of the Philadelphia Stars will manage the East against the West in the third annual all-star game of the Negro National league at Comiskey park next Sunday afternoon. This was announced yesterday following a tabulation of votes cast by baseball fans in the national poll conducted by the league and colored newspapers.

The race for western manager was so close and the late voting so heavy that it will take more time to check ballots and decide whether Cum Posy, veteran leader of the Homestead Grays, or Oscar Charleston of the Pittsburgh Crawfords will win the honor of piloting the western all-stars.

City Amateur Opens Today at Jackson Park

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The city amateur golf tournament, grandpappy of all of the tournaments in these parts, will open this morning over the Jackson park links, 64th street and Stony Island avenue, under the supervision of the Chicago park district.

The amateur, which has been waged over the south side course for more than 30 years, annually attracts one of the best fields of its type in the country, and this year is expected to be no exception. Harold Mathisen of Big Run, a member of the Chicago National Public Links team this year, will defend the title he won from Hank Foley of Glendale in an extra hole battle last year. He will meet such veterans as Foley, Gus Fetz, Walter Crowdus, Eddie Joyce, Ernie Bones, Al Long, Pete Miller, Joe O'Hanley, Al Andereggen, Jim Woods Jr., Hymie Judelson, and Bill Ennis.

Handicap Determines Bracket.

The tournament is conducted on the same basis as the British and American amateur events, that is, match play from start to finish. A player's flight will be determined by his handicap, the championship bracket being restricted to those with allowances range from scratch to ten strokes.

The tournament will continue through next Saturday, when a 36 hole final match will determine the champion. Ten trophies will be awarded to the winners and runnersup in the five flights.

Women Play Tomorrow.

Sharing the program today with the amateur opening will be one of the regular pro-amateur events of the Illinois P. G. A. at Butterfield.

Women golfers of the district will have an opportunity to display their dressing as well as golfing talents tomorrow, when the Elmgate Golf club will hold its annual Hullabaloo, a costume tournament. More than 200 are expected to compete.

The sixteenth annual Old Boys' tournament, for golfers 55 years of age and over, will feature Wednesday's schedule at Exmoor. A stroke will be added to handicaps for each year over 55, with four classes competing. Thursday offers one of the best events of the year, the 32d annual Midlothian Pae-Fillius, and Calumet's invitational tourney, the Pae-Dae.

CLAUDIA ECKERT WINS NEW YORK SWIM DECATHLON

New York, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Claudia Eckert of the Shawnee Country club, Wilmette, Ill., tonight was declared winner of the decathlon of the Daily News swimming carnival at Jones beach. She finished the ten events with a point total of 8,326.37 to beat out Johanna Gorman of Homestead, Pa., who wound up with 8,162.04 points.

June Burr of Coral Gables, Fla., was third with 7,170.75; Lenore Kight, Homestead, fourth with 6,818.52; Dorothea Dickinson, New York, fifth, 6,702.04; Janice Lifson, New York, sixth, 6,480.96; Anna Gorman, Homestead, seventh, 6,474.57, and Louise Clark, Homestead, eighth with 5,528.11.

Miss Eckert won the 110 yard free style swim, the eighth event, covering the distance in 1:11.1 to beat out Miss Kight. Miss Dickinson was third.

Infant Son of Elmer Layden Dies Shortly After Birth

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Layden, born yesterday at St. Joseph's hospital, died this morning. Layden, all-American full back on the Four Horsemen team, now head coach and athletic director at Notre Dame, returned to the city several hours after the child was born. He had been in Laurium, Mich., attending the unveiling of the memorial to George Gipp, famous Notre Dame half back of 15 years ago. Physicians announced tonight Mrs. Layden was doing well.

Breese Faces Ghnouly in Ten Round Battle

The third of a series of lightweight elimination bouts to find an outstanding challenger for a crack at the division crown will be held tonight at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, and will involve Joe Ghnouly, St. Louis, and Bus Breese, Manhattan, Kas. They will meet at ten rounds.

Ghnouly, named No. 1 contender by the Missouri boxing commission, fought Davey Day, Illinois' leading challenger, at Kansas City a few weeks ago. Inasmuch as the battle was called a draw, neither was eliminated. Thus a return match between the two may be in order, but first Ghnouly must dispose of Breese.

Breese, who whipped Johnny Stanton in one of his latest, is not a soft touch, however. He is a standup, clever boxer. Counter-punching and fighting are his chief weapons. The main stock in trade of Ghnouly, a chunky young fellow, is a sharp right uppercut. Co-Promoters Irving Schoenwald and Jack Begun have arranged an interesting series of supporting bouts. They follow:

Scotty Scotten and Jim Eliopoulos [6], featherweights.

Biff Bennett and Walter Dale [4], heavyweights.

Tom Habel and Jackie Sherman [4], welterweights.

Ernie Peterson and Rudy Kay [wrestling exhibition].

Zack Malkov and George Schwab, rival Chicago light heavyweight wrestlers, will head Joe Coffey's mat program tonight at White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. Bobby Pearce is matched with Joe Bauer in

GIANTS CAPTURE DOUBLE-HEADER FROM BRAVES

Take First Game, 9 to 2; Win Second, 3 to 1.

New York, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The New York Giants started their star pitchers, Hal Schumacher and Carl Hubbell, today and both came through with fine performances as the league leaders whipped the Boston Braves twice, 9 to 2 and 3 to 1, before a crowd of 20,000.

TIGERS WIN, 7-0; BRIDGES YIELDS INDIANS 4 HITS

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Behind the four hit pitching of Tommy Bridges, the Detroit Tigers blanked the Cleveland Indians today to sweep the three games series and chalk up their sixteenth victory in twenty games this season against Cleveland. The score was 7 to 0.

The Tiger attack netted seven runs and ten hits off two Cleveland pitchers, Mel Harder being chased during a sixth inning uprising. Bridges was in great form as he accounted for his sixteenth victory of the season.

RED SOX, A's DIVIDE.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Boston's largest baseball crowd of the season, 40,000, saw the Red Sox and Athletics divide a double-header today, Boston taking the first, 7 to 6, in ten innings, and Philadelphia winning the second, 4 to 3, in eight innings. The latter game was cut short because of the local 6:30 p. m. Sunday law.

Byrd's sacrifice, Goodman singled off Cavarretta's glove, Derringer taking third. Derringer held third and Goodman took second on a wild pitch. Babe Herman was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. Bottomley singled to right, scoring Derringer and Goodman and putting Babe Herman on third. Riggs then doubled to left center, scoring Babe Herman, Bottomley stopping at third. Lombardi dropped a pop fly in center for a single, scoring Bottomley and Riggs. Myers hit into a double play, Jurges to W. Herman to Cavarretta.

Demaree led off the ninth with a single over second, but that ended the Cub efforts.

SECOND GAME

Jurges opened the third inning in the second game with a single to center and, after Root had been called out on strikes, reached third on Galan's single to center. Herman singled to right, scoring Jurges and putting Galan on third. Cavarretta lined to Myers and Klein filed to Byrd.

The Reds tied the score with one out in the fourth. It was at this point that Babe Herman drove his No. 3 homer high into the stands in right center, a smack of about 425 feet. Cavarretta speared Jurges' bad throw on Sullivan for the second out.

The Reds grabbed a 2 to 1 lead in the fifth on Myers' safe bunt with one down, a stolen base, and Kampouris' single to center. A double play stopped this rally.

And here's the Cub sixth, in which the Cubs went ahead and Vice President Grimm and George Stainback got chased. Cavarretta singled to center with one out. Klein then supplied the second out with a fly to Goodman. Demaree doubled to left, Cavarretta stopping at third. Stephenson, who had made one single and had been robbed of another on a circus play by Myers, singled to left, scoring Cavarretta and Demaree. Hack tripled to the right field corner, scoring Stephenson. Hack tried for home and was out, Goodman to Sullivan to Campbell.

Riggs Scores on Wild Pitch.

Root disappeared 'midst more excitement in the home seventh. Sullivan opened with a single to center. Riggs singled to center and Sullivan reached third on the hit and a juggle by Demaree. Campbell flied to Demaree and Sullivan was doubled at the plate on a great play, Demaree to Jurges to Stephenson. Myers singled to left, putting Riggs on third, and Lee replaced Root. Myers reached second and Riggs held third on a short passed ball; then Lee loosed a wild pitch, Riggs scoring. Hack threw out Kampouris.

Lombardi batted for Frey to start the eighth and singled to center, whereupon Henshaw replaced Lee, Comorosky ran for Lombardi and moved up on Byrd's sacrifice. Goodman grounded out to Cavarretta and Jurges threw out Babe Herman.

LAYMEN TO KEEP EYE ON RADICALS IN CHURCH FOLD

Methodist Group Acts to Expand Movement.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Plans for the continuation of the recently developed laymen's movement of the Methodist Episcopal church were announced yesterday by Wilbur Helm, 120 South La Salle street.

He said a closely formed organization was not contemplated, but an executive committee had been established "to keep a watchful eye on radicals within the communion," whether they be socialistic or ultraconservative.

No Labels for Church.

"We propose that no social or economic labels of any sort be put on the church," said Mr. Helm. "Our general plan is honestly to study various situations of interest to laymen and from time to time make public our opinions and suggestions. Our activities will be entirely unofficial and as constructive as possible."

The laymen's movement originated last Monday in a meeting at the Union League club when a consensus of the laymen was drafted concerning the relationship of the church to economic and social problems. Mr. Helm stated that the movement had been commended by laymen of many denominations and that their statement had received widespread approval.

Name Committee Members.

Officers and members of the executive committee announced by Mr. Helm include Henry S. Henschen of Winnetka, chairman. Mr. Henschen was leader of the original group of six laymen to call last week's meeting. Mr. Helm was elected secretary.

The executive group also includes T. W. Appleby, president of the Ohio National Life Insurance company, Cincinnati, O.; Burt J. Denman, manager of the United Light and Power company, 105 West Adams street; Arthur M. Hyde of Trenton, Mo., former United States secretary of agriculture; Carl F. Keck of Milwaukee, Wis.; Attorney Charles O. Loucks, 10 South La Salle street, and Ernest M. Sims, manufacturer, Elkhart, Ind.

POSSES SEARCH CALIFORNIA FOR POLICE SLAYER

Yreka, Cal., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Civilian posses searched the timbered hills of northern California today for a second police-slayer suspect after District Attorney James Davis blamed "apathy of the Supreme Court of the United States" and other federal tribunals for the mob hanging of Clyde L. Johnson.

ROBERT MILLER. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

The search for Robert Miller, accused of having participated with Johnson in the fatal shooting of Police Chief F. R. Daw of Dunsmuir, swung to Weed. A man who, officers said, answered the description of the fugitive, held up a grocery there last night.

Officers expressed fear that Miller, if captured, would meet the same fate as Johnson, who was dragged from the county jail here early yesterday by a masked gang and hanged from a tree.

District Attorney Davis, in a statement, declared that citizens had been roused to "uncontrolable unrest" because of delay in the legal execution of George Hall, convicted of having slain a state highway patrolman and a civilian here two years ago.

BOY, 6, IS FOUND AFTER 7 DAYS ON MOUNTAIN ALONE

Silver City, N. M., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Wild-eyed and frightened, 6 year old Albert Reasoner screamed "I'm hungry" when found by friends today after being lost for seven days in the Pinos Altos mountains.

He had subsisted on wild berries and slept in deserted bear caves.

Albert, who wandered away last Monday from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Reasoner of Silver City, attempted to hide from rescuers as they approached.

He was rushed to the hospital here, where the attending physician said tonight he would recover.

Alexander P. Morrow Dies; Former N. Y. Manufacturer

Elmira, N. Y., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Alexander P. Morrow, 80, retired head of the Willis-Morrow Manufacturing company of Elmira, a subsidiary of the Willis-Overland company of Toledo, O., died today. He came here 42 years ago from Beaver Falls, Pa., to become general manager of the Eclipse Machine company. He was with the Willis-Morrow firm several years.

David Sloan, Gold Mines Head, Dies of Injuries

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 4.—(AP)—David Sloan, managing director of Pioneer Gold Mines of British Columbia, Ltd., died in a hospital here today of injuries received July 30 in a plane crash at Alta Lake. Dean H. W. Brock of the University of British Columbia, Mrs. Brock and the pilot, William McCuskey, were killed in the crash.

Woman Burns to Death After Automobiles Crash

Vineland, N. J., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Emma S. Chulve of Silver Springs, Md., burned to death today when the gasoline tank of an automobile exploded in a collision. State police said investigation indicated the crash may have been caused by a bee stinging Walter F. Sauter, 44, driver of one of the cars.

INQUEST TODAY IN SHOOTING.

An inquest will be held today in the death of James Frederickson, 26 years old, 1726 North California avenue, who was shot and killed yesterday morning when he and a companion quarreled with William Mason, 19, a watchman at the Royal Automobile Sales company, 1940 Milwaukee avenue.

R. E. SPAULDING, AN INSURANCE BROKER, IS DEAD

Robert E. Spaulding, an insurance broker who lived at 5555 Sheridan road, died yesterday in the Evanston hospital after an illness of six weeks. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m., Wednesday from the chapel at 5525 North Clark street under the auspices of the Lincoln Park Commandery, Knight Templars. Interment will be at Acacia Park mausoleum.

Mr. Spaulding, who was 65 years old, had been engaged in the insurance business since 1892. Most of the time he was with the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York for which he was the Chicago manager from 1926 to 1935. He retired from his connection with the company in December, 1934, and the first of the year began his own insurance brokerage business.

Surviving him are the widow, Mrs. Martha H. Spaulding, and two children, Robert Jr. and Hazel.

HUNT HERE FAILS TO FIND TRACE OF MISSING PASTOR

Chicago friends of the Rev. William C. Norman, missing Baptist minister of Palatka, Fla., gave assistance yesterday to his son, Clarence M. Norman, 2117 South Central Park avenue, in watching places that the elder Norman might frequent while in the city, but no trace of him was found. Descriptions of the minister were sent out to all Chicago police stations.

On every former trip to Chicago the minister has visited the home of Herbert P. Sargent, 8350 Oglesby avenue, but he has not been there this time, Mrs. Sargent said.

The minister left his home in Palatka last Wednesday, was heard from while in Richmond, Va., and early Friday morning registered at the Bernard hotel, 4170 Drexel boulevard. His family fears that he may have been slugged and robbed, as they believe he was carrying a large sum of money.

VICTIMS OF SEA MEMORIALIZED AT GLOUCESTER

Gloucester, Mass., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Fifteen heroes of a most dangerous calling were honored today as Gloucester observed a memorial day that is exclusively her own.

On the first Sunday of August each year, when the rocky gardens of Cape Ann are in gayest bloom, the old port pays homage to the men who have given their lives during the preceding year while serving her chief industry, the fishery.

As the name of each lost mariner was called by Rev. George E. Russell, chaplain of the Fishermen's institute, who has conducted the services many years, a bright hued wreath was cast on the running tide to be borne away to an unmarked grave. All fifteen were lost at sea.

Rufus Lee, Omaha Business and Civic Leader, Is Dead

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Rufus E. Lee, 61, prominent Omaha business and civic leader, died today of heart disease. He was president of Rufus E. Lee & Co., investment securities, was president of a leading Omaha building company, and head of the chamber of commerce waterways committee.

Mount Vernon, Ill., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—Frank E. Patton, for many years prominent in business, official, and fraternal circles, died today in his 87th year. He had served as county treasurer of Jefferson county and as cashier of the Third National bank for many years.

HALF OF SANITARY WORK UNDER U. S. LOAN IS FINISHED

More than half of the sanitary district's construction program under a $43,000,000 federal loan and grant received last year has been completed, according to William H. Trinkaus Jr., acting chief engineer of the district. Trinkaus said the completed work amounts to $23,000,000 and the remaining projects are under construction.

"In completing $23,000,000 worth of construction work, more than half of which is underground, not one man of the 3,000 employed has been killed," said Trinkaus yesterday.

Work on the southwest treatment works at Stickney, the largest single project in the construction program, is progressing to the point where concrete will be poured into the aeration tank molds within the next few days.

The sanitary district construction program is being carried on under a United States Supreme court decree of April 21, 1930, which deprived the district of the use of the drainage canal for sewage disposal.

LEON MARX DIES; NOTED VIOLINIST FOR TWO DECADES

LEON MARX. [Du Bois Photo.]

Mr. Marx was born in Cincinnati. He received his musical education in Chicago and in Berlin. For several years, beginning in 1897, he was violin soloist with the orchestra of Theodore Thomas. Later he was concert master of the Chicago Opera company.

Eight years ago Mr. Marx gave up his concert work and became a Christian Science practitioner. He is survived by his widow and an adopted daughter. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2:45 p. m. at 936 East 47th street.

SEND BALLOON ALOFT IN STUDY OF COSMIC RAY

San Antonio, Tex., Aug. 4.—(AP)—A yellow rubber balloon ascended at Fort Sam Houston today opening a series of cosmic ray experiments by Dr. Robert A. Millikan, physicist.

Within ten minutes the balloon, carrying a package of instruments which will give vital information to the scientist, had disappeared to the north. At that time it was several thousands of feet in the air and rising at the rate of 1,000 feet a minute. It was expected to reach an altitude of 20 miles before the lighter atmosphere causes the balloon to burst and the instruments to be lowered to the ground by a parachute.

Prevailing winds are expected to drop the equipment somewhere near San Antonio.

2 British Flyers Crash in Avoiding Children; Killed

LONDON, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Two Royal Air force officers, R. L. Nimmo and S. J. Marbutt, were killed in a crash today when Nimmo refused to make a forced landing in an open field because he saw a crowd of children playing there. Shortly after they took off from the Hendon airdrome motor trouble forced a descent. When Nimmo saw the children he tried to rise again and crashed into a bridge. The wreck caused a short circuit in a rail line, tying up traffic for four hours.

John Donohoe, Veteran City Employe, Dies of Heat

John Donohoe, 68 years old, a city water department inspector for 38 years, died at his home at 6555 South Paulina street yesterday after he had collapsed from the heat while returning home from work last Friday. Mr. Donohoe refused to be pensioned when he became eligible 13 years ago and continued to work. He is survived by his widow, Mary, five sons and three daughters.

John Kukelski, Retired Lumber Man, Is Dead

John Kukelski, 73 years old, a resident of Chicago for 48 years, died of a heart ailment yesterday morning in his home at 3522 South Mozart street. He retired 20 years ago from the employ of the Edward Hines Lumber company. Besides his widow, Mary, Kukelski is survived by three daughters, four sons, and three grandchildren.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

An 18 year old Chicago boy, a year out of Fenger High school, who has just hitch hiked and ridden blind baggage 6,000 miles to Hollywood and back, is ready to debunk the life of a hobo in "The Open Road," a dramatic serial to be launched over WMAQ-NBC at 10:45 this evening. The story is written by Red Quinlan, a lad who left station WIND a few months ago to thumb his way to the west coast and back.

RED QUINLAN.

Now he is back somewhat disappointed. He left Chicago with $1.50 and returned with a thin dime. He was jailed eight times, chased by railroad detectives and police, and went without food for as long as three days. He encountered scores of youthful hobos—dirty, hungry, sick, and disillusioned for the most part. He will endeavor to keep other misinformed youngsters from running away from home through this dramatic story.

Grace Moore will return to NBC at 8:30 Monday evening, Sept. 16. Last year she was heard Tuesday evenings with Ben Bernie and Bing Crosby as competition. . . . "Washington Merry Go round of the Air," with Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen giving the lowdown on capital higherups, will be heard over W-G-N and the Mutual system, with a watchmaker as sponsor, at 7:45 Tuesdays and Saturdays, beginning Oct. 1. . . . "Heaven Will Protect the Working Girl" will be the lamentation of Phyllis Gordon, trouper from the Show Boat Dixiana, when she appears with other members of the cast on the Midnight Flyers' program over W-G-N tonight.

Deems Taylor, composer, critic, and commentator, will replace Prof. William Lyons Phelps as narrator on the Romberg program when it returns to the air Sept. 10. . . . When Helen Hayes comes to the air Oct. 1 in her first extended radio series she will play the same character in each weekly appearance. In other words, a radio serial, somewhat after the fashion of "One Man's Family" or "Amos 'n' Andy, is to be created for her.

Dog days though they be, the past month has been the busiest in the life of Wesley Summerfield, radio tenor. He has made 81 appearances on the air the last month and 24 personal appearances. He is heard on W-G-N on June Baker's programs and also with the Northerners. And he sings with the Melodiers' quartet on all the Betty and Bob and Jack Armstrong shows. He is also soloist at First Church of Christ Scientist, Evanston.

Women invariably write songs about love, Fred Herendeen of the "Song a Day" program explained the other day. With Dave Stamper he turns out a ditty each day written around a title suggested by some listener. They then present it on the air over WENR at 6:30 p. m.

"And what do men write about," he was asked.

"O, they write about love, too."

A new program titled "Hymns of All Churches," featuring a baritone soloist, eight voice choir, and instrumental ensemble, will be heard over W-G-N at 9 a. m., Tuesday through Saturdays, beginning tomorrow morning.

PROFESSOR'S SON BEST MAN FOR DAD'S WEDDING

New York, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Prof. Alexander Gustav Ruthenberg of Columbia university and Mrs. Mary [Polly] King, both of Convent, N. J., were married today with Prof. Ruthenberg's 13 year old son as best man and the bride's 4 year old daughter as a bridesmaid. The bride is a daughter of Willard V. King, retired banker now in Colorado Springs. She said she divorced Shelby Carter in Reno on July 26. Prof. Ruthenberg, 39, was divorced three years ago in Berlin, he said.

PUFFER INTENDS TO TAKE SCHOOL POST AT 8 TODAY

Noble J. Puffer, who was elected county superintendent of schools last November to take office on Aug. 5, made final preparations yesterday to take over the office this morning despite the announcement of Otto F. Aken, the present superintendent, that he would ask Superior Judge Joseph B. David for an injunction restraining Puffer from displacing him. Aken charges that Puffer is not qualified to serve because he lacks four years' teaching experience.

Harris F. Williams, attorney for Puffer, has written a formal demand on Aken to surrender the office, and this will be presented at the county superintendent's office in the County building at 8 o'clock this morning.

Aken has said that if Puffer comes into the office today "there may be some fun." Sheriff Toman has ordered deputies stationed in the office to guard against trouble.

NATURE STILL DOMINANT IN CROP PICTURE

Vagaries Make Man-Made Plans Futile.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The inadequacy of a bookkeeping system as a means of bringing about "balanced" agricultural production is given striking illustration in the rapid change that took place during the month of July in the spring wheat crop. The vagaries of nature eliminated the prospect of a bumper crop for the long suffering wheat farmers of the northwest.

In the midst of last spring's drouth when another small winter wheat crop appeared inevitable the AAA executed a hasty retreat from its plan to curtail acreage in the spring wheat region. The winter wheat crop had already been restricted and it was decided to let the spring wheat producers increase their acreage and get their benefit payments too.

Doubt Propriety of Scheme.

There appeared to be some doubt as to the propriety of paying farmers for not raising a specified amount of wheat and then letting them grow the grain anyway, but after some skirmishing with Controler McCarl the payments were approved. The permission granted to farmers to increase their acreage came too late to bring about a big increase in plantings. Weather conditions, seed shortage, and lack of capital to finance increases tended to restrict plantings.

The rescinding order was given because the drouth threatened to continue indefinitly. But not long after the action was taken plentiful rain was received over the grain belt. The rains continued for weeks over most of the spring wheat area and the crop made remarkable progress. Only on the western fringe of the regions was the relief insufficient to break the drouth.

Black Rust Crop Specter.

At the beginning of July the outlook for the crop was excellent. The government crop reporting service estimated that production would reach 273 million bushels, the biggest harvest since 1932 and above what is regarded as normal production.

Then another incalculable factor entered the picture. Black rust was discovered in several localities. The general outlook was so promising, however, that no great alarm was experienced.

As July weather provided an ideal setting for the development of rust, the crop went rapidly backward. The chance of a bumper harvest was lost. The potential yield was reduced by an estimated 100 million bushels. At the same time the harvest in the winter wheat country was proving disappointing so that the outlook for a total crop of 731 million bushels was shaded to about 600 million bushels.

Draw on Surplus.

Surplus wheat stocks were heavily drawn upon during the short crop years of 1933 and 1934 so that total supplies, this year's harvest plus carryover, are rated the smallest since 1917.

The export subsidy which the AAA was reported to be toying with a month ago can now be junked. The crop, by a slim margin, may cover domestic needs, but it appears likely that the United States may again buy foreign wheat in moderate amounts to supplement domestic stocks.

September wheat in Chicago is now quoted at 89¾ cents a bushel, nearly 10 cents above the price prevailing July 12. Compared with a week earlier prices showed losses of about 3 cents a bushel. The recession came in the wake of the preceding week's sharp upturn as speculative profit taking and hedging sales pressed on the market.

Compare Week's Price Range.

12 Federal Land Banks Will Make Loans in Cash

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—(AP)—A change of policy, effective at once, under which the 12 federal land banks will make farm mortgage loans in cash instead of part cash and bonds of the Federal Farm Mortgage corporation was announced today by Gov. W. I. Myers. Myers said the Federal Mortgage corporation for some time past has been selling small amounts of its bonds in the market, thus securing funds to pay off small creditors in cash, but using bonds to close most of the loans.

Drop in Lamb and Wool Supplies Is Predicted

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—(AP)—A decrease in market supplies of lambs this fall and sustained prices for the meat as well as wool were predicted today by the agricultural department. It is said the supply of lambs for slaughter, curtailed because of the drouth last year and a small crop this year, will be reduced until the 1936 lamb crop is ready for market.

New Earnings Record Set by Phillips

Sharply improved earnings were reported yesterday by the Phillips Petroleum company and the Liquid Carbonic Gas corporation.

Volume of business and gross income of $42,294,612 for Phillips Petroleum in the six months ended June 30 were the largest for any like period in the company's history, President Frank Phillips reported to shareholders. This compares with $38,265,473 in the first half of 1934.

Net profit amounted to $5,019,975, or $1.21 a share, after operating expenses of $29,866,966 and reserves and retirements of $7,407,671. In the first half of last year net was $2,510,158, or 60 cents a share, after operating expenses of $27,729,344 and reserves and retirements of $8,025,971.

Sales and Earnings Rising.

Third quarter volume and earnings are running substantially ahead of the average for the first six months, Phillips said.

Working capital was $24,007,917, an increase of $2,406,682 during the period. Current assets of $31,981,949 included cash of $7,347,734. Current liabilities were $7,974,032. These figures are after $2,000,000 cash was applied to retiring $5,991,000 of bonds on June 1. The balance was retired from proceeds of long term notes which were retired July 15 to leave the company without bank loans. Bonds now outstanding aggregate $19,891,000 and interest charges were cut $300,000 annually by the retirement.

Dividends of $2,076,208 or 50 cents a share were paid in the first six months, and a third quarter distribution of 25 cents has been authorized for Aug. 30 to stock of record Aug. 2. Phillips said. Capital and surplus June 30 was $136,620,428.

Liquid Carbonic Income Rises.

Liquid Carbonic reported net income of $438,975, or $1.25 a share, in the three months ended June 30, the third quarter in the fiscal year. This compared with $370,933, or $1.06 a share, in the same period last year. The first nine months to June 30 show net of $296,306, or 84 cents a share, as against net of $108,606, or 31 cents a share, the same period the preceding year.

Net sales for the last quarter were $3,392,372, compared with $2,782,106 in the same months of 1934. For the nine months, sales were $7,300,934, or 16.9 per cent more than the $6,245,153 in the corresponding part of the previous fiscal year. Provision for federal and Canadian income taxes was $57,027 last quarter and $20,152 in those months of 1934. The respective tax reserves for the nine month periods were $59,408 and $22,547.

PUBLIC ATTITUDE TOWARD BANKS CALLED BETTER

The public's attitude toward banks and bankers has improved immensely, according to Banking, monthly publication of the American Bankers' association. A survey made throughout the nation, released last night, shows that 84 per cent of 300 clearing houses reporting on their localities stated that a definitly healthy situation existed. In 12 per cent more there were signs of a better public attitude toward banks. Two per cent reported a turn for the worse and two per cent said unfavorable attitude continues.

"It is not too much to say that this is substantially a 96 per cent favorable return," said the publication.

Aside from such statistical evidences as increased deposits, less use of safe deposit boxes for savings, and many instances of declining postal savings, bankers reported they could sense a change of public attitude. One of the best evidences, the publication said, was the acceptance by the public of new service charges and reduced interest rates on deposits.

Reasons given for the improved feeling toward banks were educational and advertising campaigns by the ABA and others, deposit insurance, improvement in general business conditions, and weeding out of weak banks in the wake of the moratorium.

S. O. Rice Resigns from Investment Bankers

Resignatoin of Samuel O. Rice, educational director of the Investment Bankers Association of America, was announced here yesterday. Rice, who organized the educational department twelve years ago, will remain until a successor has been named. The association plans to continue many of the activities of the department. Rice's resignation was prompted by a desire to devote more time to a publishing business in which he has had a small interest for several years.

CHICAGO WHOLESALE TRADE BOOSTED BY VISITING MERCHANTS

Wholesale activity in the Chicago market was carried to a new high mark for the year on a wave of heavy buying by merchants attending various trade gatherings, including the Interstate Merchants' council style show and convention.

Observers for the Chicago Association of Commerce estimated more than 11,000 department store owners and buyers from all over the middle west were in the market here. Further boosts are expected from the Interstate show's second week, this being the first year that it has run more than one week.

Marked interest was shown last week in house furnishings, gift wares, and other commodities for late fall and early winter trade, although the bulk of purchases was in dress wares.

Retail business also was reported holding to satisfactory levels. Tourist trade was said to be offsetting the vacation absence of Chicago consumers. Public utilities continued at recent levels and manufacturing activity showed little change.

BRIGHTER TRADE OUTLOOK SENDS STOCKS HIGHER

Investment Buying Seen Continuing.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 4.—With the trade outlook for the next few months growing more and more encouraging and a mass of cheap money bearing down on interest rates and forcing investment funds into speculative channels, public interest in the stock market is increasing daily.

Last week a total of 9,747,500 shares changed hands on the exchange, an average of 1,624,583 a day and the largest weekly total since the week of July 28, 1934, when turnover ran to 10,840,176. The short week-end session yesterday saw a new Saturday volume record for the last fourteen months chalked up, when there was a turnover of 1,000,870 shares in a fresh outburst of constructive enthusiasm.

Buying for Investment Purposes.

Another thing: Brokers' loans for the week dropped some $30,000,000 in spite of the increased trading activity and the gradual rise in prices—further evidence, according to brokers, that a very large proportion of the buying represented sound investment activity—purchases for the long pull—rather than margin trading. The cables tell of a constantly expanding interest abroad in American securities and orders from London, Paris and other foreign points have contributed no little toward swelling the sales total, it is said.

Along with the step-up in activity has come further gradual improvement in prices all along the line. The industrial averages rose to the best levels in two years last week, and the rails increased their listed valuations by better than 7 per cent to sell at the best price levels since last January. On Friday, and again yesterday, the utilities were preëminent, the tide having been turned to their favor anew by the apparent defeat in congress of the "death sentence" clause of the holding company bill.

Gains Are Numerous.

Gains of 1 to 2 points were numerous on both days and virtually every issue finished the week substantially higher. Even the low-priced issues like Commonwealth and Southern, Stone & Webster, and Electric Power and Light, long quiescent, looked up sharply to score marked improvement on heavy dealings.

Profit taking sales, coming largely from traders convinced that the market can't go much further after its four and a half months of forward movement without a technical reaction, held the advance in check, but in spite of it all the combined averages emerged a good point above their level for the preceding week-end.

Concern over the market's nearby future is tied up at the moment very largely in what the trade calls the Washington situation. The chief questions are: Just when is congress going to adjourn and how much of the President's "must" program is going to be written into the laws of the land? Latest advices indicate that the banking bill and the "soak-the-rich" tax project are both pretty well mired, along with the "death sentence" holding company bill provision, and more than one commentator during the last few days has ventured to voice the hope that congress will adjourn at once.

Look to Business Statistics.

However, with congress evincing less and less inclination to follow the President in all his wishes, and with the Supreme court felling one New Deal measure after another, the trade is finding more and more sustenance in business statistics and prophecies and setting less and less store by Washington events.

Trade news continues favorable for this season of the year. The automobile industry, the brightest spot in the picture, has fallen only mildly this summer and is preparing for one of its most active autumns. Larger crops with higher prices, plus undiminished federal expenditures, and some increase in exports, have stimulated every industry connected with automobiles. The steel industry, instead of going through a bad summer slump, as was the case last year, has steadily lifted its operating rate. Last week the rate was placed at 44 per cent of capacity, unusually high for midsummer in a depression year.

Bond Committee Attacks Milwaukee Road Plan

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Plans for reorganization of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad company were assailed today by an independent committee for protection of the road's bondholders. The committee, of which J. H. Behrens, New York, is secretary, protested to the interstate commerce commission that the program submitted by the road's directors proposes a financial structure "which virtually insures that year by year the debt of the company will grow by leaps and bounds, and makes another receivership in a few years hence inevitable."

VAN SWERINGEN PLAN FOR 'MOP' ATTACKED BY INSURANCE GROUP

New York, Aug. 4.—[Special.]—The Stedman committee for $244,000,000 Missouri Pacific railroad bonds, which is opposing the reorganization plan proposed by O. P. Van Sweringen, president of the Alleghany corporation, fired its opening gun today with an announcement condemning the proposal. The committee had been formulating a reorganization plan of its own when Mr. Van Sweringen disclosed his last week.

The committee represents the Missouri Pacific's 5 per cent mortgage bonds, series A, F, G, H, and I, and is headed by John W. Stedman, vice president of the Prudential Insurance company. These securites are largely held by insurance companies, savings banks, and other fiduciary institutions, whose investments in them have been "frozen" since the Missouri Pacific entered bankruptcy in June, 1933.

The committee charges that Van Sweringen's plan unduly favors the holders of Missouri Pacific stock, of which the Alleghany corporation owns a majority. Van Sweringen pledged a majority of the Alleghany corporation's stock for a $48,000,000 bank loan which went unpaid when it matured on May 1. In their broadside, the committee denounced the Van Sweringen plan as "unfair to the holders of Missouri Pacific first and refunding bonds, unduly favorable to the present stockholders at the expense of the bondholders, and unsatisfactory in certain other respects."

Van Sweringen's plan would cut the Alleghany's holdings in the Missouri Pacific from a majority to about 40 per cent of control. Stedman's committee wants this cut to about 15 per cent.

FEES AND AUDIT REDUCE PRODUCE DISTRICT INCOME

Receiver Aaron J. Jones yesterday reported net receipts of $86,837 for the Chicago Produce District Trust in the two months ended July 14. The higher gross receipts, $103,111 were offset by the added cost of the audit and fees. The preceding two months showed gross of $92,699 and net of $86,224.

Jones was named receiver by Superior Judge Joseph Sabath on March 14 on petition of Samuel F. Gurman, attorneys for insurgent bondholders seeking the removal of the trustees who originally reorganized the property. These include the Chicago Title and Trust company, S. W. Straus & Co., S. J. T. Straus, Melvin L. Straus, Sidney H. Kahn, Henry R. Platt Jr., Hugh McLennan, B. K. Goodman, and A. J. Welsberg. Sabath's action has been upheld in Appellate court and the matter is awaiting a master's report.

The last two months under the trustees, ended March 14, showed gross of $95,779 and net of $86,742. The two years ended Jan. 14 showed a deficit of $23,723. The balance sheet shows total assets of $6,962,558 and $3,815,000 in outstanding first mortgage income bonds dated Jan. 15, 1933.

FDIC Reports Year's Profit of $4,716,409

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—The Federal Deposit Insurance corporation during the fiscal year ended last June 30 made a profit of $4,716,409 after paying all operating expenses and allowing for losses in 19 closed banks, Leo T. Crowley, corporation chairman, announced in his annual report today.

The FDIC closed its fiscal year with 14,279 of the country's 15,801 banks enrolled as members and with approximately 18 billion dollars of the 41 billion dollars on deposit in the member bank fully protected by the federal insurance.

Twenty-two insured banks, having total deposits of $3,758,000, have closed since the FDIC was formed on Jan. 1, 1934, according to the report, and of these 19 have been placed in liquidation. The FDIC, which insures up to $5,000 on each account, had gained $2,760,000 in these 19 banks, and 26,000 depositors found themselves protected for 99 cents on the dollar at least.

Assumes $2,760,000 Liability.

Although the FDIC had to assume a $2,760,000 liability in the 19 banks, it hopes to cut its net loss, including expenses, down to $1,568,053 by recoveries on the banks' assets, the report said.

The FDIC has allocated $1,508,558 of this estimated loss to its 1934-'35 fiscal year, and this item, plus $2,832,228 for operating expenses, constitues its total losses and expenses for the year. Against these debts the FDIC had a total income of $9,057,195, leaving it an excess of income, or a profit, of $4,716,409. During the entire 18 months of its life, up to June 30, the FDIC had a total income of $11,331,089, expenses of $5,667,703, losses of $1,568,053, and an excess of income amounting to $4,085,333.

Interest on government bonds and profits realized on bonds sold were the two sources of FDIC income. Net interest amounted to $7,735,867 and profits on bond sales to $1,321,319 during the 1935 fiscal year.

$333,936,634 Current Assets.

The FDIC had $315,080,010 invested in United States government bonds at the end of the fiscal year. Cash and accrued interest receivable made up the rest of its $333,936,634 in current assets. Various claims, furniture, and miscellaneous items brought the total assets up to $336,802,688, compared with $328,504,707 on June 30, 1934.

Member banks have paid it $41,461,326 in net assessments, the FDIC's balance sheet shows, and the remainder of its capital assets have come from the purchase of capital stock by the treasury department and the federal reserve banks.

A table showing that only 22 insured and 51 uninsured banks have closed, involving an aggregate of $40,000,000 in deposits, since the FDIC was created, was included in the report. In contrast the table showed that between 1921 and 1930 an average of 707 banks, holding $247,883,000 in deposits, closed each year.

Western Roads Report Sharp Drop in Revenues

New York, Aug. 4.—[Special.]—Reflecting crop and live stock conditions, the Association of American Railroads reported that the western railways had a drop of 77.4 per cent in net operating income in May.

OIL INDUSTRY SEEN IN GOOD CONDITION WITHOUT AID OF CODE

New York, Aug. 4.—[Special.]—After two months of operations without the benefit of the NRA petroleum code, leading executives of the oil industry generally consider the outlook good. Gasoline prices are higher than when the NRA codes were invalidated by the Supreme court at the end of May and, with the exception of some minor adjustments in one or two small producing areas, crude oil prices are unchanged.

Naturally, there was a certain amount of uncertainty following the invalidation of the NRA code, especially in the producing branch of the industry. Excepting California, however, where production increased from an average of 494,910 barrels in May to 556,962 in June, production has been held pretty well in check.

The Oklahoma corporation commission, which supervises oil production in that state, has reduced the allowable production for August by 7.5 per cent, and the Texas railroad commission has ordered a sizable reduction in that state. The overproduction in California also is being rapidly corrected.

In the principal producing states east of the Rocky mountains the various state commissions charged with enforcing the proration orders are said to be functioning as well as, if not better than, the federal board in keeping production within the quotas. The production of "hot oil" in the east Texas area is estimated at no more than 40,000 barrels daily. In October, 1934, when the federal government had charge of enforcement, "hot oil" production in the east Texas area amounted to about 113,000 barrels daily.

OIL LEADERS AWAIT WHITE HOUSE PARLEY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—(AP)—The oil industry tonight awaited result of a White House conference tomorrow to see whether the administration would seek to regain some of the powers lost with abandonment of the petroleum code.

Called in by President Roosevelt were Secretary Ickes, oil administrator; Chairman Rayburn [Dem., Tex.] of the house interstate commerce committee; Representative Cole [Dem., Md.], head of a subcommittee studying the oil situation, and Representative Disney [Dem., Okla.], who with Senator Thomas [Dem., Okla.] backed a rigorous measure now abandoned.

Disney said today that if the conference decided in favor of a measure drafted by Cole which is now under study by Mr. Roosevelt, house action might be obtained this week. He explained that the full committee probably would approve the measure without hearings and that early floor action was possible because no major bills were in prospect immediately after disposal of the tax bill.

A. Homer Smith to Retire as Sharp & Dohme Head

Sharp & Dohme, manufacturing pharmaceutical chemists of Philadelphia, yesterday announced that A. Homer Smith will retire as president on Oct. 1. He will be succeeded by John S. Zinsser of New York. Smith has been president for several years and he has been connected with the company for twenty-seven years.

British Money in Circulation at New Peak

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Money in circulation reached a new high record last week of $2,041,305,285. The highest previous record was last Christmas when the total reached $2,025,819,000. England is now on the eve of the August bank holiday and this jump in circulation unquestionably is symptomatic of better conditions among consumers. Another cheerful note of last week was an intimation from the ministry of labor that forthcoming figures on unemployment at the end of July will be below 2,000,000 for the first time since July 28, 1930.

However, contradictions run through the economic picture. Unemployment is down, but the number of people on public relief—as distinguished from the dole—is up to a new level. The Financial Times index of wholesale commodity prices is stable at 99.4 for July, exactly where it stood in July, 1934, but the constituents of that index are mixed, with meat, despite the ministry of agriculture's incessant labors in behalf of the farmer, falling from 97.2 to 91.8, and textiles and other cotton, chiefly weighted by wool, on whose behalf no special efforts have been made, rising from 93.5 to 102.6.

Outlook Cheerful on Surface.

On the surface the outlook is cheerful. Some investments in government stock have been worrisome, but there have been no runs on banks, prices of the staples have not notably soared, and the only queues visible are those outside theaters and the All-England Tennis club at Wimbledon.

The British Iron and Steel federation this week signed a five year agreement with the international steel cartel by which the latter reduces very sharply exports of steel to the United Kingdom.

In 1927 this country imported 4,406,000 tons of steel. Over the next five years it will import annually only 525,000 tons. However, the British Iron and Steel federation in return is expected to organize itself far more completely than it has been able thus far to do and there is a clause in the agreement that the whole deal is off if it does not complete this internal organization before the end of the year.

Steel Shares Strong.

However, steel shares are strong on the general expectation that everything will go through smoothly.

Italian circles in London have been intensely annoyed at the statement in the financial press that they have been pressing for loans in London and have been refused. They deny it. It is quite true that the Italian government probably has not sought a loan, but there is no reason to question the correctness of the report that loans have been sought in behalf of influential Italian importers.

One report said the security offered was the combined credit of several of the biggest Italian industrial concerns. But oratory from a gun carriage does not inspire London bankers with confidence and it is understood that even first class Italian acceptances are not being renewed. The Italians are now turning to Paris where it is rumored they are seeking credits up to $115,000,000.

OVER 5 BILLION U. S. SECURITIES MATURE IN YEAR

New York, Aug. 4. — [Special.] — Obligations of the United States government in the hands of the public which will mature within twelve months amount to $5,334,433,500. They consist of treasury bonds, notes and non-interest-bearing discount bills.

The Fourth Liberty 4¼s outstanding, which have been reduced to about $1,278,000,000 through successive redemptions, are now called for payment on Oct. 15.

STEEL OUTPUT RISES 2 POINTS TO 47 PER CENT

Gain Made Despite Adverse Factors.

Steel mill operations rose 2 more points to 47 per cent of capacity last week due to a continued heavy demand from agricultural equipment makers, machinery manufacturers, and other durable goods producers, according to the magazine Steel.

The improvement was especially favorable inasmuch as automobile assemblies dropped during the week and support from new construction and the railroads was relatively light. Car assemblies for the week were down 13,000 units at 70,000, and automobile makers generally are making final purchases for current models, production being prolonged on these models because of the brisk retail demand.

Operations Higher Here.

Operations gained 3 points to 52 per cent in Chicago, 4 to 53 at Youngstown, 2½ to 31½ in eastern Pennsylvania, 6 to 54 at Cleveland, and 3 to 76 in Wheeling. In New England output was 7 points lower at 25 per cent. Pittsburgh held at 41 per cent and others were unchanged.

Operations for July averaged 40.1 per cent, including estimates for the last few days of the month, compared with 40.3 per cent in June. In only one year since 1919 did the July daily average output exceed that of June, the journal says. This year was 1928.

Daily average pig iron production in July was 5.6 per cent less than in June, amounting to 49,033 gross tons. The total for the month at 1,520,016 tons was 2.4 per cent below June. Output during the first seven months of the year was 11,349,950 tons, or 2.4 per cent higher than in the corresponding period of 1934. A net gain of one stack was shown during the month, the total on July 31 being 92.

Sheet Output Increases.

Full fashioned sheet production last week rose 15 points to 55 per cent, while black and galvanized sheet output held at 58 per cent and tin plate production at 90 per cent.

By substituting "may" for "must" the PWA has removed a principal objection to its original order which stated that foreign steel must be used in PWA projects where the price was 15 per cent lower than the domestic market, according to the review.

Base prices on steel are strong, the journal continues. Leading producers have issued a new card of extras for commercial steel bars, effective Aug. 10, for this quarter, "to bring them more nearly in line with present manufacturing costs." The magazine's iron and steel price composite has increased 4 cents due to a rise in scrap.

CHICAGO CANNED FOOD HOUSES GET LOWER RATE

Distributors of canned food products in Chicago and other middle western cities are assured material savings through the success of the Chicago Association of Commerce and other business organizations in prevailing upon southwestern railroads to eliminate emergency surcharges on consignment to Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, and Texas.

The Association of Commerce announced yesterday that the reduced rates will probably be effective Sept. 1, amounting to from 1 to 5 cents a hundredweight. The larger saving is anticipated on a majority of shipments.

The surcharges were introduced last year, increasing costs on shipments of more than 200 miles. The 5 cent top charge was added on consignments for cities at or beyond a 450 mile radius of Chicago.

Protective Committee for

Missouri Pacific Railroad Company

First and Refunding Mortgage 5% Gold Bonds

Series "A", "F", "G", "H" and "I"

On July 31, 1935, a Plan of Reorganization for the Missouri Pacific Railroad System was filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission on behalf of Missouri Pacific Railroad Company, New Orleans, Texas & Mexico Railway Company and International-Great Northern Railroad Company, Debtors. The undersigned Committee is strongly of the opinion that this Plan is unfair to the holders of Missouri Pacific First and Refunding Mortgage Bonds, unduly favorable to the present stockholders at the expense of the bondholders, and unsatisfactory in certain other respects. The Committee intends to vigorously oppose this Plan. Under the law, the Committee may file a plan of its own and it will be prepared to do so when and if such action seems desirable.

In order that the Committee's position may have greater weight and be more effective, holders of Missouri Pacific First and Refunding Mortgage 5% Bonds who have not already deposited their Bonds with the Committee should do so promptly. Such deposits will be accepted by either of the Depositaries below-mentioned.

Further information in regard to the Debtor's Plan is contained in the Committee's circular letter, copies of which may be obtained upon application to the Secretary of the Committee.

TRUCK ROUTING POLICY OF STATE BODY AWAITED

View Willett Application as Test Case.

BY HAL FOUST.

The policy of the Illinois commerce commission in establishing routes for common carrier trucks through cities and villages may be determined with a decision on a petition of the Willett company for a certificate of convenience and necessity to operate seven different branches through more than 150 Chicago suburbs.

North shore towns combined to fight the petition, which asked permission to move trucks over Sheridan road and other streets of substantial residences. Officials of the villages are now suggesting an alternative route for the truck line that would send most of the trafic over Skokie road, with the freighters switching into the lake front towns only where service is required.

Wants Policy Established.

"We hope this new routing will be adopted," said Howard F. Bishop, attorney for the North Shore Property Owners' association, "and in so doing, the commission will establish a policy of protecting rather than menacing the residential character of suburbs in Chicagoland.

"This is in the nature of a test case. It will determine whether the commission, in exercising its authority to regulate common carriers under the public utilities act, will recognize the detrimental effect of truck trafic on all residential property and some business property abutting the freight routes."

The question of home rule is also involved: shall local governmental agencies be able to prohibit trucks from certain thoroughfares or shall the state commerce commission dictate?

Scores of Trucks.

Scores of trucks now are operating throughout metropolitan Chicago, Bishop said, but the commission has no authority to restrict those that are running on a contract basis. Motor freight truck lines if now operating as common carriers without certificates, could be compelled to desist, the lawyer declared, but to date, neither local officials nor the commission have exercised this authority.

The Willett company which is partly owned by the Pennsylvania railroad, filed its petition over two years ago. The taking of evidence has been closed, but no decision has yet been reached.

Shell Pipe Line.

Investors' Guide: Please give me general information concerning Shell Pipe Line 5s, due 1952. What is this company? Thank you.—B. M.

Answer: Shell Pipe Line corporation is a subsidiary of Shell Union Oil corporation. Its pipe line system transports practically all of the parent company's crude oil.

Earnings record is quite favorable. It covered fixed charges by wide margins each year for the last seven years, even though at times the oil industry as a whole has been in a somewhat chaotic condition.

During the first quarter of 1935 it earned a profit of $1,601,000 after all charges, against $2,472,000 for the first quarter of 1934. Fixed charges were earned 7.53 times in 1934, 9.05 times in 1933, and 9.90 times in 1932.

Current position at the close of 1934 appeared ample for the company's needs.

There are outstanding $24,170,500 of sinking fund debentures due 1952. These are guaranteed by Shell Union Oil corporation. The bonds are considered sound. They are callable at 102½ until Nov. 1, 1937, the call price decreasing as maturity date approaches.

Seton Leather.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly give me some information as to Seton Leather? All the information you can give me will be appreciated.—Mrs. W. E. N.

Answer: Seton Leather company is a $800,000 manufacturer of patent lether and other special lethers, used chiefly in manufacture of shoes. Its plant is in Newark, N. J.

The company has operated at a profit in ten of the last eleven years, although earnings in the last few years were modest, with 1932 showing a loss. Net income in 1934 was $21,000, or 22 cents a share, against $47,000, or 48 cents a share, in 1933. Loss in 1932 was $115,000. Net income in 1931 was $10,000.

At the close of 1934 current assets totaled $709,000 and current liabilities were $81,000. Nothing has been paid on the 96,000 shares of no par capital stock since November, 1931. There is no funded debt.

Caribel Mining and Milling.

Investors' Guide: Can you give me the address of the company that issued stock of Caribel Mining and Milling company, incorporated under the laws of the state of New Mexico? My husband died. I have paid all debts and every one is agreeable that the stock be transferred to me.—Mrs. R. C. T.

Answer: Caribel Mining and Milling company once had an office at Red River, N. M., but went out of business in 1916. We, therefore, regard the stock as valueless.

Since the company is out of existence it would be impossible to transfer the stock on its books.

STEADY UPTURN STAGED IN BONDS; NEW HIGHS MADE

Activity Closely Mirrors Stock Market.

New York, Aug. 4.—(AP)—A slow but steady recovery movement kept the corporate bond market pointed upward during most of last week. Following closely the general pattern of the stock market, industrials and utilities were the star performers. The former group established new 1935 highs three times during the week and the latter group twice. Continued easy money conditions and active speculative interest were two important factors supporting the rise.

Rail Bonds Advance.

Railroad bonds were content to plod along at reduced speed, but most of the active issues ended the week with upturns. There was little in the way of news to affect this group and trading was orderly. High priced bonds idled away the time without getting anywhere in particular. Most of these issues are already so high that yields are generally unattractive to any but the most conservative type of investor looking for security of principal above every other consideration.

Extreme apathy in the market for such type of bond is generally the rule when speculative fires burn brightly and secondary loans enjoy popularity.

An outstanding feature of trading was sharp swings up and down in Italian government and municipal bonds which followed with extreme precision each development in the conflict between that country and Ethiopia.

French Issues Slump.

A sinking spell in French government bonds also gave the foreign division a case of jitters during the middle of the week when a small block of the 7s were offered at the market and open bids were spread out some 2 points below the previous sale. Observers attached no special significance to the incident in view of the small amount of bonds involved.

The closing week of July and the first few days of August witnessed a still further dwindling of trading interest in bonds of the United States government. In most sessions turnover was considerably less than $1,000,000 and the great majority of this small amount of business was concentrated in the treasury 2¾s and indirect obligations.

Fluctuations were too small to establish a definite trend for the week as a whole. The 2¾s settled down close to the figure the government obtained for the latest block of $106,000,000 in these bonds "auctioned" off earlier in the week.
